Kennedy Is Termed In 'Good Condition'

Sustains Broken Back In Crash

Plane's Pilot And Aid Are Killed; Two Others Injured

NORTHAMPTON, Mass. (AP) — A team of medical specialists Saturday termed Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., who suffered a broken back in a plane crash Friday night, in "good condition" and eliminated the possibility of any paralysis.

The doctors from Washington's Walter Reed Hospital flew into Northampton on President Johnson's Air Force One jet and made an extensive examination of the 32-year-old brother of the late President John F. Kennedy.

Kennedy was hurt in the crash that killed the plane's pilot and Kennedy's administrative aide in an apple orchard near Southampton, Mass.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and his wife also were injured in the crash but both were termed in good condition with lesser injuries.

Dr. Charles W. Metz, an orthopedic surgeon at Walter Reed, said it was possible that Kennedy would need surgery, though this was not definitely determined. He said the period of recovery would be from six to eight months.

The doctors, ordered to Kennedy's bedside by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, said one of the three vertebrae broken in Kennedy's back—the third lumbar vertebrae in the lower back—was split in half and "displaced some degrees sideways."

But the injury, the doctors said, apparently had not damaged the spinal cord and Kennedy had free movement of arms and legs.

The doctors said Kennedy was in "good humor" during the afternoon's examination but had complained of severe abdominal pains earlier. This caused some concern but they said it was established that Kennedy was not bleeding internally.

Metz said the broken vertebrae "created an unstable medical situation" causing the firm outlook for a long recovery period.

Dr. Paul Russell, a consultant called from Boston's Massachusetts General Hospital, said it would be some time before Kennedy could be removed from Cooley-Dickinson Hospital.

Kennedy received three pints of blood in transfusions and was given glucose intravenously, along with other medication.

"If it had not been for the attention the senator received," Metz said, "it could have been quite a different story." He complimented Dr. Thomas Corriden who supervised the early treatment.

Johnson Bids For Votes In California

LOS ANGELES (AP)—President Johnson bid for the votes of Southern California's many oldsters Saturday night by outlining "a new charter of opportunity for older Americans."

It includes, among other things, he said, medical care through Social Security "to help 17 million Americans meet the crushing costs of hospital care," high quality medical services through renovation and construction of hospitals, increased Social Security benefits, and an expanded housing program.

Calling for "national unity, for an end to differences and division, to rancor and reproach," Johnson said in a speech at a fund-raising dinner:

"We must now work to show the American people that our test of greatness will come not from open conflict between fellow citizens, not from the ambitions of our neighbors, but from the abundance which we must use to enrich the life of our nation."

Johnson listed these points as the goals of the "great society" he envisions:

—Elimination of racial injustice.

—Abolition of poverty.

—Removal of fear of the future.

—And to remain strong "while finding the path to peace."

Johnson carried his fund-raising, vote-wooing mission into Southern California by calling for revolutionary advances in education in a speech at Irvine.

In Irvine he dedicated a new campus of the University of California and envisioned an urban extension service, operated by universities across the country, which "will do for urban America what the Agricultural Extension Service has done for rural America."

In his speech for the fund-raising dinner here, he said a majority of the American people have essentially the same goals, harbor the same fears, hold the same hopes.

"If we can transform this unity of interest into unity of purpose there is no limit to the greatness within our grasp," he said.

"We intend to continue to seek a world where men and women are free from the fear of war.

"All our hopes for peace depend on the kind of society we can build in the United States," Johnson said. "And that in turn rests on our system of education.

"I do not intend for us to settle for an uneasy peace for the world — an inferior society for America—or an inadequate education for our children."

Johnson flew in from San Francisco where he all but announced officially his candidacy for a re-election.

$40,000 Loss Estimated To Granary

County Firemen Work 12 Hours To Control Blaze

A fire of undetermined origin did approximately $40,000 damage to a grain storage building and its contents on the Summers brothers farm, located about two and one half miles east of Sedalia on the Boonville Street Road Saturday. Pettis County Fire Chief Ralph Milburn stated that his department received the call at 7:35 a. m., but the neighbors related to him at the scene that they had seen smoke in the vicinity as early as 6 a.m., but had thought it was burning brush. One of the Summers brothers had arrived at the farm around 7 a. m. but did not realize the blaze was underway until the call was made to the County Fire Department.

Upon arrival, firemen found the building completely engulfed in flames and another building nearby was beginning to burn. They successfully extinguished the near-by building with only slight damage resulting.

The contents of the grain storage building included 10,000 bushels of corn, a quantity of wheat, a 1961 Dodge truck, a grain dryer, tractor, an elevator system and numerous items. All were either completely destroyed or partially damaged. The loss was only partially covered by insurance.

County firemen spent nearly 12 hours fighting the blaze and in the process they hauled approximately 4,000 gallons of water and pumped water from two nearby cisterns and a basement. A bulldozer owned by the Summers brothers was also used to fight the fire. Many of the neighbors assisted in the attempt to quench the flames.

Milburn related that the situation was complicated by the fact that each time burning timbers would fall, grain would ooze out around the timber and add to the fuel of the flame.

57 Dead In Crash Of Airliner

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—The crash on takeoff of a Nationalist Chinese airliner killed 57 persons Saturday night. U.S. sources on Formosa said 20 Americans were on board.

U.S. officials said the Americans included eight service men and four dependents. Airline officials said their identities would not be released until their next of kin had been notified.

Police said the twin-engine aircraft crashed near the village of Shenkang (Divine Hill) about 12 miles from Fengyuang on the final leg of a flight from the Pescadore Islands in the Formosa Strait to Taipei.

It was Nationalist China's worst air disaster and the first passenger plane crash for Civil Air Transport (CAT), the Nationalist Chinese airline founded in 1946 by the late Gen. Claire Channault, leader of the famous Flying Tigers of World War II.

CAT officials said everyone aboard perished. They said the total of those aboard numbered 57, not 53 as reported previously.

A Malaysian millionaire, his wife and six aides from a Malaysian movie firm also were reported aboard. They were in Formosa for a film festival.

Reports reaching here from Taichung, last stopping place of the plane, said the plane exploded. There were conflicting accounts, however, some saying it blew up in the air and others that it exploded upon crashing.

Lewis Elected Commander Of Legion Post

E. Glenn Lewis was elected commander of Pettis County Post 16, American Legion, at the regular meeting of that organization at the new Legion Hall, 16th and Thompson.

Other officers elected were: Frank B. Piper, first vice-commander; Leo Twenter, second vice-commander; B. J. Roaekohr, chaplain; Charlie King, sergeant at arms; Roy Wills, service officer; T. O. Haggard, adjutant and finance officer.

Delegates and alternates were elected to attend the department convention to be held in Kansas City July 24, 25 and 26. Frank B. Piper will be chairman of the delegation and T. O. Haggard secretary.

Third Freedom Forum

MEXICO, Mo. (AP) — About 220 state high school students were expected to arrive Sunday for the third annual Missouri Freedom Forum.

The forum is held on the campus of the Missouri Military Academy at Mexico, Mo. The five-day citizenship study is sponsored by the military academy, the Missouri Farm Bureau Federation and the state Chamber of Commerce.

300 Persons Suffer From Heat At Parade

LAKE GEORGE, N.Y. (AP)—About 300 persons were overcome by heat and collapsed Saturday at the end of a volunteer firemen's parade in this Adirondack Mountain resort.

Ambulances, fire trucks and a school bus took the most seriously ill to Glens Falls Hospital, about nine miles away. Others were treated in a first-aid headquarters at the Lake George Central School, in an emergency squad headquarters and in private homes.

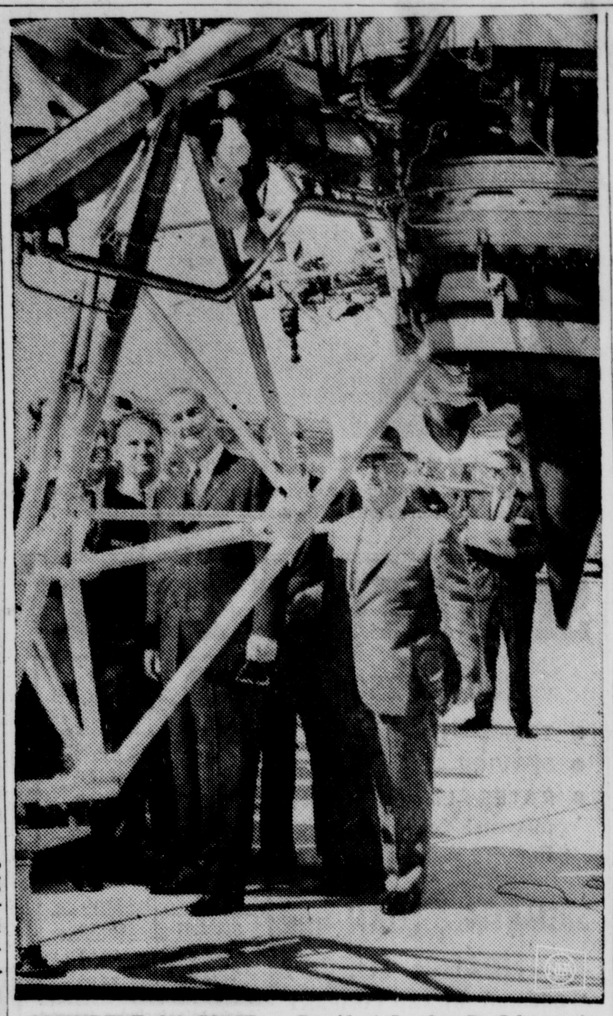

At the height of the heat epidemic, patients lay on the hospital lawn and in corridors, while others waited in ambulances.

Boy Is Killed

ST. LOUIS (AP)—A four-year-old boy was killed and his six-year-old sister was injured Saturday when a car hit them on a St. Louis street.

Dead is Stacy Andrews. His sister, Mary Ann, is in serious condition at City Hospital Two with possible head injuries.

Police said the accident occurred when the two ran into the street near their home.

For Second Three Months

Council Extends Peace Force Life

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—By unanimous vote, the Security Council Saturday extended the life of the U. N. peace-keeping force in Cyprus for a second three months through Sept. 26.

The five-nation resolution with that effect won the approval of 11 council members on a show of hands in the midst of a 35-minute meeting.

Less than 200 onlookers watched as the resolution was declared adopted at 11:03 a.m. in the climax to a three-day debate on Secretary - General U Thant's report of last Tuesday recommending the extension as necessary to forestall new conflict.

Bolivia, Brazil, the Ivory Coast, Morocco and Norway sponsored the proposal. Britain, Nationalist China, Czechoslovakia, France, the Soviet Union and the United States joined them in voting for it.

The force was set up to prevent new fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots and help restore normal conditions in Cyprus.

It became operative March 27 for three months ending June 26. It numbers more than 6,400 troops and police from nine countries — Australia, Austria, Britain, Canada, Denmark, Finland, Ireland, Sweden and New Zealand.

In a document issued before the meeting, Thant explained that he would need $7,300,000 in voluntary contributions to help pay for a second three months "on assumptions that the force will remain at approximately its present size and composition."

Hitchhiker Remains In Serious Condition

MOUNT VERNON, Ill. (AP) —A Sikeston, Mo., hitchhiker remained in serious condition Saturday after he was struck by a train near here.

Illinois state police said Scott Alexander, 44, was sitting near the Louisville & Nashville Railroad tracks when a freight train operated by W. R. Woodward of Evansville, Ind., struck him early Saturday.

Alexander was taken to Good Samaritan Hospital where his right arm was amputated. He also suffered a skull fracture.

Alexander told police he must have fallen asleep beside the tracks. Woodward said the train could not be stopped in time to avoid the accident.

Opponents Aim At Holding Back Bill

May Use Old Table

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP)—Gov. John N. Dempsey suggested Saturday that the table on which Abraham Lincoln signed the Emancipation Proclamation be used by President Johnson to sign the 1964 civil rights bill.

Goldwater Looks To South, West

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican Sen. Barry Goldwater looks to the South and the West as the bases from which he hopes to pull the votes for victory over President Johnson next November.

His civil rights stand plus his conservatism form the basis for his Dixie strength while conservatism and geography help him in the West.

Goldwater, front runner in the race to head the GOP ticket against Johnson, concedes it will be a long and uphill battle.

But even if he cannot win, Goldwater is known to feel his candidacy would serve the nation—by forcing Johnson toward a more conservative approach and by answering the question of whether conservatism is a valid force in American politics.

Goldwater's Republican foes, gathering behind Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton, insist that the Senator would not only lose to Johnson—they say he would drag other candidates to defeat.

But Goldwater insists he is the only Republican "who has a ghost of a chance" of ousting Johnson. Goldwater says only he could capture for the GOP the votes of Southern states, of conservative bastions in the Midwest, of the Southwest and Rocky Mountain states.

"You add them up and things don't look bad," says Denison Kitchel, Goldwater's campaign director.

Goldwater strategists insist the senator could add to his column a handful of the big states that hold much of the balance of electoral power. Two they mention are Ohio and Illinois.

One they concede is an unlikely spot for a Goldwater victory is New York.

Underlying the Goldwater camp's general election hopes are these two factors:

1. Goldwater's contention that before November, Johnson's popularity is going to wane, especially among some Southerners and some conservatives. "If things go as I think they're going to go, I think Lyndon Johnson is not going to be 12-feet tall" when the campaign is over, Goldwater has said.

2. The explosive civil rights situation, its impact in the South and its backlash in the North. "This civil rights thing may be the key to the whole thing," says one Goldwater adviser.

House Leaders Confident Of Bringing Final Vote

WASHINGTON (AP) — Southern opponents of the civil rights bill aimed Saturday at holding off its inevitable final passage by the House as long as possible.

They would like to prevent action before the House recesses July 3 for the Republican National Convention, but House leaders of both parties are confident of bringing the bill to a final vote in eight to 10 days.

Senate passage of a bill differing from the one voted by the House put Rep. Howard W. Smith, D-Va., chairman of the House Rules Committee and an unyielding foe of the bill, back in temporary control of the situation.

But the overwhelming bi-partisan support for the measure and the desire of Republicans to have the House shut down a week before their convention begins in San Francisco July 13 leave Smith little room for maneuver.

Under House procedures the Rules Committee must approve a resolution calling for the House to accept the Senate bill if it is to be voted on without amendments. Smith's main weapon, as chairman, is to delay scheduling a committee meeting to act on the resolution.

However, a bipartisan majority of the committee is prepared to bypass Smith, as the rules provide, and schedule a meeting itself if Smith refuses to call on one before June 29. This was the tactic used to get a final vote on the 1957 civil rights bill.

The 290-130 vote by which the House passed its own version on Feb. 10, removes any suspense from the final act of the long, wearying drama of civil rights legislation this session.

The version passed Friday night by the Senate on a 73-27 roll call varies greatly in detail from that passed by the House but is so similar in substance that the House leaders have agreed to accept it as a whole.

As it stands, it is the most sweeping legislation in this field which has come this close to passage since the Reconstruction era of 100 years ago.

It was passed by the Senate only after that chamber, in a 71-29 vote on June 10, invoked cloture for the first time in a civil rights debate.

This action limited each senator to one hour's talk on the bill and all amendments, thus breaking the back of a Southern filibuster that had operated since March 9 when the House bill first was offered in the Senate.

The bill erects strong new federal barriers against racial bias in business places, and public facilities, sets up procedures to bar discrimination in hiring and union membership and provides for cutting off federal funds for public programs in which discrimination is practiced.

Eisenhower Agrees With Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said Saturday former President Dwight D. Eisenhower agrees with him that the United Nations Charter should be revised and the voting formula changed.

Goldwater, the leading candidate for the Republican presidential nomination, said in an interview recorded for the Mutual Broadcasting System's radio network that both Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dean Rusk support "a thorough discussion on the charter of the United Nations."

New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and other critics have accused Goldwater of wanting to take the United States out of the United Nations, particularly if Red China is admitted.

But Goldwater said, "I believe in the United Nations." He added, however, that some way must be found to revise the formula giving each individual nation a vote in the General Assembly. He said Eisenhower reminded him at a conference in Gettysburg, Pa., last Thursday that he had worked on this problem during his tenure as president.

The U.N. Charter provides for revisions by vote of two-thirds of the membership and unanimous approval by the permanent members of the Security Council, which includes the Soviet Union.

Goldwater said he has no hope "of ever seeing Russia agree to any changes that would react to the weakening of her present power, but I can't see any alternative to our trying."

"I say this because we have to face the realities of life," he said. "The chances of Red China coming into this organization grow every day. We are going to see shortly, in my opinion, the admission of an Afro nation to the Security Council.

"And when we do, without having taken steps to protect the Western world, the free world, from the voting strength in the General Assembly, for example, of the Afro - Asian neutralist, Communist bloc, I think we're headed for trouble, and I think the body itself will suffer."

Conceding it is difficult to base voting on population or wealth, Goldwater said he has no specific formula in mind.

Reminded that Russia and France are delinquent in their payments to the United Nations, Goldwater said he feels strongly about this.

"You either pay up or you don't vote," he said. "I think that the United States should stand up and make it very clear that we intend to invoke that part of the charter that denies voting of any nation in arrears."

Funnel Touches Down

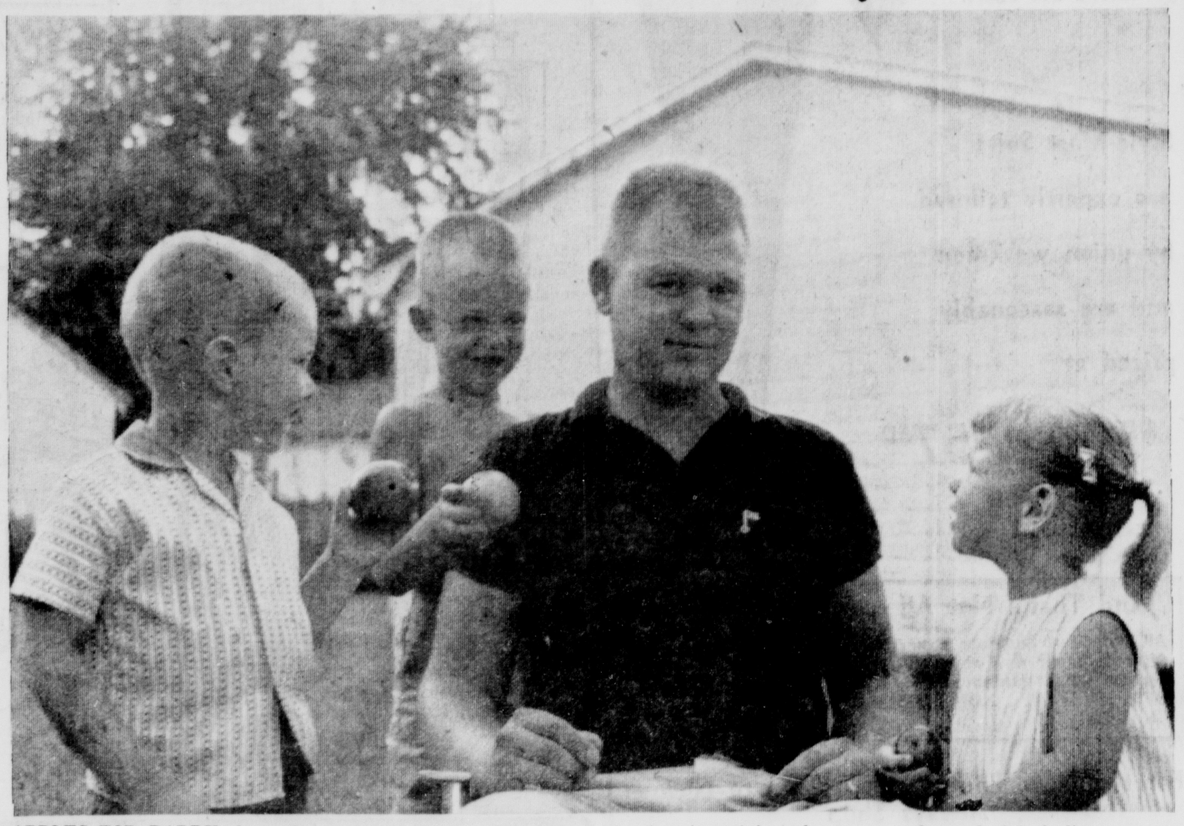

MARYVILLE, Mo. (AP)—At least one tornado funnel touched down near Skidmore about 12 miles southwest of Maryville Saturday evening as a severe thunderstorm crossed this northwest Missouri area, the sheriff's office said. Other funnels were sighted.

Residents of Skidmore reported by radio that the roof was ripped off a barn.

Heavy rain and hail hit Maryville. Hailstones measured from golf ball size up to three inches in diameter, and one citizen south of town found a few five inches in diameter.

Moderate hail damage was reported at the airport near the west edge of Maryville.

Treats for Dad On His Day

APPLES FOR DADDY, from the apples of his eye. Bill Bottcher, 2003 East 15th, is shown in the backyard of his home with his three little youngsters Terry Lee, 4, left; Scotty, 6, center and Teresa, 2, who is trying to convince him that her apple is really the juciest. Bill is at a disadvantage, he only has two hands and there are three apples being offered which one to take first is a problem he is trying to figure out — whatever he does is certain to be wrong and somebody's feelings are going to be hurt. Even accepting Father's Day gifts can put Dad on the spot and that is just where Bill was when the picture was snapped. How does he know—well—he's a dad and he has been in similar situations before, just like all dads who have more than one.

Ann Landers

Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: Your reply to "Daughter of Sorrow" was good. She was the girl who for years was beaten unmercifully by her mother. Through therapy the girl was able to forgive her mother instead of spending her life filled with hatred and bitterness.

Psychiatry isn't the only answer, Ann. My story was similar to hers — only worse.

I am 19 now, and the first nine years of my life were hell. Dad was the town drunk. I'm sure he turned to the bottle because it was the only way he could escape from mother's screaming and temper tantrums. My sisters and I lived in constant fear of beatings, filthy language and humiliation before friends.

When I was in the fourth grade I passed out in school. For 20 minutes I could not be revived. The principal and school nurse took off my blouse. They found welts and bruises all over my back. When they questioned me I told them everything.

The next day the police and welfare authorities investigated our home life. My sister and I were placed in a foster home and my father, with the help of a clergyman and A.A., straightened out. Mother was put in a mental institution where she died two years ago.

If children who are beaten by their parents would tell the school authorities they might not need psychiatric care later. Will you tell them, please? — SPARED

Dear Spared: I do tell them. Perhaps you are not aware that the advice which appears in the newspapers is only a small part of the service we give. Every week thousands of readers who send self-addressed stamped envelopes get personal advice in the mail.

I am aware that some kids exaggerate, and others make up stories out of whole cloth, but I always suggest that children talk to a favorite teacher or the principal if there is brutality at home. If the story is not true nothing has been lost.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a friend (?) who has been pulling a cheap little stunt for years and I am darned sick of it.

Whenever she owes me an invitation she invariably invites me for an evening when she knows I've been invited somewhere else.

I'm sure you'll say such clods could hardly be considered friends and they are not worth bothering with. Of course you are right, but please print my letter to let them know they aren't getting away with anything. Thank you. — X-RAY EYES

Dear Eyes: Here is your letter and I hope your sneaky acquaintance and others who pull such shenanigans will see it and realize that they are not putting anything over on anyone. You're welcome.

Dear Ann: Our son will be one year old in August.

My husband's parents had a bitter divorce several years ago. His parents have both remarried but they hate each other and make no bones about it. It is not possible to have them in the house at the same time.

I don't want to give two birthday parties for our son every year and yet I don't want to offend either set of grandparents. How should I handle this HOT POTATO? — D. P. T.

Dear D.: Draw straws for the first birthday party and let the losers come over the night before, for a cup of coffee and a cupcake with a candle on it.

Alternate from then on — invite one set of parents one year and the other set the next year.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Base Plans Gala Fourth Activities

Officials at Whiteman Air Force Base have announced that a gala fourth of July celebration is being planned for Whiteman personnel and citizens of the surrounding communities.

Activities are planned for the three day period from July 3 through July 5. These include a fishing derby at the lake on the base, sponsored by the Whiteman Rod and Gun Club. Prizes will be awarded. Also planned is a golf tournament at the Whiteman AFB golf course.

The highlights of the weekend will be a new car display sponsored by local car dealers. Some 20 dealers are participating and they expect to exhibit over 100 vehicles ranging from pick-ups and campers to sports cars.

On Saturday, July 4, the base is also planning sports events, including baseball and softball games with local community teams, carnival rides, and a mammoth fireworks display. The fireworks will start at 8 p.m. on Saturday evening and will last almost two hours. It is one of the largest displays planned in this area.

Following the fireworks, there will be an open air dance at the base tennis courts.

Refreshments will be available to all those attending the Whiteman celebration. The base cordially invites everyone from the surrounding communities to visit Whiteman AFB on Saturday, July 4, for an old fashioned Independence Day.

Accusation Made By Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Barry Goldwater accused Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton on Friday of "asking me to sell out my principles"—with the Republican presidential nomination as the payoff—by urging him to vote for the civil rights bill.

The Arizona conservative told his 11th-hour challenger for the GOP nomination that the public accommodations and fair employment titles of the measure are "clearly contrary" to "Republican regard for the Constitution."

"I believe as firmly as you do in the rights of our people, but I do not believe, as you evidently do, that we should threaten the liberties of all people, in cluding those we are now concerned with, in order to be able to say that we have legislated," said Goldwater, who announced Thursday his decision to vote against the measure.

Scranton wired the Arizona senator urging that he repudiate that stand. "Your views on the subject to date are opposite to the traditional Republican philosophy of equal opportunities for all, and it is of great importance to our party that you now change your views," the governor told Goldwater, the front-running GOP presidential contender.

In announcing he would vote against the bill, Goldwater said the public accommodations and employment sections "fly in the face of the Constitution."

Scranton promptly countered with an assertion that the vote will mean Goldwater cannot beat President Johnson next November.

"The overwhelming majority of people in America favor the civil rights bill," he said.

"Aren't you asking me to sell out my principles?" Goldwater asked the governor, "and aren't you, in effect, saying that unless I do, I will be punished by not receiving the nomination?"

As the storm swirled around his position, Goldwater was said to believe it will wind up as a standoff, costing him some convention votes but rallying other delegates to his cause.

Although an Associated Press survey gives him 677 delegate votes—more than enough for first-ballot nomination — Goldwater was said to feel he needs an insurance margin of about 100 delegates to be assured of the nomination.

Palm Sunday

The palms used on Palm Sunday are blessed in commemoration of Jesus' triumphal entry into Jerusalem on the Sunday before the Crucifixion, when His path was strewn with branches.

Bird Feathers

Feathers grow only in certain areas of a bird's body. Each kind of bird has a pattern of its own in which its feathers grow. Only kiwis and penguins have feathers evenly spread out over all parts of the body.

Eskimo Belief

Some Eskimos believe souls of the dead reincarnate themselves in newborn infants to protect them from harm and a parent should not punish a small child lest the spirit resent the interference. The spirit departs when the child grows old enough to take care of himself.

Washington Capsules

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

WASHINGTON (AP)—Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge has written from Saigon that he will not return to the United States in time for the Republican convention in mid-July.

The man he wrote to is Robert R. Mullen, national coordinator of the Committee to Draft Lodge for the GOP Nomination, who said Thursday, "I had urged him to come home and work for himself and he said he just couldn't. I had offered him nothing but blood, sweat and tears, and he replied that was all he had in Saigon."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Treasury sources said Thursday that the Mint has doubled production of Kennedy half dollars in the past few months. By June 30, 90 million of the coins bearing the likeness of the late President will have been minted—the amount originally planned for the entire year.

The new goal for 1964 is 150 million. Some officials believe almost all will be scooped up by collectors, souvenir hunters and speculators.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The ominous word from the Weather Bureau is that the odds are overwhelmingly in favor of an active hurricane season for the United States.

"No major hurricanes have crossed the coastline of continental United States for two years, but the odds against a third quiet season for this country are astronomical," the bureau said in a statement Thursday.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A telephone conversation between President Johnson and Premier Hayato Ikeda Thursday night inaugurated use of the first telephone cable stretching across the Pacific between the United States and Japan.

Their historic call spanned 10,000 miles, but came through with perfect clarity.

The cable, spanning the chasm of the miles-deep Pacific enables overseas operators in Tokyo to dial direct to most of the 91 million telephones in North America and Hawaii.

Similarly, operators at overseas gateways in Oakland, Vancouver and Honolulu can now dial direct to most of the 8.4 million telephones in Japan.

OBITUARIES

Harrison Rogers (Sedalia)

Harrison E. Rogers, Sr., 902 West 16th, died at the MKT Hospital in Parsons, Kan., at 9:30 p.m. Friday, where he had been a patient for the past week.

Mr. Rogers was born in Wakenda, Mo., Aug. 24, 1892, son of the late Charles Edward and Laura Engler Rogers. The family moved to Sedalia when he was 12 years of age where he was reared and educated. For more than 30 years he was employed at the MKT Railroad shops, retiring in March 1957. He was a member of the First Methodist Church, in which he had been active many years, and was a veteran of World War I and served with the American Expeditionary Forces in France at which time he was wounded in battle. In 1918 he was married in Sedalia to Margaret Virginia Russell, who died in July, 1941.

Surviving are one daughter, Mrs. Donald (Jessie) Trueman, 2402 Dennis Road; one son, Harrison E. (Ed) Rogers, Jr., Jefferson City; four grandchildren; one sister, Mrs. E. L. Overmier, 1518 South Quincy; and three brothers, Cecil Rogers Route 1; Lawrence Rogers, Seymour, Mo.; and Clarence Rogers, Kansas City.

One brother, Cleo Rogers, preceded him in death.

The body is at the McLaughlin Chapel where funeral services will be held at 2 p.m. Tuesday, with the Rev. Charles B. Cheffey officiating.

Burial will be in Memorial Park Cemetery.

Harry C. Sponcler (Kansas City)

Harry Clay Sponcler, 79, a retired farmer, who spent most of his life near Tipton, died at the family home in Kansas City at 12:20 a.m. Saturday. He had been in ill health 15 years.

Mr. Sponcler was born in Cooper County, March 7, 1885, son of John H. and Melissa Douglas Sponcler. He was married on Dec. 2, 1908, to Ida Rowe, who died a number of years ago. On Dec. 21, 1929 he was married to Kathleen Born, who survives, along with a daughter by his first marriage, Mrs. Herbert (Florence) Baker, Kansas City North, and a son, John Sponcler, Otterville.

Surviving, also, are four grandchildren, Ronnie and Marilyn Baker and George and John Sponcler and two brothers, George and John Sponcler of Spokane, Wash.

Preceding him in death were a brother, Will Sponcler and four sisters, Mrs. Sally Bull, Mrs. Delia Monks, Mrs. May Bull and Mrs. Cecil Caldwell.

Mr. Sponcler was a member of the extension department of the Southview Baptist Church in Raytown. Following his retirement from farming he moved to Kansas City 11 years ago.

The body is at the Richards Funeral Home in Tipton where funeral services will be held at 1 p.m. Monday, with the Rev. Byron Bush, pastor of the Raytown Southview Baptist Church, officiating.

Mrs. O. W. Kinnear will be soloist with Mrs. Stanley Palmer at the piano.

Pallbearers will be John Monks, Joe Anthony, Walter Klein, Ernest Nelson, Marvin Thomas and Truman Nelson.

Burial will be in Walnut Grove Cemetery, Boonville.

Opponents Are Subjects For Scranton

BOSTON, Mass. (AP)—Pennsylvania's Gov. William W. Scranton, aroused by a tumultuous welcome at the Massachusetts Republican State Convention, Saturday ripped into President Johnson's foreign policies and Sen. Barry Goldwater's civil rights stand.

Before and after a half-hour speaking appearance at the steaming Boston Arena, where he received the wildest welcome of his bid for the Republican presidential nomination, Scranton met with delegates from the Bay State, Rhode Island and New Hampshire.

His aim was to line up secondary support from delegates favorable to Henry Cabot Lodge, ambassador to South Viet Nam.

Scranton apparently accomplished most of what he set out to do, although he did not ask any of the state delegates specifically for their votes in the event Lodge drops out of the running in the early balloting at the GOP Convention in San Francisco July 13.

An Associated Press poll of the Massachusetts Delegation following Scranton's 90-minute meeting with them showed 18 of the 34 favoring Scranton after Lodge.

Three of the four Goldwater delegates said later they were impressed, but would not switch. A fifth delegate said he preferred Lodge first, then Goldwater.

Scranton apparently picked up three new backers among the Rhode Island delegation. Gov. John H. Chafee said after the meeting with Scranton he is confident the Pennsylvania governor will receive 12 of the state's 14 delegate votes on the first ballot.

Nine had said earlier they were in Scranton's corner.

J. Richard Jackman, chairman of the New Hampshire delegation, said Scranton is the second choice of the majority of the state's delegates.

The 14-member New Hampshire delegation was won by Lodge in a primary contest.

At the Arena, Scranton was introduced by Sen. Leverett Saltonstall who said "What he has done for (Pennsylvania), he can do for the nation."

Scranton preceded his prepared text on foreign policy with a compendium of remarks he has made against Goldwater and Johnson in the past week.

'Crime And Punishment' Meet Topic

"Crime and Punishment — 1964" will be discussed at the summer meeting of the West Central Division, Missouri Association for Social Welfare, to be held at the Missouri hotel in Jefferson City on Thursday evening, June 25, according to Miss Ara Morris, of Higginsville, Division Chairman. The meeting will get underway at 3 p.m. (CST) with a conducted bus tour of Algoa, followed by dinner at the hotel at 6:30 p.m. (CST). The meeting is open to the public.

Representative Peter J. J. Rabbitt, of the Ninth District, St. Louis County, and Chairman of the Joint Interim Legislative Committee on Correctional Institutions of the 72nd General Assembly, will be the feature speaker.

Joseph G. Majersky, Editor of the News-Tribune Publications in Jefferson City, and Chairman of the Cole County Board of Institutions, and Richard J. Chamier, attorney in Moberly, and a former State Senator, will discuss Mr. Rabbitt's presentation and talk from their own experiences in the corrections field.

Henry C. Salveter, attorney from Sedalia, and chairman of the West Central Division's Committee on Corrections, will introduce the speakers. The Rev erent Robert G. Herrmann, pastor of the Central Evangelical and Reformed Church, Jefferson City, will give the invocation. Mayor John G. Christy of Jefferson City will welcome members and guests.

The bus tour of the Intermediate Reformatory at Algoa will leave the Missouri Hotel at 3 p.m. and will be under the direction of Ray French, Superintendent at Algoa.

Arrangements for the meeting are under the direction of Mrs. Mary Kay Hunter, Sedalia, Program Chairman for the Division.

Reservations may be made with Miss Lillian Shults, Cole County Courthouse, Jefferson City, by mail, or by calling her at Jefferson City, 636-2912, Area Code 314. The cost is $2.75 per person.

We invite you to come and see our dignified display. You will be surprised at the low cost of a quality memorial to your loved one.

Accidents

Police investigated a car-house trailer accident on a private parking lot in the 1200 block of East Fifth at 4:12 p.m. Saturday.

Involved was a parked Kenshill house trailer owned by Daniel P. Lanelow, 1201 East 14th, and a 1952 Chrysler reportly driven away from the accident by Joe Ripley, 48, Route 4.

Ripley was charged with leaving the scene of an accident and driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages and is to appear in police court, June 22.

Damaged was the left rear side of the trailer and the rear of the Chrysler.

The intersection of Tenth and Kentucky was the scene of a two-car collision at 1:20 p.m. Saturday.

Involved were a 1963 Chevrolet, driven east on Tenth by Norma A. Tanner, 24, Kansas City, and a 1957 Chrysler, driven north on Kentucky by Loy Austin, Jr., 19, Route 1.

Damaged was the right front of the Tanner car and the left rear of the Austin car.

Dale Martin Warder, 24, Warrensburg, received a sprained back in a two-car collision two and one-half miles east of La-Monte at 2:30 p.m. Saturday on Highway 50.

Involved were a 1958 Mercury, driven east on Highway 50 and negotiating a left turn by Warder and a 1961 Mercury, driven east on Highway 50 by Edward Woodward, 25, 643 East 11th.

Warder was brought to Bothwell Hospital in a Parker-Moore ambulance and treated by Dr. Elliot T. Braverman. He was later released.

According to the investigation of Trooper R. W. Bruce, Warder was turning left as Woodward was attempting to pass him.

The Warder car was removed from the scene by Jenkins wrecker from Knob Noster and the Dresden Motor Service removed the Woodward car.

Police Reports

Sgt. Perry Franklin of the Sedalia Police Department recovered a 1955 black and yellow Ford which was reported as stolen Saturday. The car, owned by Bill Hanenkratt, was found near the intersection of 18th and Kentucky.

Police received the report at approximately 7 a.m. Saturday and were told that the car had been missing since after 1 a m. Saturday from 511 West Second.

Eugene Rothganger, Route 4, reported to police Saturday the loss of a brown billfold containing $8 and important papers. The loss reportedly occurred sometime Friday evening.

Ben Wombles, 1314 South Harrison, reported to police Saturday that someone had stolen his violin.

Mrs. Marjorie Moore, 1105 East 15th, reported to police Saturday that someone had entered her house and ransacked it. Nothing was reported as missing. According to the police investigation entry was gained by removing a screen from a window on the north side of the house.

Two Youths Are Apprehended For Drag Racing

Two Sedalia youths, who were reportedly ready to do drag racing on the Georgetown Road Friday night, got caught, but not until after they were chased by State Trooper Robert Bruce.

Bruce reported the two, Gary Lee Petree, 18, no address given, and Richard Keith Lybarger, 18, 906 West Fifth, were seen speeding north on the Georgetown Road by Bruce who turned his patrol car around and gave chase.

Petree was finally stopped just west of Georgetown on Highway H, and made to get into the patrol car with Bruce. Then they saw the other car returning and when the patrol car was seen, started to run, then hit for a gravel road and the chase circled west from Highway H and back south and then back east on a gravel road connecting with the State Fair Blvd., road.

As the car reached a "T" intersection the car spun and went into a ditch. Bruce was on the car almost immediately and took into custody Lybarger.

Both were held in the county jail over night and released on bonds of $1,000 Saturday morning to appear before Magistrate Frank T. Armstrong, Wednesday, July 1.

Ends First Year

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI, ending Saturday the first year since his election as supreme ruler of the Roman Catholic Church, praised the increasing development of the African continent and appealed that mankind benefit from space science without any discrimination.

The remarks were made during separate audiences Pope Paul granted to a group of native chieftains from Southern Rhodesia and to the participants in a congress of European space science.

Minor Earthquake

TOKYO (AP)—A minor earthquake shook some areas in northeast Japan early Sunday. The quake was not felt in Tokyo and there were no reports of damage or casualties.

The Central Meterological Agency said the epicenter of the quake was off Iwate Prefecture 24 miles under the Pacific Ocean. The strongest shock was felt at Miyako, about 290 miles northeast of Tokyo.

Communist Charges

TOKYO (AP) — Communist China charged that four U.S. fighter-bombers bombed and strafed the pro-Communist Pathet Lao headquarters of Khang Khay in the Laos Plaine des Jarres Saturday.

Can the US Afford Peace?

EDITOR'S NOTE — Forf 25 years defense spending has buoyed the American economy. A whole generation of workers has never known any other employment than making arms. If peace comes and defense spending drops, how can the shock be cushioned?

By BEM PRICE

WASHINGTON (AP) —Peace, it's wonderful! The question is: how much peace can the United States afford?

One thing appears clear:

If general peace broke out tomorrow — an unlikely prospect — the U.S. economy would undergo a horrible wrench in the absence of advance planning.

Prof. Emile Benoit, Columbia University economist, told a Senate subcommittee that sudden, all-out peace would, in the absence of planning, produce an economic depression which would add 4 to 8 million workers to the unemployed, now about 3.6 million.

While there is no immediate prospect of general disarmament, the economy still must face the question of what happens if there is a sharp cutback in defense expenditures, including those for atomic weapons.

Production of strategic weapons systems, such as missiles, has apparently reached a plateau and there are no plans for new, multibillion-dollar systems over the next five years.

Stanford Research Institute at Palo Alto, Calif., has estimated: "If, without developing new weapons systems, we just maintain what we have, including the arms of conventional forces, this would result in a reduction of $13 billion in defense funds." The defense budget is presently around $50 billion annually.

Though a sharp cutback in defense spending would be a personal disaster for many people, it would not necessarily provide the immediate relief from taxation many people seem to believe.

Many believe the money now spent on defense should be used to solve some of the nation's major problems, such as mass transportation, air and water pollution.

But without advance planning for the transition, the economy could have rough going for a time.

In the past 25 years the United States has spent over $500 billion in the name of defense. At present defense spending in all fields accounts for roughly 9 per cent of the Gross National Product — all income from all sources —which is currently estimated by the Department of Commerce at about $585 billion.

There are 6.7 million people, including those in the armed forces, working at defense in the federal government and in industry — about 9 per cent of the nation's entire work force.

J. Herbert Holloman, assistant secretary of commerce for science and technology, estimates the nation's total bill for research and development is $17 billion annually.

Of this amount, says Holloman, "$12 billion is spent for such national purposes as defense, space, atomic energy, health and less than $5 billion for the development of new products, processes and techniques."

In a statement to the senate subcommittee on employment and manpower, Prof. J.E. Ullman of Hofstra College, Hempstead, N.Y., said:

"The federal government now supports 59 per cent of all research by industry, 80 per cent of that in universities and, of course, conducts substantial work in its own facilities."

The Departmnet of Defense alone supports 46 per cent of all research and development carried on in the entire United States.

An abrupt cutback in defense spending easily might mean that the United States, instead of having a shortage of scientists and engineers, would have a surplus.

Ullman also made the point that blue collar workers, paid on an hourly basis, might make the transition to non - defense work more easily than the highly educated scientists and engineers.

Richard Morse, former assistant secretary of the Army for research, told subcommittee:

"We are developing a race of scientists and engineers who do not know the free enterprise system because they have lived only in the federal government environment."

Morse said most of the money spent on research was being spent with "companies which are totally incapable of doing anything commercially."

Before transitional plans can be made, Congress and government experts must know how the nation's manpower is employed and at what.

This is what the Senate subcommittee on Employment and Manpower, headed by Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., has been trying to find out over the past year and a half.

Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D. has introduced a bill which would establish a national economic conversion committee to study the problem of transition. The bill also would require defense industries plan their own conversion to non-defense work.

The Department of Defense—and the administration — is cool toward the McGovern proposal.

While the Defense Department is aware of disarmament problems, it takes the position that it does not want to become a giant public works agency.

Arthur Barber, deputy assistant secretary of defense for arms control, said in an interview.

"The real question is what we expect defense procurement in the next five years to look like and the only answer to that question is that we don't know.

"If there aren't any crises as there regularly have been in the past in Berlin or somewhere else — a major confrontation with the Soviet Union — it is logical to conclude that our defense spending will be somewhat lower."

New Political Thicket In Missouri

By Larry Hall
Associated Press Writer

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — A new political thicket has sprung up in Missouri in the wake of the U. S. Supreme Court's decision that both houses of a state legislature must be apportioned on a population basis.

Until that ruling last Monday, most Missouri authorities thought the state's 1945 Constitution set up an apportionment sysetm that was much more modern and equitable than other states. They argued no reapportionment was needed in Missouri.

But the Supreme Court's language seemed to be broad enough to cover Missouri as well as the other states where legislative apportionments were knocked out.

The high court said "the Constitution requires that a state make an honest and good faith effort to construct districts in both houses of its legislature, as nearly of equal population as is practicable."

In Missouri, the state Senate is made up of districts based on 1-34th of the total population, but a 25 per cent variation is allowed. The result is that the seven-county 29th district of the Ozarks in south central Missouri had 96,477 residents in the 1960 census. The average of the four Jackson county districts was 155,683.

The Senate is reapportioned every 10 years by a bipartisan commission appointed by the governor. If it fails to agree, candidates would have to run at large — something that hasn't happened since the 1945 Constitution was adopted.

The situation in the House is more sticky. There the representation is based on a formula using 1-200th of the state's population as a unit—but each county, no matter how small, gets at least one representative.

The result is that little Worth County, the smallest, has one representative for 3,936 people. But the 13th district in Jackson County, reportedly the largest, has only one representative for 53,015 people.

To put it another way, 82 counties with barely one-fifth of the population have the majority needed to pass a bill. The metropolitan counties have 57.9 per cent of the population but only 33. 1 per cent of the 163 representatives.

The immediate result of the Supreme Court decision was a rash of proposals either to adapt the ruling or get around it somehow.

One of them heard in Jefferson City was that Gov. John M. Dalton immediately appoint a commission made up of citizens and legislators to study the problem and come up with recommendations for the 1965 Legislature.

Secretary of State Warren E. Hearnes, seeking the Democratic nomination for governor, recalled he has been saying all along the urban areas need more representation.

He proposed repeal of the present constitutional provision on apportionment of the House, substituting a simple limit on the number of representatives and giving the Legislature power to set up a redistricting commission like the senatorial redistricting plan.

"We've got to live with the court's decision," he said, "and the sooner we get started at it the better."

Former Rep. William B. Ewald, seeking the Republican nomination for governor, suggested the federal constitution be amended to bar the Supreme Court from interfering with legislative apportionment.

"If the legislative power in Missouri is thrown into the hands of the city machines," he said, "all hope of good government in our state is gone."

Former Rep. A. Clifford Jones St. Louis County Republican running for the state Senate, said a House set up on a strict population basis would have 840 members. To avoid this "ridiculous and unwieldy situation," he suggested Missouri adopt a one-house legislative system similar to the Nebraska unicameral.

Jones said if he is elected he would introduce such a proposal in the 1965 session.

John H. Poelker, St. Louis city comptroller, suggested the situation might lead to a reduction in the number of the state's 114 counties through mergers.

Such suggestions always have met with bitter resistance on the part of the counties in the past. So have proposals for legislative districts of several counties as the basis for representation.

The state Chamber of Commerce started a campaign immediately to get Congress to offer a constitutional amendment which would allow states to continue using the "Little Federal" system if they wish—one house based on population and the other on geographical and other factors.

The 1963 legislature adopted a resolution sponsored by the National Commission on Constitutional Government proposing that the Supreme Court be barred from interfering with legislative apportionment.

Speaker Thomas D. Graham, D-Cole County, a member of the commission's board, introduced it and got it though the House as a "state's rights" measure. Sen. Jack C. Jones, D-Carrollton, sponsored it in the Senate.

Thirteen states approved the plan in 1963.

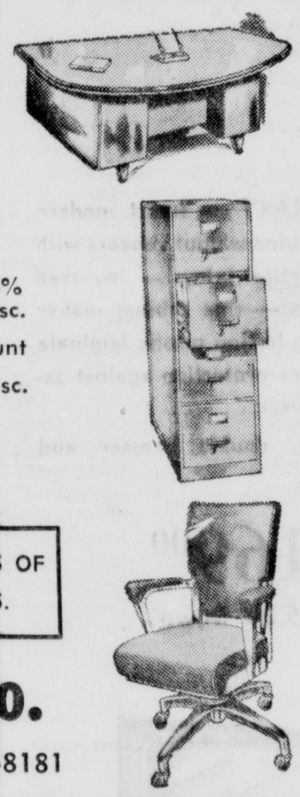

No one knows at this point what the outcome will be in Missouri. Only one thing is certain:

The 1965 legislative session has just inherited a set of thorny political problems. The result could be some of the most drastic governmental changes in the history of the state.

Giant Wake In Peace Effort

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP)—President Arturo Illia's No. 1 problem is how to make the warring factions of labor and management in Argentina happy before the military becomes unhappy and intervenes.

It isn't easy.

"Everyone comes here to cry," says Illia in his Casa Rosada—Pink House—office.

"No one comes here to give anything. Everyone is asking for something. Everyone is crying. It's beginning to look as if we are having a giant wake."

As a country doctor turned politician, he might put it this way: "The patient, Argentina, is not cooperating. It is neglecting its treatment."

To Illia this means his prescribed pill of peace and quiet isn't being swallowed as he works to complete a five-year plan that includes a $300-million to $500-million crash program of new industries and development in the first year beginning Nov. 1.

His own party, the People's Radical Civic Union, is split and causing as much confusion and trouble as the opposition to his eight-month-old government.

Leading the attack is the 2.5-million-strong General Confederation of Labor—CGT. Not far behind are industrialists, exporters, oil men, bankers and old-name landowners. Some are politicians, but most are not. Like labor, they have special interests, too.

Organized labor waited six months before launching its sit-down strikes and occupation of factories. In only four days of demonstratitons for more pay and lower prices some 4,000 plants and businesses were struck by 1.9 million workers taking part, boasts the CGT.

"They were nonviolent but we are not stopping," says Jose Alonso, CGT secretary-general. Labor threatens to take over every business and not leave the premises until their demands are met.

Forces loyal to exiled President Juan Peron spur the demonstrators to keep the agitation moving toward the key objective: political freedom as promised by Illia.

"Labor's tactics are subversive," cries the influential private enterprise lobby, ACIEL—Accion Coordinadora de las Instituciones Empresarias Libres. "It is an effort to overthrow the government."

"The CGT plan is a Marxist-Leninist scheme of subversion," says Gen. Alejandro Lanusse, commander of the nation's largest garrison at nearby Campo de Mayo.

Lanusse says the military will not intervene in the civilian-controlled government, but adds as an afterthought? "We guarantee the constitution and pledge to do our duty to prevent and contain whatever totalitarian force would surge forth in this country."

MODERN AMERICAN LIFE INSURANCE CO.
1000 West Sunshine, Springfield, Mo.
FIVE MONTHS' PROGRESS REPORT
Growth Alone Is Not Enough to Insure Profit for a Life Insurance Company

Presidents like growth. So do our Agency Vice Presidents, Board of Directors and Stockholders. It is a tonic to all.

Growth is great, wonderful, BUT, not enough.

No, growth alone is not enough. Growth must also be profitable. It is surprising, but true, that growth alone and profitable growth differ widely and may, in fact, have little in common. Growth alone is a short-term rocket, unable to sustain itself. It looks beautiful going up, but bursts and falls to the ground. In contrast, profitable growth is a long-term, self-sustaining, satisfying commodity.

Modern American Life Insurance Company is one of the very few new life insurance companies which is not only generated by rapid growth, but our greatest aim is to make our growth profitable.

The progress of Modern American Life Insurance Company, in both growth and profits, is reflected in our statement as of April 30, 1964, showing an increase in our assets of $151,003.84 with insurance written of $20,460,000.000 attained in only 22 weeks of operation — a record never before equalled by any Company. Written insurance as of June 1, 1964, is $26,345,000.00 in only 6 short months of operation.

This rapid growth in profits was brought about, not by accident, but by having a workable plan, and by working our plan.

WORLD'S LARGEST X-RAY—Run-of-the-mill X-rays are usually taken of chests, bones and other parts of the body. But the Eastman Kodak people have done something different. They've X-rayed a full-size Pratt & Whitney jet engine. The 15x6-foot radiograph was made by a high-voltage X-ray machine passing its beam through the jet engine onto strips of film, supported by plywood panels backed by lead shields. Objective of the big photo is to show the working parts of the engine. Both the X-ray and engine are on exhibit at the Kodak Pavilion of the New York World's Fair.

Daily Record

● Circuit Court

The city of Sedalia filed a motion in Circuit Court Thursday seeking a reduction in the amount of acreage owned by Earl and Helen Thomas to be condemned for the construction of a sewage treatment lagoon.

Since institution of the condemnation action the city has been permitted to make an accurate survey of the land, the petition notes, and it was determined the original description of the real estate was in excess of the actual needs for the treatment lagoon.

The tract secured from the Thomases was 30-acres at a price of $15,000. The motion for reduction would take about two acres off the 30 acre plot. No mention of a reduction in price was made.

Commissioners appointed by Circuit Court to appraise land involved in state highway construction on Highway 50 east of Smithton were given their oath and instructions Thursday.

Serving as commissioners are Clinton Muller, Carl Oswald and William Bunn.

● Accidents

Police investigated a two-car collision at 2:29 p.m. Friday at the intersection of Fifth and Washington.

Involved were a 1951 Chevrolet, driven west on Fifth by Harold Gene Lawson, 31, 726 East Fourth, and a 1956 Ford, driven south on Washington by Arthur J. Atkinson, 63, Route 2.

Damaged was the entire right side of the Lawson car and the front end of the Atkinson car.

Bryan Lutman, 48, of near Versailles, received multiple fractures to the ribs as the result of a tractor accident about 5:15 p.m. Friday.

According to reports the accident occurred as Lutman was working the tractor on an uphill grade about 4½ miles northwest of Versailles, and the vehicle turned over backwards pinning him underneath.

Lutman was brought to Bothwell Hospital in a Kidwell ambulance after being pinned under the tractor for nearly 30 minutes.

He was treated at the hospital by Dr. T. J. Hopkins and admitted.

● Magistrate Court

A charge of felonious assault against John E. Sanders, 37, Sedalia, has been withdrawn from Magistrate Court on request of the complaining witness, his wife, Mrs. Lillian Jenkins Sanders.

The matter had been scheduled for preliminary hearing in court Friday, but was withdrawn earlier in the week. Sanders' bondsman was discharged.

Robert R. Stapley, 19, Route 1, LaMonte, forfeited bonds totalling $110.50 in Magistrate Court this week on charges of exceeding the night speed limit by driving 110 m.p.h. in a 65 mile zone and passing on a hill.

The Stapley youth was arrested the night of May 31 by Highway Patrol Trooper R. W. Bruce on west Highway 50 after the trooper pursued him for about a mile beginning at Broadway and Limit. The trooper said he followed the youth's auto after being attracted by the engine backfire as he proceeded west.

Stapley had been scheduled to appear in court June 17, but instead forfeited his release bond which he had posted after being held overnight in the county jail.

Judge Frank Armstrong broke down the fine on the two charges in this manner: $64.50 plus costs of $10.50 for speeding and $25 plus costs of $10.50 for passing on a hill.

Lincoln Eugene Moody, 209 West Cooper, exceeding night speed limit, pleaded guilty and was fined $25 plus court costs.

Ronald Henry Johnson, Independence, exceeding day speed limit, pleaded guilty and was fined $25 plus court costs.

Lucy Elizabeth Praisewater, Kansas City, exceeding day speed limit, pleaded guilty and was fined $25 plus court costs.

Ralph Elledridge Jackson, of Whiteman AFB, failure to exercise the highest degree of care by following too closely, pleaded guilty and was fined $25 plus court costs.

Manley Woodson Walls, Independence, no trailer license, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 plus court costs.

Bert Everett Facklam, Kansas City, following too closely, pleaded guilty and was fined $25 plus court costs.

Kenneth Liston Park, Kansas City, expired vehicle license, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 plus court costs.

Finas James Gardner, Kansas City, exceeding day speed limit, pleaded guilty and was fined $25 plus court costs.

Achille S. Olivero, 1816 East Seventh, passing in face of oncoming traffic, forfeited a $35.50 bond.

Donald Eugene Walker, Ames, Ia., passing on a hill, forfeited a $35.50 bond.

Linda Lea Greer, 1510 East Fifth, no operator's license, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 plus court costs.

Dale Jackson Rhoads, Smithton, no muffler, pleaded guilty and was fined $5 plus court costs. Fine remitted by court.

William Ray Dennison, Kansas City, exceeding day speed limit, pleaded guilty and was fined $25 plus court costs.

Kenneth Wayne Warrington, Kansas City, exceeding day speed limit, pleaded guilty and was fined $25 plus court costs.

Floyd Dennis Evans, Kansas City, exceeding day speed limit, forfeited a $35.50 bond.

YUL'S COSTAR—The talented and versatile Janice Rule is excited about her new film, "Invitation to a Gunfighter," in which she costars with Yul Brynner. Reason for the excitement is that Janice feels the camera, dispels earlier conceptions that she was not pretty.

5-day Grace Period On Dog Licenses

City dog owners found lacking a license for their pet will have five days in which to obtain the tags or their dog may be picked up or a warrant issued for the owner's arrest.

The five-day period is noted on a form being prepared by personnel in the office of the City Clerk. Ed Arquitt, who will canvass Sedalia homes door-to-door during the next three months, will leave one of the forms with owners having unlicensed dogs.

The form states:

"Your dog license is now due and the city will allow you five days to have your dog vaccinated and the license must then be purchased. Failure to do this will result in your dog being picked up or a warrant will be issued for your arrest."

American forces invaded Upper Canada and British troops fought back by taking Detroit, Mich., in the War of 1812.

LODGE NOTICES

Sedalia Chapter 57, O. E. S. will hold stated meeting Tuesday, June 23 at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple. Recognition of June and July birthdays. Social session, Visiting members welcome.

Bill Preserves Framework

WASHINGTON (AP) — The civil rights bill passed by the Senate preserves all the framework of the House measure but contains more than 100 changes in details.

The Senate version is expected to be the one sent to President Johnson for his signature since House leaders have indicated the Senate revisions are acceptable to them.

These are the major provisions of the Senate bill:

Voting Rights—Title I

The 1957 and 1960 civil rights laws on voting rights are broadened in these ways:

The states would have to apply uniform standards to all applicants, immaterial errors would not count, a 6th-grade education would create a presumption of literacy, literacy tests must be in writitng and copies of the test and an individual's answers must be furnished on request.

If the attorney general finds a pattern of discrimination in voting exists, he or a defendant may obtain a court hearing.

Voting cases must be given highest priority.

Public Accomodations, Title 2

Establishments offering food, lodging, gasoline or entertainment must serve all persons without discrimination.

Also covered are barber shops within a hotel, and establishments which have one of the four types within them, such as a department store with a restaurant in it.

Any establishment must be open to all persons.

Proprietor-operated lodging houses with five rooms or less for rent and private clubs are exempt.

Individuals could bring injunction suits to enforce their rights under this title. The court could name an attorney for the complainant and authorize the suit without payment of costs. The attorney general could intervene in behalf of the complainant.

If the attorney general finds that a pattern of resistance to the title exists, he may file an injuncttion suit.

States which have public accommodations laws would be given 30 days to act on a complaint before a federal suit could be brought.

In states which have no such laws, the court may refer the case to the Community Relations Service established by the bill for a maximum of 120 days for an effort at voluntary compliance.

Public Facilities, Title 3

When the attorney general receives a complaint in writing and believes it meritorious, he may bring an injunction suit to desegregate parks, playgrounds, swimming pools, libraries and similar public facilities.

He must decide that the complainant is unable to bear the expense of the suit or that filing the suit would jeopardize the personal safety, employment or economic standing of the person.

Schools, Title 4

When the attorney general receives a complaint in writing and believes it meritorious, he may bring public school integration suits.

He must decide that the parents or the prospective student is unable to bear the expense of the suit or that filing the suit would jeopardize their personal safety, employment or economic standing.

Orders by a court or federal official to transport children to try to achieve a racial balance in schools are barred.

The U.S. commissioner of education is authorized to give technical help to school boards in preparing integration plans, to arrange for institutes to train school personnel in dealing with desegregation problems, to pay those attending such institutes and to make grants to school boards for local training of personnel and hiring specialists.

Rights Commission, Title 5

The agency's life is extended to an. 31, 1968.

It is authorized to investigate vote frauds in federal elections and to serve as a national clearing house for information on equal protection of the laws, in addition to its previous assignment to investigate civil rights violations.

Procedural safeguards are added for persons who might be involved in commission investigations. There must be 30 days advance noitce of hearings, all witnesses shall have the right to be represented by counsel and any person defamed by testimony shall have the right to produce evidence in reply.

Federal Aid, Title 6

No American, on grounds of race, color or national origin, can be excluded from the benefits of any program receiving federal aid. Funds must be cut off in case of a violation.

Federal agencies must hold a hearing before any funds are shut off, and must notify Congress 30 days before action is taken.

Employment, Title 7

Discrimination by an employer, union or employment agency because of race, color, religion, national origin or sex, is prohibited in the hiring, firing, promotion and job referral of workers.

A five-member Equal Opportunity Commission shall be named by the president to receive, investigate and seek to settle complaints of job discrimination. Complaints may be filed by an individual or a commission member.

In states that have their own fair employment laws, 60 days must be allowed for state action before a case can be filed with the federal commission. This would be extended to 120 days during the first year of a new state law.

If the commission is unable to obtain voluntary compliance, the complainant may file an injunction suit. The commission can recommend that the attorney general intervene on behalf of the complainant.

The court may appoint an attorney for the complainant and authorize the case to be filed without payment of fees.

Specific language is included to make it clear that racial quotas shall not be used in enforcing the title and that it is not intended to disturb merit or seniority systems.

The commission could be set up as soon as the bill becomes law, but the enforcement powers would not take effect for one year after the effective date of the act.

For the first year the enforcement powers are operative, businesses and unions with 100 or more employes and members would be covered. In the next year it would be 75 or more, the next year 50 or more, and after that 25 or more.

Statistics, Title 8

The Census Bureau is directed to compile registration and voting statistics in geographic areas recommended by the Civil Rights Commission, including a count based on race, color and national origin.

No person is required to disclose his race or political affiliatiton or how he voted.

Intervention, Title 9

The attorney general is authorized to intervene in any civil rights case brought under the 14th Amendment if he certifies it to be of general public importance.

Another provision states that a defendant who has sought removal of a state court suit to a federal District Court on the ground he would be denied his civil rights in the state court may appeal to the federal Court of Appeals a federal District Court order returning the case to the state court.

Community Relations, Title 10

Jury Trials, Title 11

Defendants in criminal contempt cases charged with violations of injunctions obtained under all titles of the bill except voting rights shall be entitlted to jury trials. For voting rights the 1957 law still applies. It provides a jury trial if the penalty exceeds 45 days in jail or a $300 fine.

Daily Record

● Circuit Court

Hadley C. Thomas charged with obtaining money and property by means of a no account check received a Circuit Court order Friday to be taken to the state hospital at Fulton for a psychiatric examination.

The charge stemmed from his alleged issuing of a check to the Patterson Department Store, Sept. 16, 1963.

Thomas is represented by James Durley.

Doris H. Angel was granted a divorce in Circuit Court Friday from William Angel.

Robert Wesner represented the plaintiff and James Durley represented the defendant in the suit.

A divorce was granted to Norma Hawkins from James Hawkins in Circuit Court Friday.

● Marriage Licenses

Douglas Norman Keith, Elsah, Ill., and Mary Alice McLaughlin, 500 South Grand.

Kenneth Dean Colyne, Route 1, Green Ridge, and Kathleen Mary Siegel, Route 3, Cole Camp.

George Edward Niedwiscky, Lakewood, N.J., and Sue Ann Sampson, 705 East 11th.

● Police Reports

Two windows at the Fitzwilliam Motor Company, 620 West Main, have been shot by a BB gun during the past week, it was reported to police Friday.

Dale Dirck, Route 4, reported to police Friday he lost a brown billfold in the downtown area about noon Thursday. The wallet contained $10 and various cards and papers.

Two guns, a .22 cal. rifle and a .410 shotgun, were reported to police as stolen Friday. The guns were reported as missing from the R. C. Stratton residence, 115 East Jackson.

Mrs. Stratton, in reporting the theft, stated that the guns had been removed from a bedroom and that the theft had apparently taken place in the last six weeks.

Sedalia police officers are continuing the investigation of the thefts.

J. E. Owen, Route 3, reported to police Friday evening that a bicycle valued at $40 was stolen sometime Friday at the Liberty Park Swimming Pool. The bicycle was black and white, had chrome fenders, a headlight and taillight.

Pope Paul Starting His Second Year

VATICAN CITY (AP)— Paul VI starts his second year as Pope Sunday, his pontificate already notable but his program still taking form.

At noon last June 21, a white wisp of smoke rose from a chimney over the Sistine Chapel to announce that the cardinals had selected Giovanni Battista Cardinal Montini, archbishop of Milan, as successor to John XXIII.

In the year since, the pontiff has continued John's Ecumenical Council and its related goal of closer contacts among Christians. He took the name Paul, revered by all Christians, to emphasize his interest in Christian unity.

His unprecedented Holy Land pilgrimage gave the unity movement a tremendous impetus. On the Mount of Olives he and Patriarch Athenagoras of Constantinople — Istanbul — embraced in the first meeting in five centuries between heads of the Roman Catholic and Orthodox churches.

These were historical events of the highest order.

Many observers have been waiting for an encyclical outlining the program of his pontificate. There has also been expectation that he would call a consistory for the creation of cardinals and use the occasion for a policy allocation.

Pope Paul has by no means failed to give indications of the direction he is taking.

His actions and his frequent speeches, taken together, show he aims to bring the Roman Catholic Church into closer contacts with non-Christians as well as non-Catholic Christians.

At the same time he is moving to change the face that the Roman Catholic Church presents to the rest of the world. In doing this Pope Paul has indicated a willingness to push forward the church renewal begun by Pope John.

The Pope has set up a secretariat to deal with non-Christian religious leaders. He has said there is a need to reform and internationalize the Vatican Curia, the central church administration. He has stirred a debate on the question of bishops' sharing authority with the Pope. He has displayed a willingness to strip the Vatican of some ceremonial trappings such as the Noble Guard.

It is generally believed that his Holy Land trip was only the beginning of papal travels.

Pope Paul's pronouncements on communism have indicated his relations with the Communist world are still evolving.

In several speeches, highlighted by a Good Friday discourse, Pope Paul has rebuked communism in words reminiscent of Pius XII.

At the same time Pope Paul has maintained Vatican diplomatic moves started by Pope John in Eastern Europe.

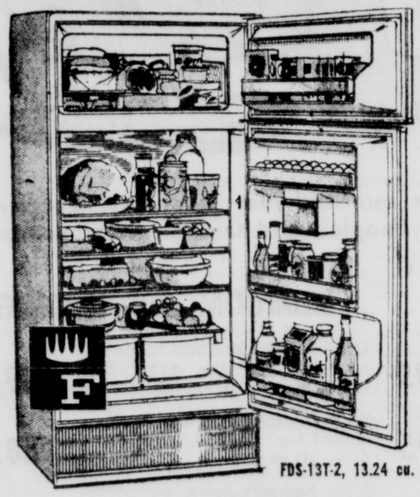

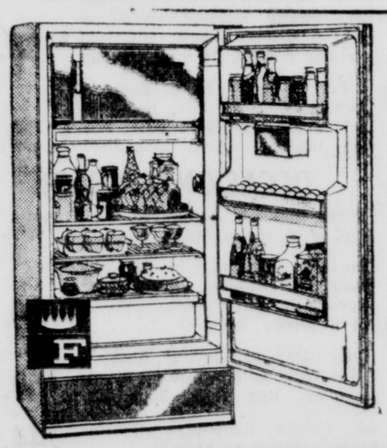

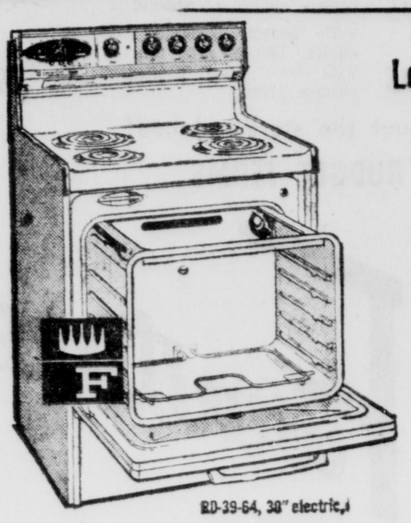

Pope Paul's pontificate—like John's—has a decided pastoral emphasis. He has made frequent visits to churches in Rome and to hospitals, orphanages, and even the city jail.

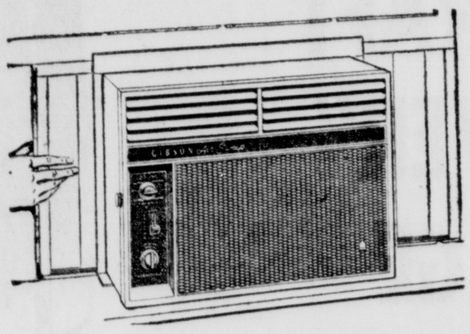

HONORED QUEEN — Miss Gayle Rose, niece of Mr. and Mrs. John Welch, 1112 West Seventh, has been elected Honored Queen of International Order of Job's Daughters of Bethel 15, Sedalia, and will be crowned queen at public installation on June 24 at 7:30 p.m. at the Masonic Temple.

Blood Bank Upheld By Commission

WASHINGTON (AP) — Operation of a commercial blood bank in the Kansas City area has been upheld by a Federal Trade Commission examiner who ruled that a group of hospitals and physicians illegally boycotted it.

The commercial enterprise is Midwest Blood Bank and Plasma Center of Kansas City, Mo., and its affiliate, World Blood Bank, Inc., Kansas City, Kan.

Examiner Walter K. Bennett ruled doctors and the Kansas City area Hospital Association conspired to control the block-banking business by forming their own non-profit blood bank.

He said human blood is a commodity, and rejected arguments by the doctors and hospitatls that their actions were designed to prevent practices they considered immoral.

Bennett said pathologist who control blood banking operations in the hospital group operated an "informal federation" from 1955 to 1958, when Community Blood Bank of the Kansas City area, Inc., was formed.

He said that even though the group sincerely believed the selling of human blood for profit is immoral, this does not "afford an excuse for a boycott."

Bennett ordered the physicians and the hospital association to halt any scheme or plan of action that interfered with operation of Midwest. He said, however, the order does not "prevent any physician. . . from exercising his individual medical judgment to determine what whole blood, and from what source, if any, shall be utilized" in care of any patient.

He said "no group can be permitted to usurp the functions of government by legislating the morals or method of carrying on business of other people through use of an illegal means, i.e., concerted refusal to deal."

Hagerty Tells Why GOP Claimed Victory

NEW ROCHELLE, N.Y. (AP) —James C. Hagerty, broadcasting executive and former White House press secretary, explained Wednesday how Republicans claimed victory in some Eastern states on the basis of early returns in the 1948 and 1952 presidential elections — in the hope of influencing West Coast voters.

Hagerty, vice president of American Broadcasting - Paramount Theaters, Inc., addressed students and the faculty of the Army's Information School at Ft. Slocum.

Hagerty, who was White House press secretary in the Dwight D. Eisenhower administration, said he approves the proposal for legislation to prevent television networks from announcing presidential election returns in Eastern states while West Coast polls are still open.

Tugboat Helmsman Causes Lake Disaster

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The helmsman of the tugboat Rebel Jr. says he fainted and apparently fell against a steering lever which drove the tug and its barges into the Lake Pontchartrain causeway.

The barges knocked out a 224-foot section of the 24-mile long bridge Tuesday and tumbled a bus into the water, killing six of the eight persons aboard.

Clifford Milley, 26, said Wednesday in an interview from his hospital bed he must have fallen on the lever after blacking out, turning the tug on its collision course in the pre-dawn hours. He was alone in the pilothouse.

Surf Club Members Boost Marks

Members of the Sedalia Surf Club swim team have begun to record some creditable times in the various competitive strokes as they train each morning in the club pool.

Swim Coach Ken Cordry reports that every swimmer has improved his times considerably since the beginning of the season, and all have shown marked progress in their form, as well as speed. The team is made up of swimmers ranging from 7 to 18 years of age and are grouped in the standard age brackets. The marks posted up to this time are those made in the local pool which is 25 meters in length with six racing lanes.

Some of the better marks posted up to this time are: 14-year old Micky McGrath :16.1 seconds for the 25 meter freestyle and :22.6 on the butterfly stroke; Eight-year-old Diane Simmons :31.7 for the 25 meter breaststroke.

Garth Grove, one of the more experienced swimmers has turned in a :14.3 effort in the freestyle while Kent Cordry in the twelve-year-old group has a :55.8 mark for the 50 meter breaststroke.

A versatile young swimmer in the twelve-year-old group is Mark Fitch who has fine times for all the strokes including a :39.7 for the 50 meter freestyle.

Vicki Sessions has the best twelve-year-old girl's clocking for the breaststroke with a :24.5 effort on the 25 meters. In the seven-year-old class, Diane Cordry has a time of :20.9 for the freestyle event while 12-year-old Steve Berthel has hit :18.5 for the 25 meter course.

Doug Simmons, as an 11-year-old has a :27.6 time on the breaststroke.

Craig Gartner and Johnny Talbot both have :28.0 times on the butterfly event while Nancy Holoppa and Ellen Lindstrom have shown improvement on their breaststroke times. Ellen has a :23.4 mark for the 25 meters in this event. Spud Pratt has turned in a 2:00 on the 100 meter freestyle.

Other new swim team members working out daily are Ned Lindstrom, Mary Talbot, Phillip Dow, Mary Margaret O'Connor and Mary Ellen Gross, who will be timed later.

The team is adding members from the swim classes as the youngters progress through the club instruction program. And while the team practices amount to hard work most of the young swimmers seem to enjoy it.

Little League Teams Off In Heated Contest

Sedalia's Little League teams are off in what appears to be shaping into a heated contest for the city championship this year. Sedalia Ice, a championship team last year has won its first two games, defeating the Lions Tuesday night, 7-5 in the opener. Peter Green was the pitcher for the full game.

Friday night, the Ice team tackled Adco and scored again with a 7-6 final count in that game. Greg Voss starred on the mound.

Ron Mock was the big gun for Ice, racking up a perfect night at bat, four for four. He batted in a triple in the last frame. He later stole home to give Ice the run needed to break the tie.

Danny Hall was on the hill for Adco throughout the game.

Earlier, on Thursday night, Adco defeated Optimist 17 to 5 with Wayne Goosen on the mound. Jim Lewis took the loss from the hill for the Optimist team.

Patterson Is Medalist In Intercity Golf

Charles Patterson was medalist and high point man for Sedalia as the local team again trailed Columbia in the third match of the Intercity Golf Tournament played Thursday at Columbia.

Patterson carded a 77 for the course and was high for the Sedalians with 36 points.

No positions in the tourney changed as a result of Thursday's match. Columbia had 317½ points, Sedalia had 277½, Fulton had 261 and Jefferson City turned in a 224.

Running totals for the three matches thus far are: Columbia, 915½; Sedalia, 804; Fulton, 772½; and Jefferson City, 721.

Cowboy Group Talks Of Starting Rodeo

The building of a rodeo arena and an annual rodeo were the business topics discussed at a meeting this past week of the Sedalia Rodeo Cowboy Association.

Officers were elected as follows: president, Frank Hotsenpiller; vice president, Buck Banner; and secretary-treasurer, Pete Young.

Construction on the rodeo arena will begin as soon as the weather permits. The arena is to be located on Dr. A. L. Lowe's Arabian horse ranch on 32nd Street, three miles west of Holiday Inn.

It was also decided that the first annual rodeo would be held in 1965.

Marsha Feig Scores One Major Upset

Miss Marsha Feig, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Feig, 2100 South Harrison, scored one major upset and advanced to the quarter-finals before she was eliminated from the state Women's Golf Tournament this week at Joplin.

The slender Miss Feig, who hits a golf ball as well as the veterans of the women's tournament, qualified for the tourney's championship flight with an 87 on Monday.

Tuesday she downed Mrs. Glen Robinson, Springfield, 9 and 7 in the opening pairings of the match play meet.

Wednesday she scored an upset over Mrs. George Conant, Jr., St. Louis, who was expected to win the match handily.

Wendell Redden, sports editor of the Joplin Globe, had this to say about Miss Feig's upset on Wednesday:

"In one of the major surprises on Wednesday's program, Miss Marsha Anne Feig of Sedalia, upset tournament veteran Mrs. George Conant, Jr., of St. Louis, 2 up. Miss Feig, winner of a Missouri Girls' Golf Association scholarship to Missouri University, led most of the way and held a two-hole advantage at the end of 14.

"Mrs. Conant, playing like the seasoned campaigner she is, rallied to win the long 15th and 16 holes with par fives to square the match. Miss Feig, a slender 17-year-old who probably moves the tee ball as well as anyone in the tournament, came back fighting. She won the par 17th with a birdie and took the par 3 18th with a par."

In Thursday's quarter-finals, Marsha bowed to Mrs. Edwin MacGee, Kansas City, 3 and 2. Mrs. MacGee is a two-time winner of the women's state crown in 1960 and 1962.

One other area golfer brought home a trophy. Miss Donna Fox, 17-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. O. W. Fox, Tipton, won the consolation flight in the tournament.

Star Of Bonanza

Michael Landon At J Bar H Rodeo

Michael 'Little Joe' Landon

Michael Landon, "Little Joe," of Bonanza, star of the J Bar H Rodeo, Camdenton, June 27 thru 30, graduated second from last in a high school class of 301 students, and might easily have earned the "least likely to succeed" nomination. In Michael Landon's case the prediction went awry. Mike did wind up at the tail end of his graduating class, but an IQ of 151 and an outstanding record as a javelin thrower got him a fling at higher education and he had scholarship offers from 46 universities, all hoping to lure his javelin throwing ability. He accepted one, to the University of Southern California.

Mike got into show business after an arm injury ended his college career. While working in a warehouse near his home in North Hollywood, he agreed to read for a buddy taking a screen test at Warner Brothers. When the test was completed Mike, not his buddy, was signed to a contract.

His first big credit was the starring role in "I Was A Teenage Werewolf." He also played the title role in "The Legend of Tom Dooley," and has starred in dozens of TV shows, including "Playhouse 90."

Rex Allen, TV, movie, and recording star, takes over the featured attraction role in the big arena at Camdenton, July 1 thru 4.

Kathy Starr Pre-Favorite In Girl's Wrestle Royal

Jean Antone

Betty Niccoli

Kathy Starr

Ann Reagen

Jessica Rogers

Chunky Kathy Starr, a 140-pound bundle of ring dynamite from Tucson, rates the prematch favorite in a girls' wrestle royal scheduled at Convention Hall Tuesday night (June 23).

The four-event program sponsored by Pettis County Post 16 of the American Legion will bring down the curtain on the indoor mat season here.

Starr, a female villian whose antics sometimes put veteran male heavyweights to shame, will try to rough her way to victory in a five-girl field.

For the royal, there will be added incentive. Each participant will post $100, with the winner to take it all. Anyone who is thrown over the top rope will automatically be eliminated. The last girl standing at the end will be declared the winner.

Joining Starr for this female fling will be such aggressive girl wrestlers as Jessica Rogers, Jean Antone, Betty Nickoli and Ann Reagen.

The heavyweights feature will see young Harley Race, in his second full season of mat warring, going against the veteran Sonny Myers. Race has matured rapidly and his good size and strength make his a capable opponent.

Separate events will send Rogers against Reagen, Starr against Antone.

Then Lights Went Out

CHILLICOTHE, Mo. (AP) — On hand for the dedication of a new municipal ball park Friday night were city officials, a band and a crowd of fans.

Mayor Louis Stein pitched the first ball and the game began.

But not for long!

The lights went out.

Players and fans waited in the dark for almost an hour before the American Legion game was called off.

The trouble wasn't at the ball park, but was located at 1 a.m., three blocks up the street.

Sports Scraps

(By D. KELLY SCRUTON)

THE latest on Little League isn't exactly a complaint, but a personal objection in the manner some manager or managers are treating the boys on the team they handle. In a way I kinda have to 'go along with the thinking of the person.

One thing I forgot to ask him was if he managed one of the teams, and from the conversation I believe he might—but his team probably isn't doing too good. Or else he's got a team that's a winner and he is having troubles "keeping up with the Jones" as they say when someone is trying to keep up or outshine someone else.

In short the party complained of a manager or managers who have been buying his players soda pop everytime they win a game, trying to instill into these little lads a desire to win to collect their soda pop. If it works it isn't a bad idea, and I know the kids enjoy it.

On the other hand these youngsters who lose and continually are on the losing side just don't get anything.

Here's the point. I personally agree with the gentleman, that buying the kids something because they win should not be. This project was started out to give the youngsters something to do, to participate in competitive games, and to display sportsmanship. They should not be "bribed" to play their best, but encouraged to produce their best without reward.

If the soda pop is to be bought it should be given the boys, win or lose, but this can be rather costly for any manager and this definitely should not be because these managers are not only working with the kids, but contributing much of their own time free. On the other hand some team managers just cannot afford to buy soda pop for the team time-and-again because they win games. Hence it makes it look bad on the manager who can't afford it, and puts him in a bad light for comparision with the manager who can afford it.

Personally, fellows, I have to agree with the gentleman, and I think the best reward that could come would be a big party for the youngsters at the end of the season — win or lose.

THE Sedalia Rawhide Rifle and Pistol Club appeared to be "on its way" and will soon be well organized. At present more than 30 persons have become members of the club out of more than 140 who are registered members of the National Rifle Association of America.

The Rawhide Club is sanctioned and affiliated with the NRA, and is a group who meet regularly and enjoy good sportsmanship in gun handling and get togethers from time to time.

The purpose of the local club is to get together and obtain grounds to build a clubhouse and a range upon which the members can participate in rifle and pistol shoots. Also in club activities after careful instruction local members can attain the rank of instructors and in turn assist the new and younger members in the art of handling of guns.

Actually there are many advantages in belonging to the club and NRA if you are a sportsman and enjoy handling of firearms.

Persons interested and not members of the NRA and those who are members of the NRA, but not a club are invited to attend the next meeting set for July 2, Thursday at 7:30 p. m. at the Court House.

—o—

HERE it is the last of June and football is already getting into the headlines, with the various all-star games, all-star college and pro-football games coming up during this summer. This brings to mind that a goodly number of Smith-Cotton prospects should be starting to get themselves in condition to start practice. Just think, just eight weeks away — AUGUST 15.

I am sure Coach Dick Rees will be happy to welcome about 40 good husky lads on Saturday, Aug. 15, at the Jennie Jaynes Stadium for the early workouts. Of course he would love to see these good husky lads in tip-top condition, too — it would help to get the work started early on fundementals.

There should be a nice "crop" of boys moving into varsity competition from last year's sophomore squad.

Actually it is nearly a turnover of older players to all boys who have come in direct contact with Coach Rees, the returnees getting their first varsity under Coach Rees and the sophomores; of course all new.

This may be the real turning point for Smith-Cotton in football and start of a hoped-for comeback to the winning-ways the Tigers used to enjoy.

The school has the material —now all that is necessary is getting it out on the football gridiron.

Merchants Will Play All-Stars At Park Tonight

The Sedalia Merchants take over the Liberty Park diamond tonight to play the Kansas City All-Stars. Game time has been set at 8 p.m.

The Kansas Citians are bringing to Sedalia a fine ball club and one expected to be a stiff contender in the up-coming State Semi-pro baseball tournament.

Sedalia's Merchants will have on the mound for the game Ralph "Skip" Schultz, who will endeavor to stop their power hitters.

Bill Hill has been supplying the power in the hitting department for the Merchants and does the chore of catching. Don Crank, however, leads to hitting for the locals with a .528 average, with Charley Newman also supplying some of the safeties in this department.

Pirates Will Conduct Camp At Columbia

The Pittsburgh Pirates will conduct a tryout camp at Columbia, on Monday and Tuesday, June 29 and 30. The camp will be held at Municipal Park and will be under the direction of Scouting Supervisor Chet Montgomery. Chet will be assisted by scouts Jack Walz and Bill Clark.

Players should report ready to go at 9 a. m. and be prepared to workout until 2 p. m.

Players must be 16 years of age to be eligible to attend the camp, and no Junior American Legion players will be permitted to participate in the camp if such participation would interfere with any Legion activities. Such participation will only be permitted with a letter of approval from either his Legion Coach or the Commander of the Legion Post he represents in Legion play.

Players are also expected to furnish their own shoes, uniforms, gloves, etc. with the Pirates furnishing all other equipment. Players will also be responsible for their traveling and living expenses, if any, with the understanding that all expenses will be reimbursed to those players signed to contracts with Pittsburgh Organization Clubs.

No Amateur Now

Mrs. Ethel Gard Lands Eight-Pound Giant Trout

She's no amateur now—that is Mrs. Ethel Gard, 624 East 15th, who landed a giant German Brown trout during a vacation in Colorado. She landed her prize winning catch while fishing in Groundhog Reservoir, near Norwood, Colo., while on a fishing trip with her sister Mrs. Hoadley Smith and family.

The giant fish was the largest caught that week in the Colorado area and drew considerable attention from the "old timers" inasmuch as Mrs. Gard was considered a novice at the sport.

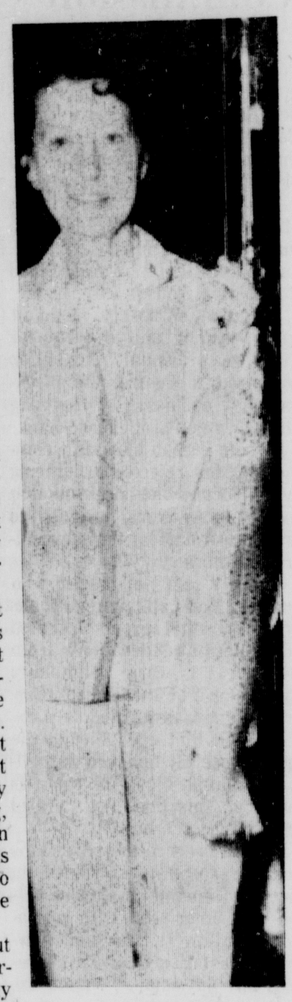

She was not only treated to a thrilling trout fishing trip, but received plenty of advice on how to angle for the wily creatures. No one figured that she would be champion of the week with the prize catch, especially since she had never fished for trout before.

With a night crawler for bait on one hook, and salmon eggs on a second, Mrs. Gard cast into the lake and waited. Shortly, she felt a tug, and set the hook. Reeling quickly, Mrs. Gard saw an eight-inch trout break the water some ten feet from shore, and she was ready to settle for that. Before long, however, the huge German Brown, weighing eight pounds and measuring 26 inches, also cut the surface, and the battle was on.

Mrs. Gard's niece waded out from shore with a net and nearly lost the big fish, but finally managed to land him for the novice angler. The smaller trout was well hooked on the second barb, so that for her first try at trout fishing, Mrs. Gard did rather well, in all.

Mrs. Gard is a sister of Leo Kreisel, 701 East 28th.

Chiefs Down Carrollton; Fifth Win

The Sedalia Chiefs collected their fifth victory of the season against no defeats Friday night as they defeated Carrollton, 15-8. The Chiefs tallied 15 runs on 18 hits and committed six errors, while Carrollton tallied eight runs on two hits and committed six errors. The Chiefs tallied two runs in every inning except the fifth in which they were held scoreless.

The Chief's slugging power proved to be the big factor in the game. Ernie Dow paced the team with his booming bat as he collected four hits which included two singles, one double, and one home run and he collected six RBI's. Other players adding to Sedalia's hitting attack were: Lonnie Schott collecting three hits; Tim Morgan, Bill Ferguson, Jerry Barr, and Bob Nagel with two hits each; and Paul Horner, Phil Mathews, and Bill Murphy with one hit each.

Jim Schnackenberg was the starting pitcher for the Chiefs and went six innings. Schnackenberg threw six scoreless, hitless innings in obtaining the decision. He walked two batters and struck out 12 in the process of throwing a no-hitter. His record for the season is four wins against no defeats.

Don Wilhite relieved Schnackenberg in the sventh inning and Phil Mathews relieved Wilhite later in the same inning and went on to finish the game.

Lowry City scored their eight runs with nine walks, one hit batsman and two singles.

The Chiefs will travel to Carrollton tonight for a game with the locals, there. The next game for the Chiefs after the Carrollton contest will be Saturday night, June 27, against Moberly on the Liberty Park diamond. The following Sunday night, June 28, the Chiefs will play a doubleheader against Marshall on the Liberty Park diamond.

Comets: Gary Stroup, Neal Edwards, Steve Lone and Mary Paul.

Junior Varsity: Jack Austin and Dickie Dixon.

Six Homers Highlight Girl's Softball Game In Khoury League

Six home runs highlighted the Fillies-Beatles contest in the chic league of the girl's Khoury softball league Friday night at Liberty Park. The Fillies downed the Beatles, 22-11.

The Fillies tallied three of the homers. Kathy Jones hit one in the fourth with one on. Barbara Davis hit two, one in the third with none on and one in the seventh with one on. Beverly Morris hit one in the fifth with none on. For the Beatles, Lorrain Gravitt hit a homer in the fifth with one on, and one in the seventh with one on.

Dorene Soanka took the loss for the Beatles with one strike-out. Barbara Davis had two strike-outs for the winning Fillies.

It seems the girls are famous for high-scoring contests, and Saturday's game was certainly no exception. The Ladybugs in the Chic League were trampled by the Beatles, 34-18.

The game saw two homers, one for the Ladybugs in the second and one for the Beatles in the fourth.

Athletics 8, Senators 2

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Nelson Mathews' grand slam home run capped Kansas City's six-run first inning outburst Saturday night, and the streaking Athletics went on to bury Washington 8-2 behind Diego Segui's three-hit pitching.

A Farmer's Night crowd of 25,182, second largest of the year for the Athletics, watched them score their eighth victory in the last nine games.

Chuck Hinton singled in the fourth inning and Bill Skowron followed with his 11th homer for two of the hits off Segui, who evened his record at 6-6.

Kansas City knocked out Senators' starter Jim Hannan in the opening inning on a double by Wayne Causey, Dick Green's bunt single, a hit by Rocky Colavito and a walk to Jim Gentile, good for one run. Bill Bryan's sacrifice fly drove in another before Mathews connected off reliever Marshall Bridges for his third homer and second career slam.

Yankees 1, White Sox 0

CHICAGO (AP)—Whitey Ford won his 10th straight and the New York Yankees made it seven in a row over the Chicago White Sox Saturday, winning 1-0 on Elston Howard's single that drove in Pedro Gonzalez in the 11th inning.

Ford, who has not lost since opening day, allowed only six hits and struck out 10 in a brilliant duel with Gary Peters, who also went all the way.

It was the sixth shutout for Ford and his ninth complete game in 16 starts.

Roger Maris walked with one out in the 11th and moved to second on Mickey Mantle's single. When Tom Tresh singled to right, Mike Hershberger's fine throw to the plate cut down Maris, trying to score. Gonzales running for Mantle, took third on the throw and scored when Howard singled to center.

Ford, who beat the White Sox twice earlier this season by 3-0 scores, continued his amazing mastery over them. The 35-year-old southpaw now has pitched 43 consecutive scoreless innings against Chicago since last Aug. 16.

ST. PAUL - MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — George Thomas raced home with the winning run when relief pitcher Garland Shifflett threw wildly on an attempted pickoff, giving Detroit an 8-7 victory over Minnesota Saturday.

Minutes beforein the seventh inning, Thomas doubled, scoring Dick McAuliffe with the tying run. Thomas went to third on Bubba Phillips' fly out before coming home on Shifflett's error.

That rally wiped out a one-run Minnesota lead built on Harmon Killebrew's 22nd home run, a two-run blow in the sixth which scored Rich Rollins ahead of him.

Don Mincher's three-run homer highlighted a four-run third which gave the Twins a 5-2 lead.

Billy Bruton scored a key run in the Tigers' two-run sixth on Earl Battey's passed ball with the bases loaded. Bruton had doubled home Phillips, who also doubled.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Brooks Robinson and Bob Johnson each drove in three runs, leading the American League leading Baltimore Orioles to an 11-5 triumph over Boston Saturday night.

Robinson doubled home two runs in the Orioles' six-run first and walked with the bases loaded in the third, forcing in a run. Johnson singled three times, each time sending a runner home.

Milt Pappas had checked the Red Sox on six hits until the ninth when Bob Tillman followed two singles with a home run and Dalton Jones homered. The blow was Jones' fourth hit of the game. He also committed three errors.

Giants 14, Cardinals 3

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Orlando Cepeda clouted two home runs and Harvey Kuenn belted five hits, including a homer, as San Francisco trampled St. Louis 14-3 Saturday with a 20-hit attack.

Willie Mays added a homer for the Giants, his 21st.

Nine of the Giants runs were unearned. Dick Groat's wide throw on Jose Pagan's grounder in the sixth inning led to five runs. The Giants scored three runs in the eighth after Jerry Buchek fumbled Mays' grounder. San Francisco's last run, in the ninth, was also unearned, scoring with the help of a dropped fly ball by Charlie James.

Cepeda opened the fifth with a homer and connected with one on in the sixth after Hal Lanier cleared the bases with a three-run double.

Besides his homer, Kuenn slashed a double and three singles, driving in two runs and scoring three altogether.

Bob Hendley, who held the Cardinals hitless for the first four innings, was touched for a two-run homer by Phil Gagliano in the eighth.

Mets 7, Phillies 3

NEW YORK (AP)—Bob Taylor drove in four runs with two home runs and added a pair of singles as the New York Mets defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 7-3 Saturday, snapping an eight-game losing streak.

Joe Christopher also hit two home runs for the Mets, who collected 16 hits off four Phillie pitchers. Dallas Green, who succeeded starter Dennis Bennett in the fifth inning, was charged with the loss.

ack Fischer was credited with the victory although he needed help from Al Jackson in the seventh. The pudgy right-hander saw an early 3-0 lead evaporate when the Phils scored once in the fifth and tied the score in the sixth on Roy Sievers two-run homer.

The Mets regained the lead in their half of the sixth when Ed Kranepool cracked a two-out single that scored Amado Samuel from third. The triumph squared Fisher's record at 5-5.

Reds 6, Dodgers 4

CINCINNATI (AP) — Vada Pinson smashed two home runs and John Edwards one, but it took a squeeze bunt by pinch hitter Pete Rose to knock in the deciding run as Cincinnati downed the Los Angeles Dodgers 6-4 Saturday night.

With the game tied 4-4, Leo Cardenas led off the Reds' seventh with a double and went to third on a sacrifice bunt. After pinch hitter Marty Keough walked, Rose batted for Bobby Klaus and bunted Cardenas home. Rose was out at first on the play.

Pinson opened the fourth with his 10th homer and again led off the sixth with a home run that tied the contest.

Edwards connected in the second after Don Drysdale hit Frank Robinson with a pitch. Both of Pinson's blows also were off loser Drysdale, who now is 9-6.

Frank Howard drove in two runs for the Dodgers, doubling home one in the fourth and sending another across with a single in the fifth. Howard scored in the fourth on John Roseboro's sacrifice fly.

Joe Nuxhall, who relieved starter Jim O'Toole in the eighth, struck out five of the six men he faced.

Home runs — Cincinnati, Edwards (4), Pinson 2 (11).

Pirates 2, Cubs 0

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Joe Gibbon turned in a strong pitching job and knocked in the deciding run Saturday as Pittsburgh blanked Chicago 2-0.

The big left-hander held the Cubs to two hits and went to the last out before giving way to Al McBean, who came on with two away in the ninth inning after Ernie Banks reached base on an error. Jim Stewart rapped McBean for a pinch single but the reliever put down the mild rally.

Gibbon drove across the game's first run with a single in the eighth after Bill Mazeroski's triple. Dick Schofield then tripled in the pitcher.

Gibbon, winning his fourth game in six decisions, gave up only one hit through the front seven innings, a single by Billy Cowan in the fifth.

Colts 3, Braves 2

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Houston Colts made the most of four hits and Milwaukee's sloppy fielding in beating the staggering Braves 3-2 Saturday.

The Colts scored on a suicide bunt and a pair of sacrifice flies in registering their seventh victory in 11 meetings with Milwaukee this season.

Milwaukee starter Tony Cloninger was the victim of poor support in absorbing his sixth loss. The victory was earned by Don Nottebart, his second against seven defeats.

The Colts picked up a run in the third when Felipe Alou missed Bob Lillis' sinking liner in left center and the ball rolled to the wall for a triple. Nottebart then bunted Lillis home.

Houston came from behind in the seventh. Joe Gaines led off with a single and stole second. Mike White then singled and took second as catcher Ed Bailey let the throw from the outfield get away.

Bob Aspromonte scored Gaines with a sacrifice fly and White scored the decisive run on Rusty Staub's fly to left.

Yanks, Twins Dominate All-Stars

NEW YORK (AP)—The Minnesota Twins and New York Yankees dominate the American League All-Star team's starting line-up announced Saturday for the July 7 game with the National League at Shea Stadium. Mickey Mantle of the Yanks was the only repeater from 1963 in the voting of 281 players, coaches and managers.

The line-up that Manager Al Lopez of Chicago will send against the National League will contain no members of Lopez' White Sox, who have been in and out of first place all season. There are three Yanks, three Twins and one each from Baltimore and Los Angeles.

Commissioner Ford Frick, whose office conducted the balloting, said the National League's starting line-up would be announced Tuesday. The remainder of the squads will be named later.

The bold new AL line-up included Twins' Bob Allison at first base, Harmon Killebrew in left field and rookie Tony Oliva in right field. The Yanks were Elston Howard as catcher, Bobby Richardson at second base and Mantle in center.

Jim Fregosi, the fine young Los Angeles player who is hitting near .350, won the shortstop job and Brooks Robinson of Baltimore was picked for third base.

Richardson, generally acclaimed as the outstanding second baseman in the majors, drew 233 votes of the 281. As players, managers and coaches were not permitted to vote for men on their own team, this came close to a unanimous ballot. Robinson with 220, Howard with 217 and Mantle with 205 were also heavy vote pullers.

The closest contest was for first base where Allison, a converted outfielder who still shifts back and forth, got 80 votes to 59 for runner-up Norm Siebern of Baltimore.

Frick announced the vote of only the winners and second-place men. Strangely, there were no players from the White Sox even in second—place and none from Kansas City and Cleveland. Detroit had three seconds, Baltimore two and Washington, Boston and Minnesota one. Lopez does not have to follow the voting for second place in naming the rest of the squad but he must start the No. 1 men.

For the most part the players followed the batting averages down the line in picking the starters. They chose Killebrew for left field, despite his .262 batting average, obviously because his 21 home runs lead the league.

The runners-up includes catcher Bill Freehan, second baseman Jerry Lumpe and Kaline, all of Detroit, Siebern and shortstop Luis Aparicio of Baltimore; left fielder Chuck Hinton of Washington; center fielder Jimmie Hall of Minnesota, and Malzone.

All starters, except pitchers, must play at least the first three innings, unless injured. Going into the 1964 game, the American League which once completely dominated the series, held only a 17-16-1 edge.

BULLETIN

Russell Hibbard, 35, Slater, was injured Saturday night at the Thunderbowl Race Track. Hibbard was on the top rim on the east straight-away when his car and another car apparently side-swiped with Hibbard going off the rim. The Hibbard car went end for end and the race was stopped and he was taken from his racing car to Bothwell Hospital.

Hibbard, who is well known in super-modified racing, was driving in the A feature at the time. The extent of his injuries was undetermined late Saturday night. Dr. C. Gordon Stauffacher had X-rays taken. Hibbard complained of his neck and back, but was able to talk while waiting for X-rays. Dr. Elliot Braverman was also in attendance.

After he was taken to the hospital, the races were resumed.

Mrs. MacGee Wins State Golf Meet

JOPLIN, Mo. (AP)—Mrs. Edwin MacGee of Kansas City defeated Mrs. Jimmy Thomas of Webb City 1 up in 36 holes Saturday to win her third Missouri women's golf championship.

Mrs. MacGee, 24, the former Miss Karen Schull, won her other titles in 1960 and 1962.

Mrs. Thomas, 32, mother of two, also was the runner-up last year.

In the morning round Mrs. Thomas shot 76 for a 1 up lead as Mrs. MacGee took 77 strokes on the par 75 Twin Oaks course.

Mrs. MacGee's afternoon score was 78 and Mrs. Thomas had 80.

Mrs. MacGee squared the match with a par on the first afternoon hole and went ahead with a birdie on the second. Mrs. Thomas caught up with a par on the third, then Mrs. MacGee birdied the fifth for another lead. That lasted until the eighth hole when Mrs. Thomas got even with a par.

On the ninth, Mrs. MacGee got a par 5 for a 1 up lead that held through the 12th, where Mrs. Thomas caught up for the third time.

Mrs. MacGee won the 14th when Mrs. Thomas missed a 20-inch putt, then the Kansas Citian went 2 up with a 12-foot birdie putt on No. 16.

Mrs. Thomas refused to fold. Her drive on No. 17 caught the rough but she laid a four-wood shot seven feet from the pin and sank the putt for an eagle three.

But both parred the last hole, and that was it.

The two women met once before, in the semifinals of the 1957 tournament, and Mrs. MacGee also won that time 1 up.

Wins Racing Event

ELKHART LAKE, Wis. (AP) —Don Sesslar of Columbus, Ohio, averaged 76.098 miles an hour in his Sunbeam Alpine to win the 60-mile event for F, G and H production cars Saturday in the opening card of the two-day June sprints at Road America.

Art Riley of Franklin Square, N.Y., in a Volvo, was second, 19 seconds behind Sesslar. Brooks Noah of Shawnee Mission, Kan., was third in a Lotus 7A.

Bud Beard Wins First Horseshoe Tourney

Bud Beard, Warrensburg, took first place honors in the first season on the new courts at Liberty Park, Thursday night. Beard won all nine of his matches.

Other placing in the event were Sam Harlan, second; Bud Larson, third; Micky McNeal, fourth; Al Kroenke, fifth; L. Popp, sixth; Eugene Carr, seventh; Everett Stumpf, eighth; C. Williams, ninth; and C. Martin, tenth. All are from Sedalia, except Beard.

Matches are held regularly every Thursday at Liberty Park. The public is invited to come and participate in these matches.

Range Riders Plan Rodeo For July 18

The Pilot Grove Range Riders have scheduled a rodeo at their arena, five miles southwest of Pilot Grove on Route N. The rodeo is scheduled for Saturday night, July 18. They also have a horse show scheduled for Sunday night.

Five events are scheduled for the rodeo which will get underway at 7:30 p.m. Saturday.

Twelve events are scheduled for the horse show which gets underway at 8 p.m. Sunday.

Bert McCoy will officiate as the announcer. The ringmaster and the judges are to be announced later.

US Open Win Grabbed By Ken Venturi

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ken Venturi, almost felled by suffocating heat, bounded back from golfdom's limbo with closing rounds of 66 and 70 Saturday and won the 64th National Open Championship with a near record score of 278.

Venturi's amazing comeback gave him the second lowest total in Open history. Ben Hogans' 276 at the Riviera in Los Angeles in 1948 is the record.

The onetime Golden Boy from San Francisco, his career almost shattered by disappointment and injury, surged from six shots back at the halfway point to overtake young Tommy Jacobs and Masters champion Arnold Palmer, who had been expected to stage a head-and-head duel for the title.

The 29-year-old Jacobs, halfway leader after a record-tying 64 Friday and two shots ahead with 18 holes to play, wilted in the steamy cauldron of the Congressional Country Club.

Palmer, Masters champion and all-time leading money winner, never was able to turn on the ignition for another of his fabled last-gasp comebacks and he floundered in a sea of bogeys.

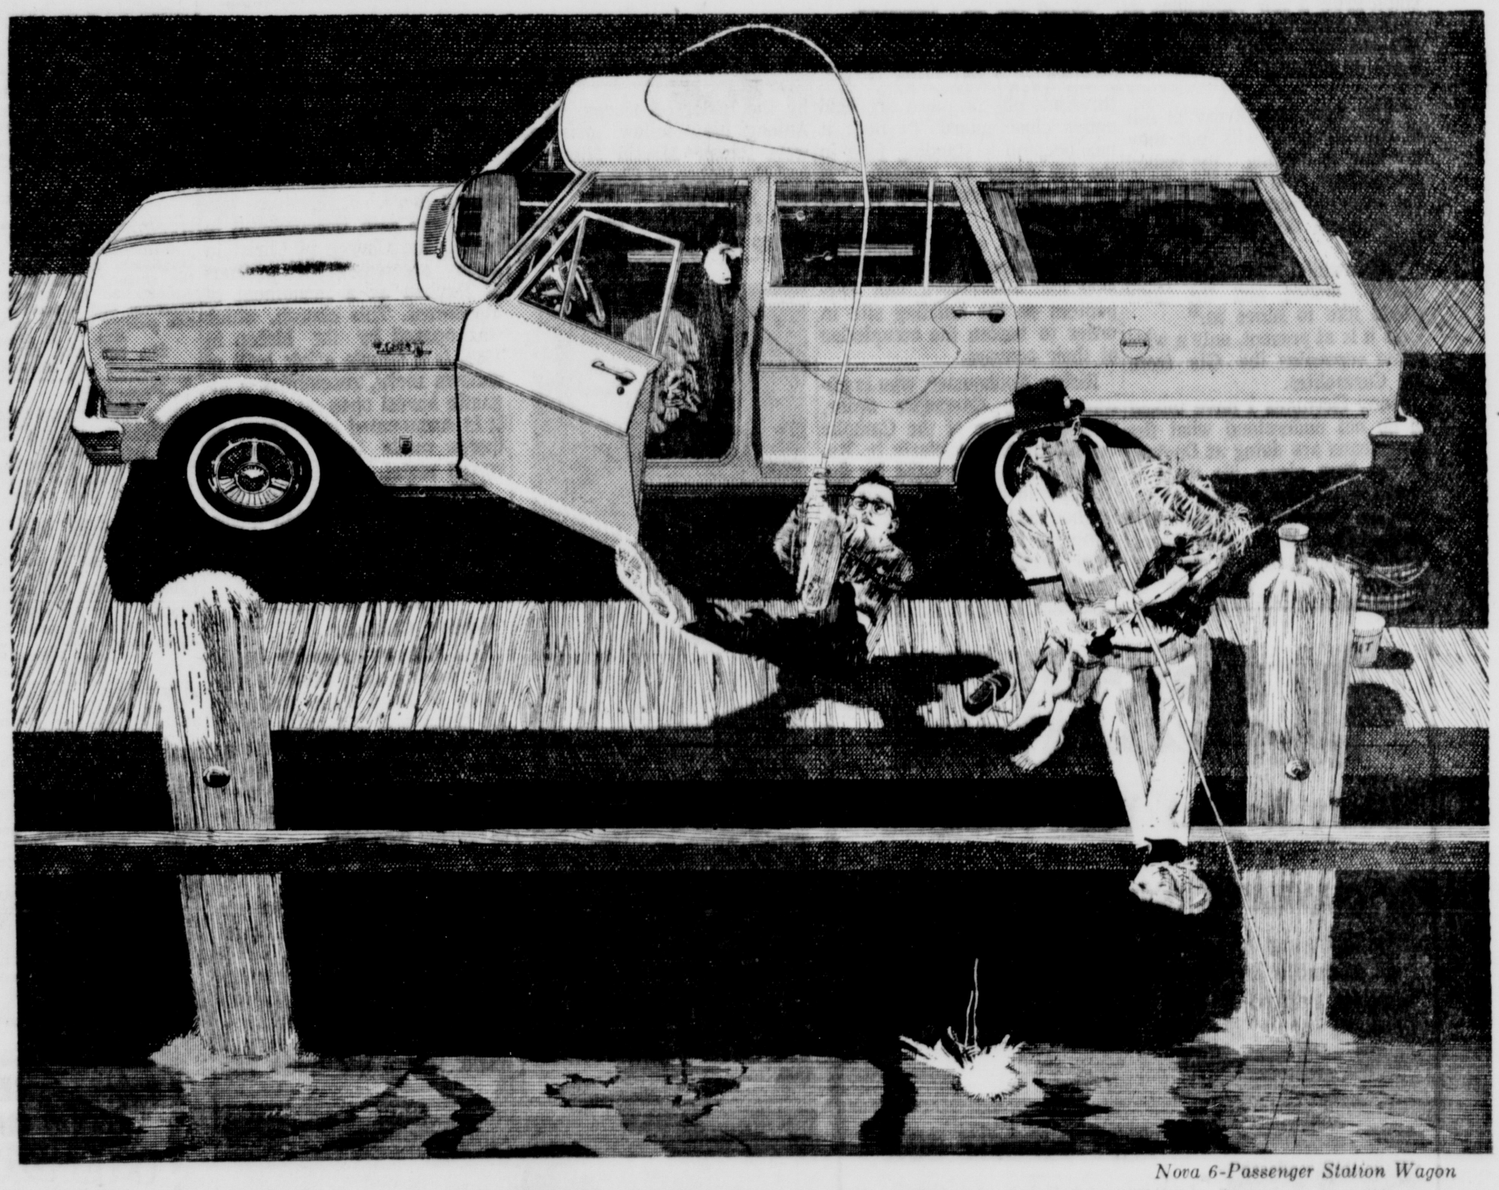

This dashed again his dreams of scoring a professional grand slam—the Masters, U.S. and British Open at St. Andrews next month.

The 33-year-old Venturi almost collapsed from the heat on the 15th tee of the morning round and for a while there was fear he might not be able to continue.

"I nearly blacked out," he said. "I felt dizzy and ill. I was very weak."

A doctor was summoned and the new champion was given an examination. It was decided that with a brief rest and no lunch he would be able to play the final round.

Nova 6-Passenger Station Wagon

CHEVY II by Chevrolet

If you thought Chevy II was thrifty before, you should see your Chevrolet dealer now

You couldn't pick a better time to buy one! Stick with Chevy II and you'll go places this summer—economically. Spacious wagons. Sedans. Sporty Sport Coupes. Take your pick. They're all tightwads.

The Nova wagon for instance, like all Chevy II's, adjusts its own brakes. It's got a Delcotron generator to lengthen a battery's life. The engines are real gas scrooges. And the rocker panels take in rain water to flush themselves free of rust-causing salt and dirt.

Inside the Nova wagon, where you can seat six anglers with tackle boxes, there's deep-twist carpeting surrounded by vinyl that's as washable as tile. Behind that, a storage area with as much room as the insides of seven good-sized refrigerators. And that kind of space is going to bring home a lot of sunfish.

As for rough terrain, Chevy II gobbles it up painlessly. And quietly. The unitized body is turtle-tight. The same unique single-leaf rear springs that contribute to Chevy II's smooth ride are also geared to take more of a beating than comparable multi-leaf springs. These springs can't squeak and never need lubricating.

This all naturally leads us to price. Your Chevrolet dealer has that pleasant story. Why don't you two get together and make some vacation plans.

US Army vs. The Nuns

DACHAU, West Germany — (NEA) — The United States 7th Army in Germany usually picks adversaries that are made of sterner stuff than Catholic nuns. But here in Dachau, of evil Nazi memory, the 7th Army has taken on not only the sisters of the Carmelite order, but the 77-year-old auxiliary bishop of Munich as well.

The dispute concerns a fishing pond.

The fishing pond lies partly on that portion of the former Dachau Nazi concentration camp, which the 7th Army—with what seems to be incredible bad taste — has turned into a disciplinary training center.

Another part of the pond lies on the site where the Carmelite nuns are completing a new convent. When finished this autumn, the convent will house 21 nuns who wish to devote their lives to doing penance for the crimes committed on this spot. (More than 29,000 prisoners of all nationalities died in this notorious camp.)

The tussle between the American armed forces and the Catholic nuns would appear to be rather one-sided, for the Carmelites have taken the vow of silence. But the sisters have found an able and vocal champion in Johann Neuhausler, the auxiliary bishop of Munich.

Bishop Neuhausler knows Dachau well, having spent nearly four years here as a prisoner of Hitler. Today, at 77, he is a spry man, with the red, weathered face of a peasant.

"The Carmelite sisters need the little fishing pond to supplement their diet," he explained.

At present, the sisters are confined to 12 acres which the bishop bought with donations. But this, he points out, is barely big enough to accommodate the convent chapel, kitchen, dining hall, heating plant, and the tiny cells where the nuns do their penance.

The bishop has the option to buy some adjoining ground now occupied by the 7th Army. On this additional land the nuns could grow a few vegetables as well as stock the pond with fish. But the 7th Army shows no signs of budging.

"The American Army is full of men of good will, but they are slow in moving," the bishop complained. "So far, they have not even considered our request to evacuate this little piece of land.

"Meanwhile, our convent is nearly finished, and the nuns would like to move in."

As it is at present, only a wire fence separates the GIs from the Carmelites.

Many Germans I have talked to do not understand what the Americans are doing at Dachau in the first place. To them it seems a tactless blunder to locate an American disciplinary stockade next to the brick ovens used by the Nazis. It shows a fenders serving sentences of three months or more are held under close guard. In fact, it has become a standing joke in the 7th Army to remark, "If you're not careful you'll be sent to Dachau."

Meanwhile, a few Carmelites have volunteered to work alongside the bricklayers and carpenters on the building site in order to hasten the completion of their convent.

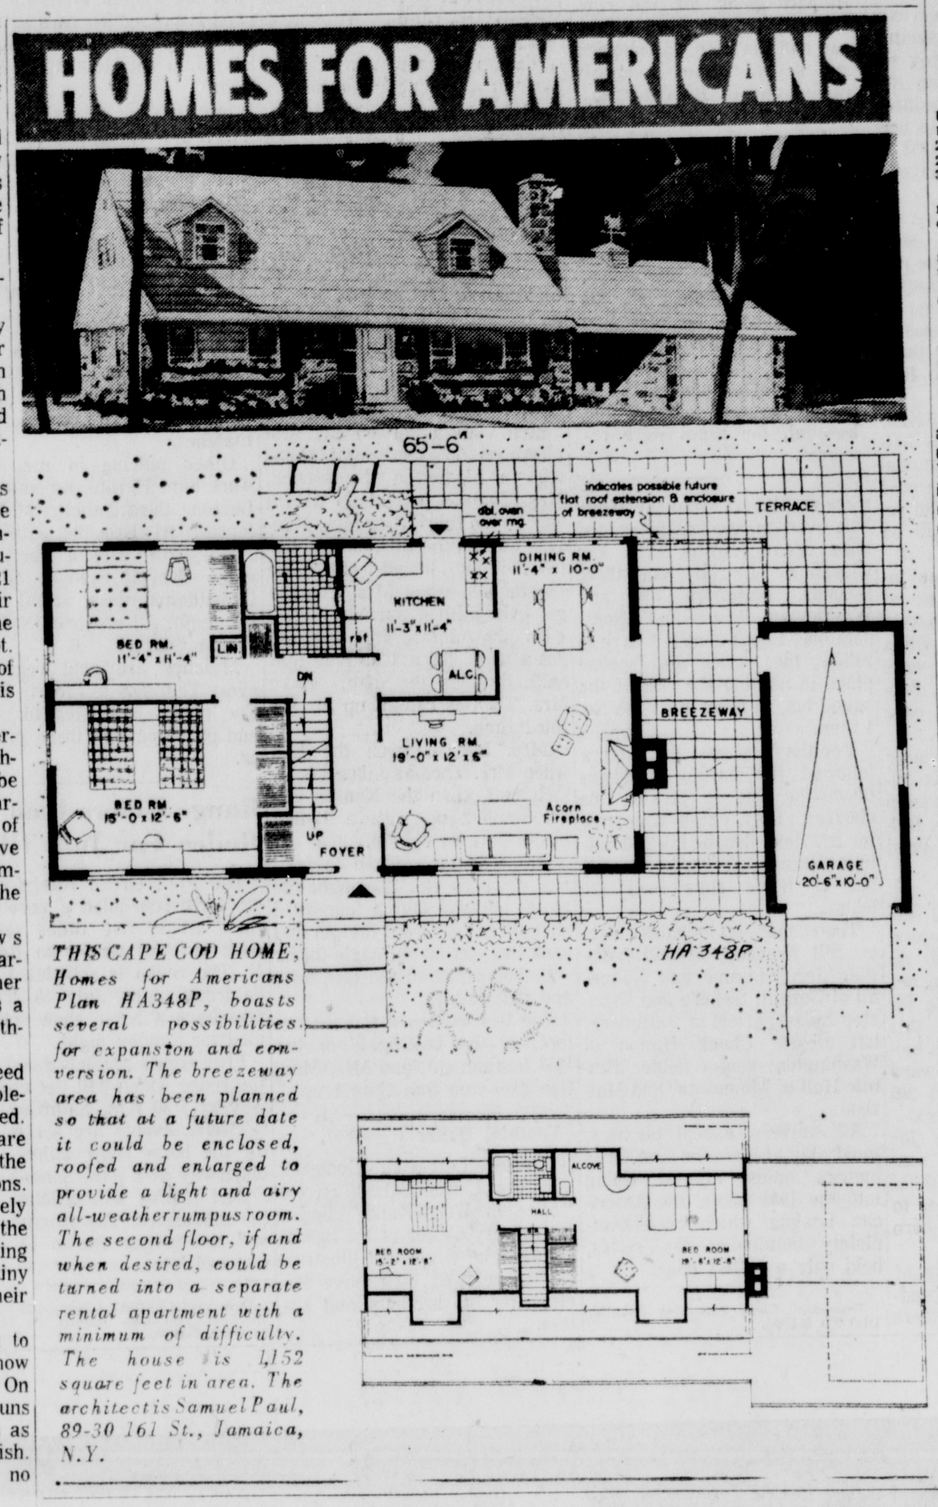

Bishop Neuhausler, who is patron of the Carmelite order, was the leader of the Catholic resistance to the Nazis in Bavaria. He was arrested by the Gestapo in 1941 and sent to Dachau as Prisoner No. 26680. complete lack of sensitivity to local feeling, they claim.

In barracks formerly occupied by the Hitler SS troops, GI of- Among his fellow prisoners were Pastor Martin Niemoller and the bishop of Clermont-Ferrand in France.

In recent years the Munich bishop has been active in preserving Dachau — brick ovens, torture instruments, human ashes and all — as a permanent reminder of the atrocities committed there.

He was also instrumental in having the Church of Christ in Agony erected on the grounds of Dachau as a monument of atonement. This church, which was opened by the bishop in 1960, is a simple affair built of unhewn rocks, resembling a gigantic barrel open on one side. It is surmounted by a crown of thorns made from pieces of rusted metal.

"When I die I have requested that my body be buried alongside this chapel," the bishop declared. "But in the meantime there is work to be done."

THIS CAPE COD HOME, Homes for Americans Plan HA348P, boasts several possibilities for expansion and conversion. The breezeway area has been planned so that at a future date it could be enclosed, roofed and enlarged to provide a light and airy all-weather rumpus room. The second floor, if and when desired, could be turned into a separate rental apartment with a minimum of difficulty. The house is 1,152 square feet in area. The architect is Samuel Paul, 89-30 161 St., Jamaica, N.Y.

WINNER in the Pepsi-Cola Bottler's Shopping Spree has Chosen to do Her Shopping at BING'S, No. 1!

We at BING'S are proud that Mrs. Knight has chosen to redeem her winnings in the terrific national Pepsi-Cola Shopping Spree contest at our store. There'll be a lot of fun and action as Mrs. Knight rushes around our store trying to carry as many groceries to the checkout counter in five minutes as she possibly can (without a cart). Everyone is welcome to come out and watch . . .

COME—

Watch Her Shop Like Crazy!

Starting at 8:30 a.m.

MONDAY, June 22

at Bing's Super Market

11th. and Limit

We're so happy for Mrs. Knight that we're going to do everything possible to make her Shopping Spree a big success. Although the area in front of the checkout counters will be open for spectators the rest of the store will be empty of customers as usual at 8:30 in the morning, so that she may race from the shelves to the checkout more easily. Come on out and join the fun.

THE SEDALIA DEMOCRAT

Sunday, June 21, 1964 | In Combination With The Sedalia Capital | Feature Section

THE BEGINNING—This is the beginning of the long route milk must take on its way from the dairy farm to the dinner table.

All along the way the milk is not touched by human hands. (Democrat-Capital photos)

Milk Takes a Long Route To Reach Sedalia Homes

By HAZEL LANG

The man who had long been gone from the farm picked up one of the two stools in the barn and started milking the cows. He had no trouble until he came to one obstinate cow that refused to be milked.

Irritated the man went into the house where his brother, the farmer, was stretched out on the bed with a broken leg.

"I got along fine," he exploded, "with all but one cow. She won't let me milk her."

"What stool did you use, the one legged or the three legged?" the brother wanted to know.

"The three legged," replied the man.

"Try the one legged stool," the brother told him, "she doesn't like the three legged stool."

He tried the one legged stool and the cow was just as calm as could be, and he milked her without trouble.

June — Dairy Month

This is Dairy Month, and going back to the early part of the century there have been many changes in the processing of milk from the cow to the table. Nothing, apparently is the same, except the cow and the old milk can—and the milk cans have decreased until they are little used these days except for ice cream mix, but they still are used.

Today the cow can't be tempermental about whether the milking stool has three legs or one leg—because they are machine milked, at least those are whose milk is sold to the dairy. Through stainless steel pipes the milk goes right from the milking machine into the refrigerated tanks which are 38 degrees.

Along comes the refrigerated truck to the farms and, without being touched by human hands, the milk is transferred into the truck.

The refrigerated trucks, each with capacity for 3,000 gallons, belongs to the Pure Milk Producers Association, and the farmers belong to this association. The milk is picked up by the trucks and sold to the dairies. The milk for Sedalia comes from farms in a 20 mile radius.

"Handicap Game"

Years ago there was no electricity and thus no refrigeration on farms, so the milk was put in the big cans and set in a cool spring, if the farm had a spring, or a tank of water. Then they would bring it to town to sell and many times it would be sour.

The refrigerated truck now drives into the building built for that purpose at the dairy, and is piped into the plant. There are two pipes up the side of the wall of the building, one for the milk and the other a cleaning-in-place pipe, which holds the cleaning fluid used to clean the pipes where the milk has been.

From the tank truck the cold refrigerated milk goes into holding tanks, also refrigerated, cooled with ammonia, and there the raw milk is stored until ready to use.

In this large room, too, is the separator, and the milk must be 3.6, if it is more than that, cream is taken from it, and if it is less, cream is added. After standardizing it is run through a clearifier where any foreign objects are forced out.

Cleaner Milk

The particles that were found in the bottom of the pan when the milk man went about delivering milk from the can in the container brought out by the housewife, many years ago, were called settlings. There can't be much dirt these days, with all the precautions, but the little that there is and the cells from the cow's udders that settles in the milk are forced out by the clearifiers.

For ice cream mix the milk is held for 30 minutes in the pasteurier at 145 degrees and then cooled.

For milk there is a short time pasteurizing which is a continuous operation. The cold milk goes into the pasteurizer which starts warming it up to the pasteurizing temperature of 162 degrees for 18 seconds.

The homogenized purpose is to put milk under pressure and break up butter fat. After homogenizing it goes to storage tanks and is ready to bottle bottle? Even the word bottle is obsolete now, it is cartons.

Carton Is Big Aid

The carton has been a big help to the dairy people, and the grocery stores, where glass milk bottles were many times returned in such a filthy condition they had to be thrown away. Not only had milk been left in them, but other things were put in them, too, left in them and then returned.

The first cartons had wax on them, though, that dropped in the milk sometimes when they were opened, and was particularly bad for babies' bottles, for it would stick in the nipples and the milk wouldn't come through.

Through Pipeline

Following the pipe lines from the back room into the next room, the milk goes into the large holding tanks through pipes. Here again, are the clean-in-place system, of the two pipes, one for milk and one for cleaning which means a great deal for the pipes need not be taken down and cleaned as otherwise would have to be done.

The large holding tanks are stainless steel inside and in the top is a spray bulb. The tank is closed, the cleaning fluid is sprayed over the tank and it is cleaned. The holding tank for the milk is kept at 38 degrees, and it is pumped out of there to the carton fillers. There are three fillers, one for gallon cartons, one for half gallon and one for quarts.

The carton comes folded, but the machine puts the carton together, seals the bottom, and the carton goes on through the machine to the other side where it is filled and the top sealed. The carton, which is plastic coated, is unfolded by the machine, then fit on the mandrel for the process, and the flaps are sealed together by heat.

Milk to fill the cartons comes out of pipes. The cartons then go into wire baskets, are put on the conveyor into the cold storage room, where, the next morning it is again put on the conveyor which moves it on out to the trucks.

Two Local Processors

Although it seems to be best known for its ice cream, Tullis-Hall's big business is milk, and serves, in addition to Sedalia, as far in the area around as Warsaw, Clinton, Marshall, Warrensburg, Slater, Tipton, Boonville, Sweet Springs and Gravois Mills. It has 21 trucks.

The only other processor of milk in town is Freese Dairy, which pasteurizes and homogenizes the raw milk, and like Tullis-Hall makes its own ice cream and cottage cheese.

Meadow Gold ice cream is made in Sedalia and goes over a wide area, but the milk plant for Meadow Gold is at St. Joseph.

Other milk products locally sold come from Kansas City companies.

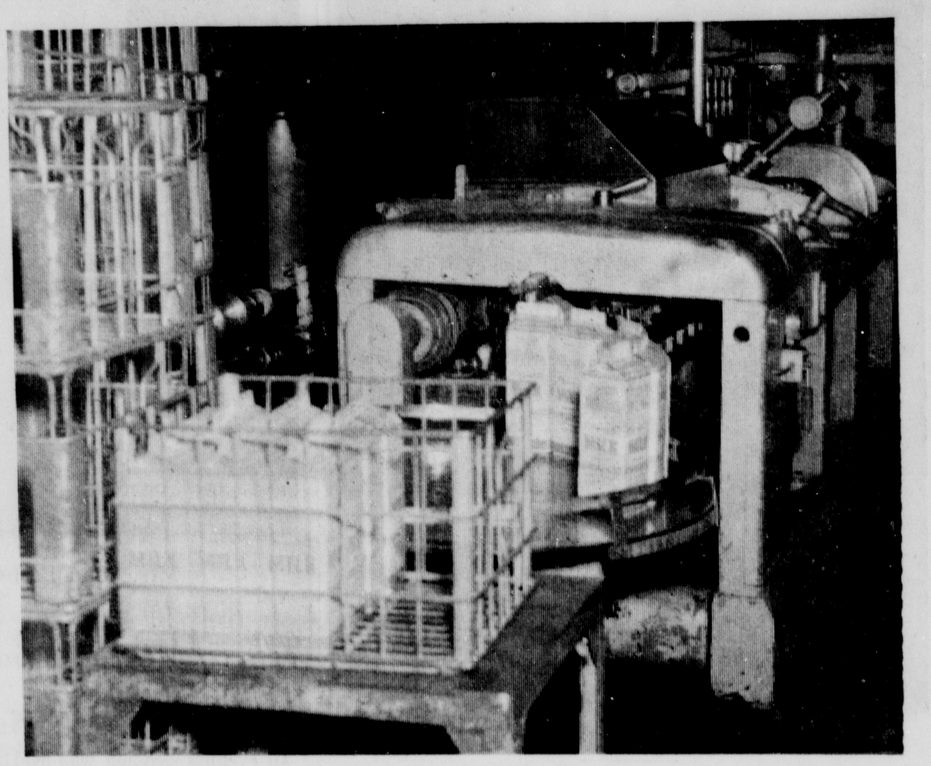

Cottage cheese is made from sweet skimmed milk, a lactic acid producing culture sours the milk and firms it until it is cut with large knives of a series of wires, into little cubes. After it is cut the whey is separated from the curd heated to about 120 degrees until it is hard and firm. The whey is drained off and the remaining curd is washed. The water is drained off, cream and salt is added and it is ready to pacakge.

The ice builder in the back yard of the plant is a huge tank of coils and freezes water on the coils, the cold water then circulates into the plant and cools the milk.

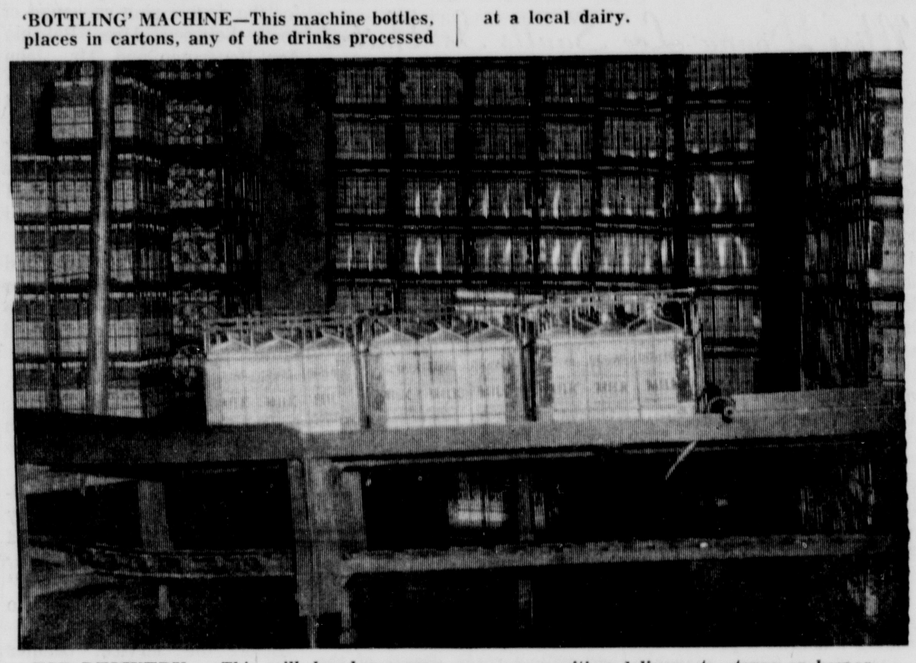

In the plant, too, are the red machines which are ammonia compressors which build all the ice and keep the plant cool. There is a well 300 feet deep that pumps 60 gallons of water a minute. To heat the milk and the building a steam boiler is used. Everything in the machinery has a spare part and it's a real job keeping track of the numbers of the parts. It's really bad, too, when something breaks down and the broken part seems to need the spare that isn't there.

Evolving in 1906 the ice cream wagon was pulled by a horse and in the wagon were big barrels with ice and salt to keep the ice cream frozen. Today children gather when they hear the musical melodies of the ice cream trucks.

Dairy Month—a vital part of our lives, from the baby who recognizes early the milk carton—to the very old whose favorite food is ice cream; processing might have changed, but it's still old bossy that is our most valuable animal—let's give a toast to her—milk toast, that is.

'BOTTLING' MACHINE—This machine bottles, places in cartons, any of the drinks processed at a local dairy.

FOR DELIVERY — This milk has been completely processed and is placed in cold storage, awaiting delivery to stores or homes.

Acute Attack Of Prosperity In Europe

By CARL HARTMAN

BONN, Germany (AP)—Western Europe is suffering from an acute attack of prosperity.

People are earning a lot more money than they used to, and they're not having to work so hard to get it. So they're spending it with an abandon that has the experts worried.

Unemployment has just about disappeared except in Italy. Even in Italy there are many places where labor is short, in part because high pay in other countries has drained away skilled hands.

About a million foreign workers have come to West Germany, and many thousands to Switzerland and France. They come not only from Italy and Spain, but from Turkey and Greece and even a few from Yugoslavia.

In Wolfsburg, home of the Volkswagen, 5,000 young Italian workmen are living three to a room in rows of neat wooden barracks. A good deal of the money they get is sent home—and helps up the prices of Italian goods.

In West Germany and France thousands of good jobs go begging for want of applicants.

The experts call this overemployment and say itresults in excess demand. The ordinary European finds such terms hard to understand. To him things look pretty good, with wages high, jobs easy to get, plenty of goods in the shops.

The businessman never has had so many customers, with so much money in their pockets.

Farmers are doing less well, despite hefty government subsidies. Wages are so good and farm prospecs so relatively bleak that large numbers of farmers have found industrial jobs.

But they are not moving to town fast enough to satisfy the need of factories for labor. That is one reason indusrial wages keep going up.

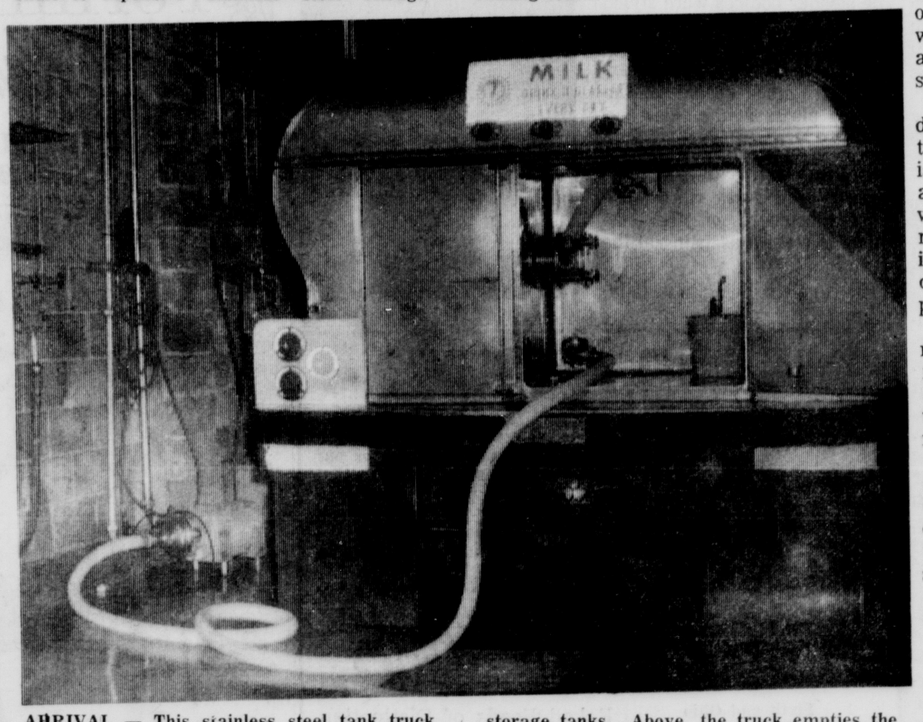

High wages mean high prices —especially in Italy, where the law says price increases must bring wage increases as well. The result is that the Italian economy is getting as hot and breathless as a puppy chasing its tail on a summer afternoon in Capri.

France, and to a lesser extent Holland and Belgium, have also been hit by this kind of inflation. Up to now, West Germany has been able to avoid it. Wages here have gone up but production has kept in step and prices have held steady.

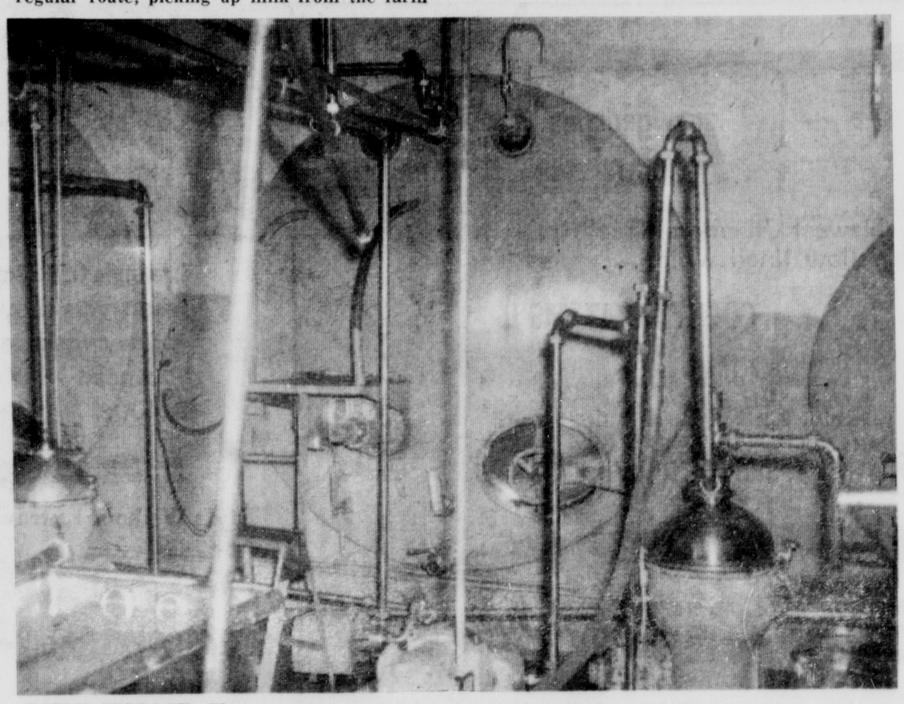

They have held so steady in fact, that West German firms are filling their books with French and Italian orders. Such trading is favored by the gradual disappearance of the tariff wall between Common Market countries. The big and growing demand for German goods tends to raise prices at home. Inflation can be catching.

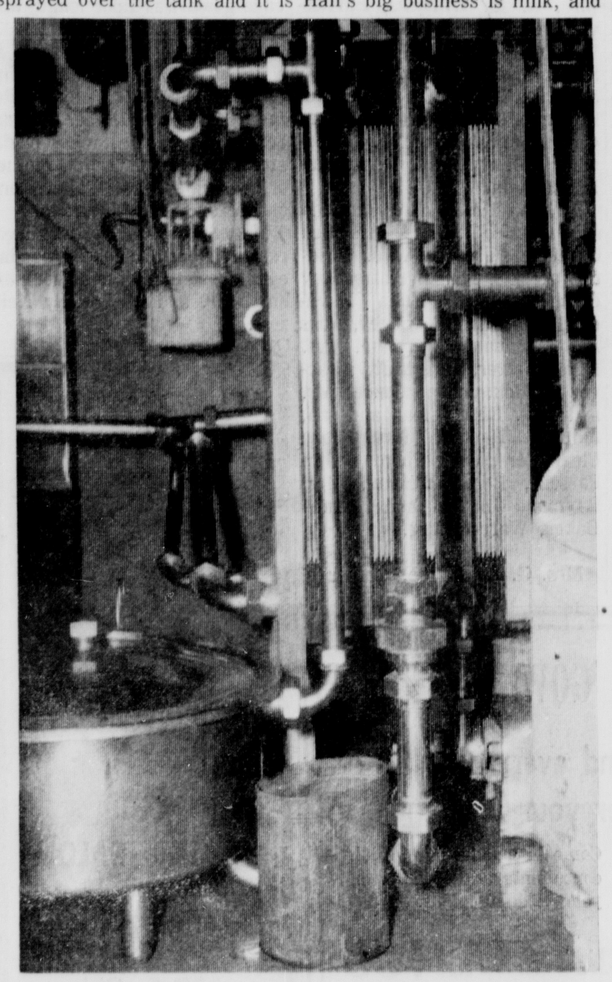

FARM STORAGE — On modern dairy farms such as this, milk is fed from the milking machine to expensive stainless steel storage tanks, where it is kept at an even 38 degree temperature until it is picked up by the processing truck.

ARRIVAL — This stainless steel tank truck moves from dairy farm to dairy farm on a regular route, picking up milk from the farm storage tanks. Above, the truck empties the tank into a Sedalia processor's storage tank.

DAIRY STORAGE—These are the huge storage tanks in the dairy, where the milk is kept until used up in the many products processed at a local dairy.

PASTEURIZATION—This machine is part of the apparatus the milk must pass through before it reaches the bottling machine.

Mrs. Leif M. Halverson

Miss Donna Lee Saults Is United In Marriage to L. M. Halverson

The Rev. Walter Long, pastor of First Baptist Church, Knob Noster, read the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Donna Lee Saults, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Saults, Knob Noster, and Mr. Leif M. Halverson, Hunter Air Force Base, Savannah, Ga., son of Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Bourke, Shelby, Mont., by candlelight at half past seven o'clock Friday evening, June 5, at the church.

The altar was decorated with a standing basket of white gladioli and white chrysanthemums and palms. Two nine branch candelabra, holding white lighted tapers were flanked by emerald palms.

Mrs. Merle A. Matthews, Knob Noster, organist, played wedding music in a prelude and traditional wedding marches. She accompanied Mr. James Appleberry, Knob Noster, who sang "Through the Years" and "One Hand, One Heart."

Candlelighters were Miss Emily Ann Rhodes, Knob Noster, and Miss Courtney Lee Saults, Jefferson City, cousins of the bride. They wore A-line dresses of pale yellow satin, and corsages of yellow daisies.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of Chantilly lace and satin. The lace bodice featured a Sabrina neckline reembroidered with iridescent sequins and pearls, with long sleeves, which tapered to traditional points over the hands and were closed on the inside of the wrists with small satin covered buttons. The paneled skirt ended in a chapel train.

Her veil of illusion fell from a crown of pearls and crystals. She carried a white Bible, a gift from the bridegroom, on which were arranged a white orchid and Stephanotis and ivy.

Miss Ann Mendenhall, Kansas City, cousin of the bride, was maid of honor. Miss Sharon Saults, sister of the bride, and Miss Sarah Jane Neitzert, Knob Noster, and Miss Jackie Anton, Gary, Ind., were bridesmaids.

They wore identically styled street length dresses of pale green satin with scalloped V necklines and lowered front waistlines pointed at the center waistlines. The full skirts were softly pleated. Attendants carried nosegays of ivy, centered with white lighted tapers. Their headpieces were short veils of pale green net.

Mr. Dennis Baker, Warrensburg, was best man. Ushers, who also served as groomsmen, were Mr. Scott Saults, brother of the bride, and Mr. Mike Hughes, Knob Noster, and Mr. Benny Myers, Murray, Ky.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Saults wore a dress of white lace over champagne taffeta with white accessories. Her corsage was of yellow sweetheart roses. Mrs. Bourke, mother of the bridegroom, wore a pink lace dress with accessories of pink. Pink sweetheart roses comprised her corsage.

Guests were registered by Miss Jo Ann Hawes, Blue Springs, and Misses Cathy and Cindy Conboy, Knob Noster, were in charge of gifts.

After the ceremony, a reception was held in the church annex. The bride's table, which was covered with a gathered net skirt over white, was centered with a silver candelabrum, holding white lighted tapers. The four tiered wedding cake was decorated with white sugar bells and yellow roses. Bases of the cake, punch bowl and candelabrum were encircled with ivy. Serving were Mrs. James Appleberry, Mrs. James Madison and Mrs. R. E. Rhinehart, Knob Noster.

Following a wedding trip to the Lake of the Ozarks, Mr. and Mrs. Halverson will be at home in Savannah, Ga. For traveling, the bride selected a two piece suit of pale blue and brown linen with white accessories.

A graduate of Knob Noster High School, the bride is a junior at Central Missouri State College, Warrensburg. Mr. Halverson is a graduate of Shattuck Military Academy, Faribault, Minn., and attended the University of Montana, Missoula, Mont., and CMS. He is stationed at Hunter Air Force Base, Ga.

Out of town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. G. L. Bourke, Shelby, Mont.; Benny Myers, Murray, Ky.; Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Manley and Mrs. Nellie Marable, Tulsa, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Williams, Bartlesville, Okla.; Mr. and Mrs. Joe Williams, Gravois; Mrs. Dan Saults and daughter, Courtney, Jefferson City; Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Anderson and children, Carmon and Eugene, Jr., Grandview; Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Miller, Sedalia.

Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Saults and son, Charles William, Mrs. Jen Carpenter, Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Stephens, Mrs. Edna Kavanaugh, William D. Covey, Miss Ann Mendenhall, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Foster, Kansas City; Harvey Hettick, Independence; Mr. and Mrs. Elton Clear and son, Jimmy, Holden; Mrs. John Clear, Mrs. Jack Thomas, Jim Parsons, Bernie Behlau, Mrs. Raymond Baker and Dennis Baker, Warrensburg.

Mrs. G. L. Bourke, mother of the bridegroom, was hostess at a bride's luncheon in the dining room of the NCO Club, Whiteman Air Force Base. Guests, besides the bride, were bridal attendants; Mrs. Saults, mother of the bride, Mrs. Walter Long and Mrs. Merle Matthews.

Miss Sarah Neitzert was hostess at a bridal shower Monday evening at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Neitzert.

Mrs. John Leslie Brandkamp

Miss Patricia Ann Heuerman Weds John Leslie Brandkamp

An evening wedding was held for the double ring exchange of vows between Miss Patricia Ann Heuerman and Mr. John Leslie Brandkamp, at seven o'clock Sunday evening, June 14 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. The Rev. Walter F. Strickert, pastor, performed the ceremony at the altar, which was banked with bouquets of white gladioli and pink carnations.

Candelabra were entwined with greenery and large white bows and held lighted white candles. Pink bows marked family pews.

The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Heuerman, Route 1. Mr. and Mrs. Dan Schlons, 2402 South Ohio, are parents of the bridegroom.

Organ selections and traditional marches were played by Miss Mildred Brockman. She accompanied Miss Nancy Witt, who sang "O Perfect Love," and Mr. Chester Eding, who sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Before the service, candles were lighted by Miss Pamela Ann Wiemer and Miss Debra Sue Wiemer, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Wiemer, and cousins of the bride. They were attired in floor length blue satin brocade gowns. Their wrist corsages were of blue tinted carnations.

Mr. Heuerman gave the bride in marriage. She wore a gown of silk organdy and hand clipped Chantilly lace. The fitted basque bodice was designed with long tapered sleeves and featured a panel of lace which framed a scalloped Sabrina neckline. The flaring silk skirt, which lengthened to a chapel train, was garlanded with appliques of bordered lace defining a redingote effect. Her long train length bridal illusion veil was of lace like the Chantilly in her dress. A tiara of seed pearls held the veil in place. A bouquet of red roses was carried by the bride. It was tied with long streamers of red.

Mrs. Bill Heuerman, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. Her pink satin brocade gown was floor length and styled with a fitted bodice and full skirt.

Bridal assistants were Miss Karen DeMott, Miss Donna DeMott, Miss Lois DeMott, Mrs. Shirley McMackin and Miss Mertie Ford. They were dressed in gowns of floor length blue satin brocade, styled like that of the honor attendant. They carried bouquets of blue carnations.

Best man was Mr. Bill Heuerman, brother of the bride. Groomsmen were Mr. Jack Heuerman, brother of the bride, Mr. Bill Reed, Mr. Gary Meyer, Mr. Ira McMackin and Mr. Tom Wilson.

Mr. Ronnie Wilborn and Mr. Joe Young were ushers.

Miss Teresa Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Wilson, and Miss Carri Lynn Dick, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Dick, were flower girls. They carried miniature carnations in bouquets accented with red rose buds. Their white organdy dresses had fitted bodices trimmed with lace in the fronts. Small sleeves were puffed and large white bows were tied at the back waistlines. Miss Wilson carried a basket of red rose petals.

Wedding bands were carried to the altar by Master Michael Ray Heuerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Heuerman.

The bride's mother wore a powder blue dress of crepe, with accessories to match. A light gray dress was worn by the bridegroom's mother. Her accessories matched the light gray of her dress. Corsages of white roses were worn by the mothers with their ensembles.

Approximately 100 guests were received by the newly married couple in the reception room of the church. The bridal tier of the wedding cake was decorated with a miniature bridal couple, surrounded by a garland of white and pink flowers. Pink rose buds, alternating with wedding bells and white doves, decorated the cake's four tiers. Greenery was placed around the base of the cake. Pink net over pink, caught at intervals with ink bows, covered the table. Candelabra with lighted candles were placed on either side of the cake.

Mrs. Wilbur Steen and Mrs. William Dick presided at the serving table. Guest book attendant was Miss Lorine Heuerman. At the gift table were Mrs. Bill Wiemer, aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Sam Witt. Corsages of red roses were worn at the shoulders of the costumes of women assisting at the reception.

The couple is living in Sedalia.

Mrs. Edgar S. Friedly

Miss Melinda Sue Turk Is Bride Of Mr. Edgar S. Friedly in June

Wesley Methodist Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Melinda Sue Turk to Mr. Edgar S. Friedly at half past two o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 6. The Rev. George Sparling, pastor, read the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Turk, 1501 West 16th. Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Friedly, Otterville, are parents of the bridegroom.

Miss Dona Nave played traditional wedding selections.

The bride, who was escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a wedding gown of veiled silk organza. Designed with long tapered sleeves and a circlet neckline. A wide panel of scalloped lace, appliqued on the sheath front, extended from neck to hemline, defining the slim contemporary styling. A great overskirt of silk curved at the sides and lengthened to a court train. Her headdress was a forward cluster cap, encrusted with pearls, which held her elbow length veil of silk illusion. She carried an arrangement of Stephanotis and a white orchid.

Serving as bridal attendants were Miss Rita Fowler, maid of honor, and Miss June Cusick. They wore matching costumes of veiled organza in shell pink. The slender bodices were styled with summer short sleeves and necklines. At the backs, draped panels held by fabric roses, extended from the shoulders. Unpressed pleats at the sides and back shaped the short bell skirts.

Their headdresses were petal clusters of pink organza with short brush veils and their shoes were tinted in the same shade. Their bouquets were pink majestic daisies surrounded by white pompon chrysanthemums.

Mr. Paul Fowler, Otterville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, was best man. Groomsman was Mr. Charles Cline.

Ushers were Mr. Larry Thompson and Mr. Mike Thompson, Knob Noster.

Miss Pam Fowler and Master Kenneth Fowler, flower girl and ringbearer, respectively, are children of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fowler, Otterville.

A reception was held for wedfive o'clock in the afternoon at Holiday Inn. Cake was served by Mrs. Sue Demand. Pouring punch were Mrs. Elsey Thompson, Knob Noster, and Mrs. Judy Cline. Gifts were received by Mrs. Jean Meredith, Whiteman Air Force Base, and Mrs. Sharon Hoffert. The guest book Weinberg, Cole Camp.

The bride, a Smith-Cotton High School graduate, was conferred a bachelor of arts degree in education from the University of Missouri, Columbia, and is a first grade teacher at Washington School.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Tipton High School. He is an apprentice lineman for Missouri Public Service.

The couple is at home at 516 South Barrett.

Party Honors Anniversary Of Fuquas

A reception, honoring the Rev. and Mrs. Walter Fuqua's 50th wedding anniversary was held June 18 at East Sedalia Baptist Church. Their anniversary date is June 19. The surprise event was planned by Mrs. Ed Mullin, Mrs. Earl Parker and Mrs. Bert DeWitt, of Fidelis Sunday School Class, of which Mrs. Fuqua is a member.

The large table in the dining room was covered with a lace cloth and centered with lighted candles and a flower arrangement.

Seated at the table were Mr. and Mrs. Fuqua, the Rev. and Mrs. George Poulos, Mrs. Ed McMullin and Mrs. Earl Parker.

Mrs. Mullin pinned flowers on the honored couple and read a poem dedicated to their anniversary, written by Miss Hazel Lang.

Mrs. Poulos sang "O Perfect Love," accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Parker.

Mr. Fuqua told humorous incidents of his and Mrs. Fuqua's married life.

Mrs. Edyth McFarland was in charge of decorations.

Mrs. David Giddens Wilhite

Miss Sharon Anne Madorin Weds David Giddens Wilhite At Wesley

The afternoon wedding of Miss Sharon Anne Madorin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Griffin, 1800 South Carr, to Mr. David Giddens Wilhite, son of Mr. Roy A. Wilhite, 1001 South Beacon, was solemnized at four o'clock Sunday, June 14 at Wesley Methodist Church. The Rev. George Sparling, pastor, read the double ring ceremony.

Vases and standing baskets of white gladioli and chrysanthemums stood at the altar. Large emerald palms formed a setting for seven branch candelabra which secured white tapers. A white carpet graced the center aisle and white satin bows marked family pews.

Mrs. C. C. Delozier was organist and accompanied Miss Diana Gray, who sang "O Promie Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Mrs. DeLozier played "Andante Cantabile," Tschaikovsky, "Andante," Tschaikovsky, "I Love Thee," Grieg, "Romance," Sibeluis, "Bells at Evening," Chavet, "Nocturne in E Flat," Choplin; and traditional wedding marches. During the ceremony, she played "The Voice That Breathed O'er Eden," "Lord, Who at Cana's Wedding," "O Perfect Love" and "O Blest the House."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a crystal white gown of handclipped French Chantilly lace over bouquet taffeta, styled with a basque bodice, scalloped Sabrina neckline, emblished with irridescent sequins and pearls. The long lace sleeves tapered to traditional points over the hands. The voluminous skirt was highlighted at the back with cascades of scalloped lace and drifted into an aisle wide chapel train. Her bouffant viel of French illusion fell from a plateau of lace petals lavished with pearls and crystal teardrops. She carried a cascade of white glamelias tied with white bridal satin and glacier ivy, interspersed with coral tint stephanotis.

Honor attendant was Miss Sandra Meinershagen, Levasy. Bridesmaids were Miss Jane Ann Langner, Kansas City, Miss Candace Nugent, Winnfield, La., and Miss Myra Arbogast. They wore full skirted floor length gowns of coral silk organza. The fitted bodices of imported Chantilly lace were styled with scalloped Sabrina necklines and half sleeves. The controlled skirts featured lace scalloped bands and were topped with matching velvet waistbands tied with streamered bows at the back. Their headpieces of matching coral illusion were pleateaus of looped pearls and crystals. In their hands they held cascades of coral glamelias interspersed with ivy and Stephanotis.

The bridegroom chose for his best man, his brother, Mr. Donald A. Wilhite. Brothers of the bride, Mr. Robert W. Madorin and Mr. Stephen E. Madorin were groomsmen, in addition to Mr. Terry Ahern, Oklahoma City, Okla.

Ushering duties were performed by Mr. Stephen Graves, Kansas City, and Mr. Curtis B. Rocklage, Jr., Henrietta.

The bride's mother was attired in a blue silk shantique dress with matching accessories. Her flowers were white cymbidium orchids with blue trim.

Following the wedding, a reception for 180 guests was held at the church. Mrs. Bud L. Cramer and Mrs. Roy Loding, Kansas City, and Miss Ida Cranis, St. Louis, served guests from the bride's table, which was covered with floor length lace cloth over white satin. Coral satin bows caught up corners of the cloth. A four tiered wedding cake centered the table. Simlax and coral florets surrounded the base of the cake. Crystal candelabra, holding lighted tapers, stood at the sides of the cake. At one end of the table, an heirloom cut glass bowl held punch.

A tour of the west coast and Hawaiian Islands is being taken by the couple. Mr. and Mrs. Wilhite expect to return from the trip —July 20 and will be at home in Columbia. For the start of the trip, the bride wore a paislied print sheath of beige with white lightning accessories. Her corsage was of brinze Cymbidium orchids.

The bride is a student at the University of Missouri, Columbia, majoring in child development study.

The bridegroom is to receive a bachelor of science degree in civil engineering from MU in January, and plans to continue studies toward obtaining a master's degree.

Out of town guests were: Miss Ida Leah Cranis, Miss Jill Kapp, Mr. and Mrs. William Pyatt, St. Louis; Mr. and Mrs. Don Cramer, Mr. and Mrs. Bud L. Cramer, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Leding, Mr. and Mrs. William Cramer, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Cramer, Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Lengher, Kansas City; Mrs. Christy Payne, Pittsburgh, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Hymen Meinershagen, Levasy; Mr. and Mrs. Howard Durrill, Fulton; Dr. Homer Vance, Marshall.

Showers honoring Miss Madorin at Columbia were given by Miss Candace Nugent and Miss Jane Ann Langner.

Baker-Waller Wedding Held On June 7th

In a double ring ceremony at two o'clock Sunday afternoon, June 7, at First Christian Church, Eldon, Miss Candace Sue Baker was united in marriage to Mr. Larry Clinton Waller, Barnett. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Baker, Eldon. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Harold Martin, Route 1, Barnett.

The Rev. C. N. Van Dyke read the double ring ceremony in front of the altar, which was decorated with palms and tapers in candelabra.

Mr. Richard Bunch sang "The Wedding Prayer," accompanied by Mrs. Cletis Stark at the organ and Miss Joyce Alton at the piano.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, wore a street length gown of white satin, designed with fitted bodice and pleated skirt. A short lace jacket complimented the gown. Her shoulder length veil of illusion was held in place by a tiara of seed pearls, rhinestones and crystals. Her bouquet was of white carnations, centered with four red roses.

Miss Sandy Baker, sister of the bride, who served as maid of honor, wore a blue dacron dress designed with fitted bodice and pleated skirt. She wore a small white nylon hat with flowers and veil trim. Her Colonial bouquet was of white carnations.

Candlelighter was Mr. Billy Baker, brother of the bride.

Best man was Mr. James Dahman, Kansas City, brother of the bridegroom.

Ushering duties were performed by Mr. John Doolin and Mr. Gerry Smith.

The mother of the bride wore a two piece dress of blue dacron and white eyelet with accessories of white. The bridegroom's mother wore a navy blue dress of silk with jacket, and beige accessories. Both wore corsages of white carnations.

A reception was held in the church's fellowship hall after the ceremony. The bride's table, covered with a white lace cloth over blue, held a four tiered wedding cake, highlighted with a miniature bride and bridegroom.

Presiding at the refreshment table were Mrs. Howard Baker, Tipton; Mrs. D. C. Van Dyke, Miss Susie Luke and Miss Joyce Jackson. Mrs. James Dahman attended the guest book.

For the wedding trip, the bride wore a blue sheath with matching coat. She wore a red rose corsage, taken from the center of the bridal bouquet.

The bride was graduated from Eldon High School this spring. The bridegroom, a 1960 graduate of Versailles High School, is employed at Layne Western Drilling Co., Wichita, Kan. The couple will live in Wilson, Kan.

Mrs. Robert Henry Dieckman

Miss Delores Katherine Ehlers Weds Robert Dieckman June 6th

In the presence of 25 guests, Miss Delores Katherine Ehlers, daughter of Mr. Herman Ehlers, Stover, and the late Mrs. Ehlers, became the bride of Mr. Robert Henry Dieckman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dieckman, Cole Camp, at half past seven o'clock Saturday evening, June 6 at St. Paul's Lutheran Church, Stover. The Rev. Mr. Banmung read the double ring ceremony.

Two bouquets of spring flowers stood on the altar.

Organ selections were played by Miss Beverly Fischer, Seward, Nebr. She accompanied Mrs. Gene Cox, Stover, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "The Wedding Prayer."

An all white ballerina length gown was worn by the bride, who was escorted to the altar by her father. The gown's fitted bodice was of Chantilly lace over silk organza and tapered to a modest V in front. Small clusters of lace nylon were appliqued to the full skirt, which was styled to a waistline V in back. A crown of seed pearls held her tulle elbow length veil. At the neckline of the gown, she wore a single strand of pearls given her by the bridegroom. She carried a bouquet of pink roses and white carnations. Her slippers were white.

Blue lace was fashioned over taffeta for the ballerina length full skirted gown of the maid of honor, Miss Carol Schedler, Lockwood. The fitted bodice had a back V neckline and cap sleeves. The waist was sashed with blue taffeta. Her veil hat was blue. To match accessories of white, she carried a Colonial bouquet of white roses and white carnations.

Mr. Nelson Eckhoff, Cole Camp, was best man.

The bridegroom's mother wore a turquoise blue linen dress, accessorized with white and black. Her corsage was of double white carnations.

At 8 p.m., 175 guests attended a reception for the couple at St. Paul's Lutheran Church. A large white bell and two small white bells were suspended over the serving table, and caught pink and white streamers, which extended as a canopy. The bride's table was centered with a five tiered cake. White slippers, roses and wedding bells decorated the tiers. Lattice hearts surrounded the edges. On the bridal tier, a miniature bridal couple stood. Small lovebirds holding wedding rings were on the white table cloth. Two white candles stood at the sides of the cake.

Miss Valeta Kipp, and Mrs. Marnem Fischer, Stover, the latter a cousin of the bride, served. Mrs. Marvin Ehlers, Sedalia, attended the guest book.

The Ozarks region of Southern Missouri was the destination of a wedding trip for the couple. The bride wore, to travel, a mint green two piece suit with white accessories and a double carnation corsage in white.

The couple is at home in Stover and will move to Warsaw later.

The bride is a 1961 graduate of Stover High School and is employed at Cooper's Store, Stover. The bridegroom is an employee of the State Highway Department, Warsaw.

Assisting in serving were Mrs. Elvon Wahlers, Mrs. Norman Steinmeyer, Mrs. Martin Fischer, all cousins of the bride, Mrs. Leon Viebrock and Miss Hazel Ebeling, cousins of the bridegroom. Mr. Robert Ehlers and Mr. Marvin Ehlers, brothers of the bride.

Gifts were received for the couple by Mrs. Norbert Ehlers, Miss Carol Steinmeyer and Miss Viola Wehrman.

Out of town guests included: Mr. and Mrs. Norman Steinmeyer and family, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dieckman, Mr. and Mrs. Lester Coleman and son, Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Burke, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Eckhoff, Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Brockman, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Brockman, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ebeling and Hazel, Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Dieckman and family, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Steinmeyer, Mr. and Mrs. Mike Kerksirk, Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Meyers and family, Mrs. Nelson Eckhoff and Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Eickhoff, Cole Camp;

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Ehlers, Donna and Ronnie, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Coleman, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Dieckman, Sedalia; Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Borchers and family, Miss Mary Louise Schroeder, Wakenda; Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Grupe, Florence; Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Ehlers, Belton; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Miller, Kansas City; Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Mossman, Perryville; Albert Nottmeier, Blue Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Nottmeier and Bonnie Lou, of Sweet Springs;

Miss Carol Schedler, Lockwood; Mr. and Mrs. Jim Shultz, Hallsville; Miss Beverly Fischer, Seward, Nebr.; Mrs. Don Moore, State of Colorado; Mr. and Mrs. Chester Nolte and family, Blackburn; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kerksirk, Blackburn.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry H. Vaughn, Neosho, announce the engagement of their daughter, Diane Louise, to Mr. Hugh Anderson Jones, II, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Hugh A. Jones, 1104 East Broadway. The bride-to-be attended Central Methodist College, Fayette; Tulsa University, Tulsa, Okla., and is a senior at Oklahoma State University, Stillwater. The prospective bridegroom has a degree in political science from Central Methodist College and did graduate work at Oklahoma State University. He is employed by Manned Space Craft Center, Houston, Tex., in the management intern program. The wedding date has not been selected.

Dillon-Kuhns Wedding Held On June 6th

Miss Judy Kay Dillion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Dillon, Route 3, and Mr. Billy Dean Kuhns, son of Mrs. Ervin Stephens, Clinton, and Mr. C. S. Kuhns, Sedalia, were united in marriage at two o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 6 in a double ring ceremony at LaMonte Christian Church. The Rev. Roy C. Smith, pastor, officiated.

Altar flowers were white stock and pink Killion daisies.

Mrs. Jim Pace, Sedalia, played "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me" and wedding marches. Mrs. D. I. Sevier, LaMonte, sang "Because."

Candles were lighted by Miss Betty Perriguey, cousin of the bride. Her dress was lavender brocade, with white accessories and white carnations.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was white lace over nylon of ballerina length. Her veil was also ballerina length, with white satin headdress edged in white pearl beads. She carried pink and white rosebuds on a white prayer book.

Only attendant for the bride was Miss Linda Dillon, her sister. Her dress was pink with white accessories. She carried white carnations.

Best man was Mr. Gary McBain.

Ushers were Mr. Bob Reiter, uncle of the bride, and Mr. Charles Martin, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a navy blue dress with white accessories and white carnations.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the church. Servers at the bride's table were Mrs. Earl Perriguey and Mrs. Gene Whittington. In charge of the guest book was Mrs. Gary McBain. Gifts were received for the couple by Miss Sue Dillon.

The bride was graduated from Smith-Cotton High School in May of 1964. The bridegroom a 1959 graduate of Smith-Cotton, is manager of One Hour Cleaners in Marshall.

Mr. and Mrs. Murray Wood, LaMonte, announce the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Ruth Ann, to Mr. Paul Culp, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Culp, Smithton. The wedding is planned for July 25.

FLOOR LAMPS AND TABLE LAMPS

Mrs. Studer

During the last few years, there has been growing emphasis on the decorating aspects of lamps and now you have available every possible size, style, color and type of lamp for every decorating use.

Actually, the properly selected lamps can be the making of a successfully decorated room in your home.

Aside from an endless selection of table and floor lamps, there is an ever growing assortment of pole lamps and tree lamps on the market.

Of course, the basic use of any lamp is good lighting, but it is equally important that the lamps do something color-wise and decorator-wise wherever they are used.

Tall table lamps on low tables are very popular. That's one decorating suggestion.

We'd be happy to help you with your lamp selection and suggest you take advantage of our free decorator service.

If you prefer in-the-home Decorating Assistance, phone TA 6-2122 for an appointment. There's no obligation.

4-H Round-Up with

OWEN FOX

Extension Youth Agent
Pettis County

Dates Ahead

June 23-27 — District Junior Leader 4-H Conference, Camp Clover Point, Lake of the Ozarks State Park.

Wednesday, July 1 — County 4-H Dairy Judging Day.

July 22-24 — Pettis County 4-H Achievement Day.

4-H Judging Day

There was a good turn out at the County 4-H Judging Day last Wednesday. A total of 210 ribbons were awarded in the various divisions.

Judging was included in the following divisions: Foods, vegetables, woodwork, home management, child care, clothing, knitting, and home grounds. Thanks to the adult leaders who helped with the registration and scoring.

Junior Leader Conference

Seven Pettis County 4-H leaders will attend the District 4-H Junior Leaders Conference, June 23-27, at Camp Clover Point, Lake of the Ozarks. Those attending are as follows: John Sneed, Beaman Arator 4-H Club; Richard Grant, and Susan Smiley, Houstonia 4-H Club; Richard Callis, Hughesville Happy Helper 4-H Club; Linda Mergen and Dorothy Mergen, Quisenberry Hustlers 4-H Club; and Donna Mittelhauser, Brown 4-H Club.

The Junior Leaders will have an opportunity to attend one of the following workshops: Speech, Great Decisions, Counseling and Career Exploration.

County 4-H Dairy Judging Day

All 4-H Dairy members are encouraged to try their hand at judging at the County 4-H Dairy Judging Event to be held on Wednesday, July 1. The 4-H Dairy leaders and parents are invited to attend, too.

The judging event will start at the John Bluhm farm at 9 a.m. where a class of Holstein cows and Holstein heifers will be judged. The next stop will be at the Gerald Volpp farm where a class of Jersey cows and a class of Jersey heifers will be judged. The last stop will be at the Sam Freund farm where a class of Guernsey heifers and a class of Guernsey cows will be judged. May I remind 4-H members to bring their lunch.

4-H Achievement Days

Pettis County Achievement Days will be held July 22-24 at the Smith-Cotton High School. A letter containing detailed information about the 4-H Achievement Days will be mailed to all 4-H leaders and members in the next few days; meanwhile, be thinking about what you plan to exhibit. This can be done by referring to the exhibit list that was mailed to you earlier this spring.

It should be the goal of every 4-H Club member to exhibit the items that they have made in their project. For this reason it is very helpful that each 4-H member complete the items required in their project before Achievement Day. Almost all 4-H projects lend themself to exhibiting. For the members that are not in a project where they can exhibit, you can still participate in Achievement Day by entering a demonstration, being in the Grooming Contest, modeling a garment in dress review or if you are a Junior Leader you may enter Public Speaking.

4-H Camp

Several 4-H Club members have asked about 4-H camp. The Junior Camp will be held July 29 to August 1 for boys and girls 12 and under. The Senior Camp will be held August 1-4 for boys and girls age 12 and over. We will again camp with Johnson County at Camp Bob White, Knob Noster State Park.

Each 4-H member will receive a letter from our office in the next few days giving you the details of 4-H camp and the date in which you may sign up. Talk to other 4-H members about attending camp with you. Camping is an outdoor educational experience that 4-H members will not want to miss.

Each year we look to parents and leaders to volunteer for 4-H camp counselors. We sort of expect clubs who send 4-H members to also be prepared to send a counselor.

4-H Livestock Show

Some of you have probably been wondering when you will be receiving the 4-H Livestock Show catalogue. I will admit that it is a little late this year. The catalogue will be in the mail in the next day or so.

There were a total of 108 business men and business firms taking an ad in the catalogue. We certainly thank these advertisers for their support of the 4-H Livestock Show.

Republicans Embarrassed By Goldwater

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania said Friday that Sen. Barry Gotdwater, his opponent for the Republican presidential nomination, has "embarrassed" the GOP by criticizing poverty-stricken people.

Scranton also was critical of President Johnson's war on poverty, calling it "woefully inadequate in assisting the poor who are poor today."

Scranton moved into Kentucky in efforts to gain delegate votes and try to overtake Goldwater, who has more than enough delegates favoring him to win the nomination if all support him on the first ballot, according to an Associated Press poll.

Scranton's trip here was delayed for 23 minutes at Harrisburg, Pa., after an anonymous telephone call said a bomb was on his campaign plane. The plane departed after a search of the craft failed to turn up any bomb.

In a speech here, Scranton, in an obvious reference to Goldwater, said: "I believe it is most unfortunate that the present front-running candidate for our presidential nomination has embarrassed our party by announcing that people who are poor have only their stupidity or their laziness to blame."

Scranton said Goldwater's statements about poverty are "a slander on the thousands of good Americans who through no caught in the backlash of our urbanized, industrialized, fast-moving society."

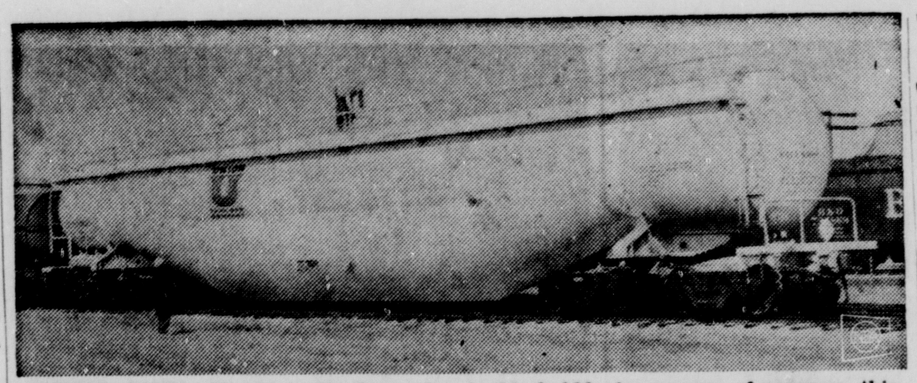

As for Johnson, Scranton said: "Shortly after he assumed office in a great fit of nervous energy, the President hit upon poverty as a first-class political issue.

"To the vast army of bureaucrats of his command he gave the order: 'Make me an instant poverty program. It doesn't have to do anything about poverty, but it has to be against it.'

Scranton said the result was a "war on poverty that is woefully inadequate in assisting the poor who are poor today."

Kentucky is the sixth state in which Scranton has campaigned for delegate votes this week, not counting Pennsylvania. Earlier in the week, he toured the Midwest covering Iowa, Minnesota, Kansas, Colorado and Missouri.

Saturday he addresses the Massachusetts State Republican Convention in Boston.

Mrs. James H. Brockman

Miss Judith Ann Robb Marries Mr. James H. Brockman in June

Emerald palms and lighted tapers in nine branch candelabra, were part of the altar setting at St. John's Lutheran Church for the marriage of Miss Judith Ann Robb, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles J. Robb, Route 1, to Mr. James Harold Brockman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brockman, Ionia, at six o'clock Saturday evening, June 6.

The Rev. J. W. Boehne read the double ring ceremony before altar baskets and vases of white gladioli and chrysanthemums. Emerald foliage marked the pews. A white aisle carpet covered the bridal aisle.

Miss Rosella Schnakenberg, Cole Camp, played traditional wedding selections at the organ. She accompanied Mr. David Schnakenberg, Cole Camp, who sang "The Lord's Prayer" and "I Love You Truly."

Miss Mary Brockman, Ionia, and Mr. Patrick Andrews, Boonville, lighted candles. Miss Brockman wore a corsage of white Killion daises with her costume and carried a lighted white candle tied with yellow ribbon.

Mr. Charles J. Robb gave his daughter in marriage. She wore a sheath gown of white peau de soie, styled with a sweetheart neckline embellished with Chantilly lace motifs, long sleeves, which tapered to points over the hands, and an empire waistline, accented with a tiny bow. The back of the bride's gown was designed with a low neckline, to which the train was gathered. The train was brought to the center of the waistline with a bow, then swept to the floor. Chantilly lace embossed the hemline. She carried a cascade of white glamelias, stephanotis and glacier ivy, tied with white bridal satin. Her veil was elbow length tulle, suspended from a forward fabric flower, sewn with beading.

Miss Peggy Robb was maid of honor. She carried a fan arrangement of white Killion daisies tied with white satin streamers. Her gown was of pastel shade Miss Ruby Weinberg, Cole Camp, Mrs. Linda Decker, Sedalia, and Miss Joyce Brockman, Ionia, were bridesmaids.

Best man was Mr. Joe Brockman. Groomsmen were Mr. Tom Robb and Mr. Kenneth Harms, Sedalia, and Mr. Cecil Harms, Ionia.

Ushers were Mr. Robert Lange, Cole Camp, and Mr. Jim Creek, Kansas City.

Miss Lori Lanet Bane, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Loren E. Bane, St. Louis, was flower girl. Her gown was like that of the bride, minus the train She carried a basket of rose petals.

Rings were carried to the altar by Master David Borchers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Borchers, Cole Camp.

A green and white suit with white accessories were worn by the mother of the bride. The bridegroom's mother selected a two piece green costume and accessories of white. Their corsages were of white orchids.

Three hundred guests were received by the newly married couple after the ceremony, in The bride's table was covered with a white crocheted cloth made by the bride's grandmother. A four tiered wedding cake centered the table. It was surrounded at the base with yellow daisies and smilax. Two crystal candelabra held lighted white tapers.

Guests were served by Miss Janice Erickson, Sedalia, and Miss Myra Kay Harms, Cole Camp. Miss Diane Shoemaker, Sedalia, attended the guest book.

For a short trip with her husband to the southern part of Missouri, the bride wore a blue and white suit, with a blue and white striped blouse. Her accessories were white. To the shoulder of her traveling costume, she pinned fresh flowers.

The couple is at home at 1002 West Broadway.

The bride was graduated in 1961 from Smith-Cotton High School. She is employed at Western and Southern Life Insurance Company. The bridegroom attended Benton County schools and is associated with Brockman's Sure Mix Feed Service, Ionia.

Mrs. Kathry Cole was hostess at a shower for the bride.

Guests were: Mrs. Ray Dean Haley, Mrs. Clell Furnell, Mrs. William Stelljes, Mrs. Elmer Caldwell, Mrs. Elmer Gerken and daughter, Mary Ann, Mrs. Roy Eding, Miss Lucille Swafford, Mrs. Edward Christian, Mrs. James Anderson, Mrs. Robert Parker, Mrs. Harold Brockman, Miss Mary Brockman, Miss Joyce Brockman, Miss Ruby Weinberg, Mrs. Gail Demand, Miss June Cusick, Miss Diane Shoemaker, Miss Peggy Robb, Mrs. Larry Decker, Mrs. Jim Martin, Mrs. Richard Arnett and son, Richie, Mrs. Kathryn Cole and Mrs. Charles Robb.

Battles-Hill Vows Blessed On June 20th

June brides included Miss Helen Marie Battles, who was wed to Mr. Lester Calvin Hill, Jr., at ten o'clock Saturday morning, June 20 at Saint Andrew's Catholic Church, Tipton. The Rev. Robert Chenoweth, assistant pastor, heard the exchange of vows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Battles, Tipton. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Lester Calvin Hill, Peytona, W. Va.

Mrs. Georgia Schmitt was organist. She accompanied soloists, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bestgen.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a gown of imported Chantilly lace and tulle over ruffled net and delustered taffeta. The all lace fitted bodice was accented with a scalloped portrait neckline. The circular floor length gown was highlighted by lace appliques on a tulle panel set between French lace with tiered ruffles of tulle and lace in back. She carried white carnations in a bouquet. Her bouffant veil of imported French illusion was secured by a forward spray of organza petals and leaves, sewn with seed pearls.

Miss Virginia Battles was maid of honor for her sister. She was gowned in lavender brocade, styled with short kimono sleeves. The bodice was fitted and had a rounded neckline. The skirt was full and street length. She carried a rounded bouquet of white carnations with lavender streamers. A circle of veiling fell from her lavender pillbox.

Bridesmaid was Mrs. Dorothy Stemberger. Her gown, flowers and headpiece were like that of the maid of honor.

Mr. David Battles, brother of the bride, served as best man. Mr. Charles Stemberger, brother-in-law of the bride, was groomsman.

Ushers were: Mr. Donnie Battles, brother of the bride, Mr. Bobby Schuster, Mr. David Kempf and Mr. Kenny Wolf, Tipton.

Mrs. Battles wore a pink dress of rayon and nylon, with fitted bodice and full skirt. Her corsage was of white carnations.

Assisting at the reception table were Miss Mary Lou Elmlinger, Tipton; Miss Janice Homan and Miss Mary Homan, Fortuna, and Miss Mary Hansen, Syracuse.

Guest book listings were made by Miss Pearl Battles, Kansas City.

The bride wore a green and white two piece suit with white accessories for traveling. Her corsage was of white carnations. After a wedding trip to West Virginia, the couple will reside in Tipton.

The bride was graduated from Tipton High School in 1964. A 1960 graduate of Sherman Tide High School, Peytona, W. Va., the bridegroom is assigned at Whiteman Air Force Base, Knob Noster.

Mrs. Wayne Warren Richardson

Miss Marilyn Katherine Knudsen Weds Wayne Warren Richardson

Miss Marilyn Katherine Knudsen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thorvald Knudsen, San Francisco, Calif., and Mr. Wayne Warren Richardson, son of Mr. Wayne Richardson, 423 West Sixth Street, were united in marriage at three o'clock Saturday afternoon, June 6 at St. Peter's Episcopal Church, San Francisco, Calif.

Carnations, gladioli and stock in altar arrangements, decorated the sanctuary, where the Rev. Oliver Nixon read the ceremony.

The bride, escorted down the aisle by her father, wore a full length peau de soie gown with lace overbodice. The overbodice was styled with a sweetheart neckline and long sleeves. Her full length veil was of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white carnations.

Miss Susan Creek was maid of honor and Miss Virginia Knudsen was bridesmaid. They wore powder blue peau de soie, gowns, with scalloped neckline, short sleeves and street length skirts.

Mr. Robert Belden was best man. Ushers were Mr. Harold Knudsen and Mrs. Arnold Knudsen.

The bride's mother wore a blue brocade two piece dress. The mother of the bridegroom was also attired in a two piece blue brocade dress.

After the wedding, a reception was held at Forest Hill Club House.

The couple left for Yellowstone National Park for a wedding trip and will live in Billings, Mont.

For traveling the bride wore a deep blue suit with deeper hued gloves and scarf and white accessories.

The bride was graduated from George Washington High School and attended San Francisco State College. The bridegroom, a Smith-Cotton High School graduate, attended Missouri School of Mines and Metallurgy and Rocky Mountain College.

Policy On Weddings Publication

The following information concerning publication of items on wedding ceremonies is intended to encourage readers to expedite such information to the newspaper's offices as soon after the ceremony as possible

Wedding items turned in for publication in The Democrat-Capital cannot be accepted for a Sunday edition after two weeks have elapsed, due to the untimeliness of the item. However, such items are accepted for publication in weekday editions with or without a picture for a period of four weeks after the wedding date. A picture will not be published after four weeks.

Pictures for Sunday Society must be in by 12 noon Thursday.

After six weeks have elapsed, wedding ceremony items are no longer considered of significant news value to warrant publication.

"On The Wagon"

The expression of being "on the wagon" for a person who has given up drinking originated with the old U.S. Army. The wagon referred to is the water wagon which accompanied troops on march. Someone who was being disciplined for drunkenness was ordered to stay on the water.

Proposed Park Site

Completion of Glen Canyon Dam will transform the southeast corner of Utah. Tourists will be able to reach a scenic wonderland, long inaccessible by car, because of huge Lake Powell. The area, proposed as a national park, contains arches, canyons, and the spectacular Needles, a region of towering pinnacles.

BELCHING POLARIS—The USS Daniel Webster, nuclear submarine, here shown blowing a huge, mushroom-shaped water cloud from its Polaris missile tube, recently shot a long-range Polaris A-3 rocket 1,500 miles. The A-3, designed to carry a nuclear warhead equal to nearly one million tons of TNT, has a 2,800-mile range—enough to hit any target in the world.

Till now you've had to put up with straps that stretch, which have a bad habit of twisting and binding—especially after they are washed. Forget it! Maidenform's newest 'Sweet Music' bra has straps that stretch smoothly over your shoulders, around the back and under the cups, and stay smooth, no matter how active you are or how often you wash the bra. That's because they're made with a totally new kind of elastic—light, meshy, and permanently treated to lie flat! The shaping of the bra? Pure Maidenform! Firm, spoke-stitched cups made of smooth cotton, with under-cup inserts for extra support and uplift.

GREGORY PECK assays an entirely new kind of role as Atticus, the gentle father and fighting attorney in the screen version of Harper Lee's best-seller "To Kill a Mockingbird." Left and right are Mary Badham as "Scout" and Phillip Alford as "Jem." The film is set for a Wednesday opening at the 50 Drive-In Theatre. Co-featured is "The List of Adrian Messenger," a mystery starring Burt Lancaster, Tony Curtis, Kirk Douglas, Robert Mitchum and Frank Sinatra.

Missouri OES

Grand Officers Entertained At County Fair Theme Party

The grand officers of the Missouri Order of the Eastern Star were honored at a reception at the Green Ridge School Saturday evening, June 13, with approximately 275 guests present and the 36th District as host.

The theme of the county fair was carried throughout the evening, beginning with arrival of guests who were greeted by Ray Lemke asking them to sign and get a free balloon. Rita Lefferman had charge of the guest book.

The hall and auditorium were decorated appropriately for a county fair. A lemonade and popcorn stand was operated by Bob Chambers, and Mable Chambers, as a gypsy fortune teller, mingled among the crowd telling fortunes.

A corn pitch game, operated by George Titsworth, afforded amusement and proceeds were given to Esloral fund. Glen Heck and Howard Scott had the "Guess your weight" stand and the proceeds from this went to the worthy grand matrons special project, the OES retirement home.

Both sides of the auditorium were lined with booths of exhibits that might be seen at any fair, such as quilts, handwork, jellies, pies, cakes, cookies, flowers, antiques, hobbies, grains, fruits, vegetables, table arrangements and a penny arcade.

Pennants hung from above spelling out names of all chapters in the 36th District. Warrensburg, No. 3; Sedalia, No. 57; Knob Noster, No. 106; Chilhowee, No. 121; Holden, No. 171; Leeton, No. 200; Pettis, No. 279; Guiding Star, No. 306 and Osage Valley, No. 502.

At 6:30, a buffet style dinner was served in the dining room which was decorated in keeping with the theme. The Grand Family table was centered with an arrangement of greenery, inset with a tree on which perched a family of owls. On each side were crystal candelabra. Other tables were decorated with arrangements, also, including floral bouquets and flags. Favors were small cones representing cotton candy.

Shirley Ryan played a prelude of piano music between the completion of dinner and the program which began at 8 o'clock in the auditorium. Carole Ragar, June White and Rita Ragar served as program vendors and gave sourvenir fans on which were printed programs.

Ercil Purchase, narrator, welcomed guests and Jack Chambers announced names of all grand officers as they entered and were escorted to their seats.

The grand entrance was made by the Vera Sappington, worthy grand patron, escorted by Cecil Bohon, and Robert A. Corum, worthy grand patron, escorted by Dorthea Dowdy and led by the home district deputy matron, Sylvia Harding, escorted by Ross Stephens. They were seated in improvised box seats in the East. This was decorated with baskets of flowers and surrounded by a white picket fence entwined with roses. A lamp of red to coral adorned a table and ferns served as a background.

A Bible ceremony was given by worthy matrons and worthy patrons of the district with Viola Coffman, past grand matron; John Owen, past grand patron, and Edwin Kettleson, past grand patron, narrating. Preceding the ceremony Bill Covey sang "No Man Is An Island," accompanied by Betty Matthews. Edna Beach, organist, very softly played "Walk in the Light" during the ceremony. The Bible and lamp, emblem and symbols of the worthy grand matron, were used stressing "Light" as the theme of the ceremony.

Introductions, songs and ceremonies were extended to the honored guests with Dorothy Owens as soloist accompanied by Mary Harlan. The worthy grand matron and worthy grand patron were crowned queen and king of the fair in a ceremony by the worthy matrons and worthy patron and reigned in this capacity throughout the evening.

Honorary memberships and gifts to others were presented to the worthy grand matron and worthy grand patron by district chapters, clubs and individuals.

A side show was given with Charlie Hofheins as master of ceremonies and six girls dressed as sailorettes, presented a novelty dance. They were Vicki Ray, Sherri Fingland, Cindy Delph, Bechi Ray, Judy Fingland and Donna Ray. This was followed by a swan dance given by Ray Lemke dressed as a ballet dancer and assuming the name, Ramona Lemkeno.

District gifts were presented by Lefferman giving the worthy grand matron the blue ribbon cake and Ross Stephens worthy grand patron the champion hog, (piggy bank).

Addresses were given by Vera Sappington, WGM; Robert Corum, WGP; Geraldine Molander, grand conductress; Sylvia Harding, DDGM, after which all repeated the Mizpah benediction.

The grand officers were escorted by the booth of homemade articles where each was presenter a gift.

Grand officers present were: Vera Sappington, WGM, St. Louis; Robert A Corum, WGP, Excelsior Springs; Frieda Boenig, grand secretary, St. Louis; Geraldine Molander, grand conductress, Kansas City; Fern Weber, associate grand conductress, Richmond; Mary Winn, grand marshal, St. Ann; Jessie Gilpin, grand Adah, Rock Hill; Hazel Phipps, grand Esther, Bronough; Essie Horn, grand Martha, St. Louis; Frank Arnold, grand sentinel, Boonville; Vida Mae Hamlin, PGM, Kansas City; Viola Coffman, PGM, Sedalia; Russell Wilcox, PGP, Springfield; John Owen, PGP, Sedalia; Edwin Kettleson, PGP, Kansas City; Hazel Moore, district deputy grand matron, Fairfax; Ann Schorling, DDGM, Kansas City; Ann Royce, DDGM, Sarcoxie; Venida Gergs, DDGM, St. Louis; Muriel Dohr, DDGM, St. Louis; Mary Beth Bird, DDGM, Springfield; Sally Sherwood, DDGM, Marshall; Betty Wright, grand representative to West Virginia, Madison; Ruth Lutz, GR to Nevada, Paris; Ruth Arnold, GR to California, Boonville; Eunice Taylor, GR to Ohio, Cameron; Behten Corum, GR to Mississippi, Excelsior Springs; Lorene Hofheins, GR to Deleware, Sedalia.

Worthy matrons and worthy patrons form the 36th district present were: Margrate Talley and Jerry Talley, Warrensburg; Dorothea Dowdy and Cecil Bohon, Sedalia, 57; Mable Baker and Bob Burke, Knob Noster; mary McKinsey and J. S. McKinsey, Chilhowee; Edna Almond and Georce Case Holden, Beatrice Graham, Leeton; Berniece Pahlow and Ross Stephens, Pettis Chapter, Sedalia; Rita Lefferman and Jack Chambers, Guiding Star, Green Ridge; Josephine Parker and Felix Parker, Osage Valley, Warsaw.

MacMurray's Views On Father's Day

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Sunday is Father's Day, and one of America's most famous fathers Fred MacMurray, has this observation:

"If only a father's problems with his children could be solved as simply and as neatly as they are in family situation comedies on television!"

Fred paused in the midst of filming his fifth year of "My Three Sons" to contemplate the differences.

"Oh, it seems like a cinch, the way the script boys work it out," he reflected. "One of my sons gets a problem and comes to me with it. I'm very sage and helpful, but of course I leave it up to him to find his own solution. And he does—all in the space of less than a half-hour.

"At home it's a different matter. I'm not all that sage and thoughtful. In fact, I get mad a lot more easily. And I don't get anything solved in half an hour, believe me."

Fred and his late first wife were parents of a daughter and son. He and June Haver, adopted twin girls, now 8. Then there is his television tribe: Tim Considine, Don Grady and Stanley Livingstone.

Fred said that being a famous father can present special difficulties.

"It's not so much a problem in Hollywood," he said, "but the kids can find it bothersome on the outside to be known as a movie star's child. My son Robby felt it at school when a lot of other boys would say, 'So you're Fred's kid, huh?' It's tough to be known all the time as Fred's kid when he wants to have an identity of his own."

Penney's Department Manager to Illinois

Ron Shipley, ready to wear manager for the J. C. Penney Co. store in Sedalia, will move soon to the company store in Kewanee, Ill., to be a department manager. The announcement was made Friday by Bob Rudisill, local manager.

Replacing Shipley, will be Jack Watts, assistant manager for Penney's in Boonville. Watts and two children, Jackie Wayne, 7, and Debbie, 2, will move to Sedalia. Watts assumes duties June 29.

In Ranks With Area Servicemen

Cadet Mont E. Sutherland, son of Mrs. Josephine M. Sutherland, of Windsor, who recently completed his second year at the U.S. Air Force Academy, is on a field study tour of U.S. and allied military installations in Spain, Italy, France and Germany as part of his summer training.

Cadet Sutherland will be assigned to a junior officer position in an operational Air Force unit at the end of the overseas study tour for training in the "Operation Third Lieutenant" program.

The study tour and Operation Third Lieutenant training period are provided to give cadets a better knowledge and understanding of American and allied military operations and capabilities in defense of the free world.

Cadet Sutherland, a graduate of Windsor High School, is scheduled to receive his second lieutenant's commission upon graduation from the academy in June 1966.

Army PFC Riley D. Keele, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Keele, Route 1, Sedalia, participated with other members of 3d Armored Division units in a week of annual training tests (ATT) at Wildflecken, Germany, ending June 11.

The ATT is a tough and complete assessment of a unit's combat readiness under the most realistic conditions possible in peacetime.

Keele, a member of Battery C, 2d Battalion in the division's 6th Artillery near Gelnhausen, entered the Army in June 1963, completed basic training at Fort Leonard Wood, Mo., and arrived overseas in March 1964.

Cadet Donald L. Hausam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul F. Hausam, 1207 West Sixth, Sedalia, who recently completed his second year at the U.S. Air Force Academy, is on a field study tour of U.S. and allied military installations in England, France and Germany as part of his summer training.

Cadet Hausam will be assigned to a junior officer position in an operational Air Force unit at the end of the overseas study tour for training in the "Operation Third Lieutenant" program.

The study tour and Operation Third Lieutenant training period are provided to give cadets a better knowledge and understanding of American and allied military operations and capabilities in defense of the free world.

Cadet Hausam, a graduate of Smith-Cotton High School, is scheduled to receive his second lieutenant's commission upon graduation from the academy in June 1966.

Navy Lieutenant junior grade Lloyd W. Decker, son of Mrs. A. M. Decker, 1421 South Ohio, Sedalia, recently returned to Alameda, Calif. aboard the 62,000-ton Navy aircraft carrier USS Midway after completing a six and one-half month Far East cruise with the U. S. Seventh Fleet.

While on this cruise, the ship visited Hawaii, Hong Kong, Subic Bay in the Philippines and the Japanese cities of Sasebo, Beppu, Iwakuni and Yokosuka.

The ship will remain in Alameda for about a month before resuming operations with the Pacific Fleet off the California coast.

William Holden, Alec Guinness and Jack Hawkins star in Sam Spiegel's "The Bridge on the River Kwai," the CinemaScope-Technicolor drama which won seven Academy Awards including that for "best picture." "Kwai" was made by Spiegel and director David Lean, makers of the spectacular "Lawrence of Arabia." Now showing at the Fox Theatre.

Struggle for Ground In Malaysia

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — Skimming the jungles, hills and swamps of Sarawak and Sabah, keen-eyed British pilots daily hunt out guerrilla bands sent by Indonesia's President Sukarno to rouse the peoples of Malaysia to revolt.

More than 4,000 miles to the west, along the dusty trail to the old town of Dhala on South Arabia's frontier with Yene, British troops are slugging it out with the followers of Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

What are the links between the gruelling, undeclared wars which the British are fighting today in the steaming Malaysian forests and the shifting sands of Araby?

Confronting the British are two absolute leaders, Sukarno and Nasser, dedicated in their nationalism, sworn to destroy the young federations on their frontiers.

To Sukarno, Malaysia is a conspiracy, hatched by the cunning British, to encircle his nation of 100 million in a new - type colonialist venture. The Indonesian strongman has yet to answer the mystifying question of how 10 million Malaysians can threaten the security of the world's fifth most populated state.

Nasser, unwilling to forget the Suez affair of 1956, claims the last vestiges of a British presence in the Middle East are a dagger pointing at the heart of Pan-Arabism.

The two men, as Britons see them, share lots of other things including unbounddd political ambition, a revolutionary disregard for the international conventions and a predisposition to side with the Communists even while professing to be neutral in the world power struggle.

Thus Sukarno is able fervently to speak of Indonesia as the second-biggest world power of the future; to rename part of the Indian Ocean "the Indonesian Ocean;" to describe the Indonesian revolution as "greater than the American or Russian revolutions;" to bid for leadership of the world's third bloc.

Nasser, with equal imagination, sees Egypt as the bridge between Asia and Africa; and as the center of successive circles of power beginning with Arabs, then taking in all Islam, embracing finally all Asians and Africans.

In their public pronouncements, both Sukarno and Nasser have chosen to ignore at least one reality:

It is that Britain, for all her colonial yesterdays, is hustling today to shed what remains of her empire in a fashion she considers orderly and responsible.

This process is being highlighted by talk of preserving some vital military bases, air and sea lanes to the east, frontier fighting, the crushing of mutinies.

The British regard some of their involvements in the Persian Gulf region, in East Africa and in Malaysia as serving a broader Western interest as well as a distinctly national interest. They argue that they must have an essential minimum number of places where troops can be garrisoned, weapons stockpiled, vehicles serviced, installations ever - ready and air and sea lanes kept open.

In a nutshell, the British case is that they have a political and moral duty to cushion the emerging states of the Persian Gulf, East Africa and Southeast Asia against the shocks of independence in a hard, cruel world.

Aden is needed by the British to guard:

—The rise of the South Arabian Federation to independence.

—The new-formed East African countries, at their own request, against subversion from inside and outside.

It serves also as a halfway house between the home islands and Britain's Asian outposts centering on Singapore.

These stem in part from the classical but arbitrary patterns of imperial policy followed by the British. They come partly from the anti - imperialist postures assumed by Sukarno's Indonesians, who would like to gobble up Malaysian Borneo, and by Nasser's Arabs, who want every bit of Araby.

To begin with, the peoples of the Malaysian territories and of Southern Arabia do not make up natural nations.

The British pushed the Malaysian concept as a neat way of linking their remaining Asian colonies into one tidy package. Its purpose was to check the westward spread of communism. Built around the independent Commonwealth state of Malaya, the federation cuts a 1,600-mile arc through the South China Sea, from allied Thailand through Singapore and then eastwards to the Borneo landmass and the Sulu Sea, where Philippine pirates still sail.

Malaysia's 10 million divergent people take in bejeweled sultans with their harems, head-hunters of the Borneo forests, Indians and Ceylonese and Chinese, tribesmen from Sarawak and sophisticates of Singapore. Buddhist, Muslim Hindu, Christian are among the religions.

For leaders like Malaya's Tunku Abdul Rahman—now federal prime minister—Singapore's Lee Kuan Yew and Sarawak's Temenggong Jugah—paramount chief of the dayaks—the federation was a political godsend.

It provided the Malays with a chance to prevent being swamped by the Chinese, who make up nearly half the total population of Malaya, Singapore, Sarawak and Sabah — North Borneo. Throughout the federation the hard - working, astute Chinese dominate business, industry, trade or the labor movement. Untold numbers of them still gaze towards Peking for their inspiration.

For the British, Malaysia looked like a good answer to the problems of decolonizing and strategy too. It enabled them formally to give up their colonies while yet binding the new state to the Commonwealth and insuring the use of bases. At the same time it offered the possibility of an anti-communist barrier against internal subversion and outside attack.

A defense treaty with Malaya was extended to cover the whole of the federation when it came into being last September 16. This was the pact invoked by Prime Minister Rahman which brought British air, land and sea forces into action to beat back the tides of Indonesian Guerrillas.

Just as Singapore is the headquarters of Britain's Far Eastern Command, so Aden is the center of Britain's Middle East Command. The mission of Britain's Aden-based forces is to safeguard every territorial interest as far south as Basutoland.

Sukarno's clamor against the new federation expressed itself in many ways, including the burning of Britain's embassy in Jaartka. Perhaps true fear of the Indonesian leader was that a British - backed, prosperous Malaysia would, by example, induce the depressed people of Indonesian Borneo to demand the sort of standards Jakarta has been unable to provide.

In a drumfire of propaganda, Indonesia denounced the federation as a British "neo-colonialist plot" to preserve London's influence in Asia.

Almost identical tirades have been broadcast nightly by Radio Cairo in condemnation of the British role in South Arabia.

The British have been encouraging the rise of the South Arabian Federation since it became clear in 1959 that Nasser intended backing Yemen's claims to all the territories under London's protection.

Altogether 13 of the 25 Aden emirates, mainly in the territory known as the Western Protectorate, have banded together and they will meet in London to work out a program leading to full independence. The ruling sheikhs, who have vested their foreign and defense rights in Britain's hands, run their own internal affairs, to the extent that anything at all is administered in that backyard portion of Arabia.

The more highly developed emirates have, so far, declined to participate in the federation which London conceived as a kind of buffer state between the base area of Aden proper and Yemen.

Aden itself is, constitutionally, a colony although it is described as a state.

About 200,000 people live in Aden and around 1,000,000 in the 110,000-square-mile area of the federation.

Britain's connection with Aden began in 1839 and since then it has become a bonanza junction at the point where the Red Sea and Indian Ocean meet. British air, land and sea installations have been built up there to make it one of the world's most sophisticated base areas.

Nasser's pressure against the whole area began to build up in Yemen after a revolutionary republican junta ousted the feudal king in the fall of 1963. With an estimated 40,000 men in Yemen, Nasser has not let up since.

BUSINESS IS BUSTLING — Shoppers throng the marketplace in Accra, the apparently trim and prosperous capital city of Ghana. The pleasant seacoast city on the Atlantic Ocean frequently is host to international conferences and visiting dignitaries.

Elks Ladies Club Holds Annual Picnic

The Elks Ladies Club held its annual picnic with husbands as guests Wednesday, June 17, at the club, with approximately 80 present including four new members and their husbands as guests.

Mrs. Donald Waldron was chairman assisted by Mrs. Joe Wilson, co-chairman, Mrs. Rick Fullerton, Mrs. W. C. Jones, Mrs. Howard Morgan and Mrs. Gerald Dale.

Following the dinner the new members, Mrs. William Garten, Mrs. Dick Eckhoff, Mrs. Bill Glenn and Mrs. Johnny Bribiesca were initiated by Mrs. William Thorp, vice - president and initiating officer, assisted by Mrs. Russell Wicker.

Job Forms In For Youth 'Opportunity'

Russell Carr, manager of the Sedalia office of the Missouri State Employment Service located at 215 East Fifth, today announced that application forms are available at his office for those interested in applying for jobs to staff the proposed nationwide network of Youth Opportunity Centers.

President Johnson announced recently plans to establish the network of Youth Opportunity Centers to coordinate programs for assisting unemployed youth, especially disadvantaged youth, as part of his anti-poverty program.

The President underlined the urgent need to recruit some 2,000 qualified workers to staff the Centers as Counselor Aides and Youth Advisors. Those selected will be given special instruction in counseling, advising, and working with disadvantaged youth.

To qualify as potential Counselor Aides, an applicant must be a college graduate preferably in counseling, psychology, social work, education, sociology, or related fields. Applicants who are chosen will be given 8 to 10 weeks of concentrated instruction in one of about 15 colleges and universities between July 15 and September 15.

Applicants for Youth Advisor positions need not be college graduates, but must be over 21 and all applicants must possess the interest, special aptitudes, motivation, and dedication necessary for this type of work.

Manager Carr says application forms and other informational material are available at the State Employment Service Office, and urges all those interested to apply immediately.

Popular, Able, Acceptable

A campaign for Governor of Missouri that started with sudden intensity too early over a year ago, has now assumed the aspects of a steady pace down the home stretch to the August 4 primary election.

For the nonce, tranquility has displaced political fulmination. The electorate would be happy if nothing cataclysmic occurs to change the tenor of the campaign from now on.

Just about all has been said and done to inform the people of the qualifications and intentions of the two Democratic candidates. Weighing these in balance, most voters have made their decision; others will do so during the next six weeks.

Those who interpret the gyrations of the political weather vane are convinced the arrow points toward Lieutenant Governor Hilary Bush as the Democratic choice for Governor. There are valid reasons for this.

Those who have met and heard Mr. Bush have been inspired by his instinctive comprehension of Missouri's needs in the field of progress and his specific programs formulated to nourish their development without resort to wild promises. On problems concerning the state he speaks so effectively his listeners become aware and assured of his capability to serve as Missouri's chief executive.

Mr. Bush is a man who can stand firm and make his own decisions. In state administration he has demonstrated this attribute. He has openly declared he will adhere to a policy of decisive service for the best interests of all Missourians rather than preferential treatment of special interest groups.

When implored by associates to lash out with venom at political critics, Mr. Bush held steadfast to his determination to conduct a clean and orderly campaign. He would have it no other way.

These are only a few reasons why men and women in all walks of life throughout Missouri have become Bush supporters and intend to vote for him in the primary and in the general election.

Our own evaluation of the man coincides with that of so many others. He is popular, able and acceptable.

Hilary Bush will become Missouri's next Governor.

MEMPHIS COMMERCIAL APPEAL: Silent Night? — The toy makers, who busy themselves elf-like with production during the summer so that children will be able to make their parents miserable at Christmas, are on a new kick this year.

One of the nation's biggest manufacturers showed his wares to retailers in Chicago the other day, explaining that this year the line will emphasize sounds. The bicycles and tricycles will be styled like motorcycles, complete with battery-powered devices that will emit appropriate engine roar noises. The roar devices also will be attached to toy trucks, skiploaders (whatever they are) and a racing car.

But get this: the volume on the roar devices will be controlled by the youngsters.

That's bad enough, but what really is getting disturbing is the trend in dolls. Over the years one has become accustomed to dolls that sleep, dolls that talk, dolls that walk and all that. But it still is pretty hard to take dolls that wet and now dolls that burp.

Transplanting Shoo-in

By POLLY CRAMER
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DEAR POLLY — Your column is my first reading each day. I do hope others will enjoy my hints as I have theirs. A shoehorn makes a handy trowel for working around house plants and for transplanting.

A large cork will hold thumbtacks easily and keeps them handy. Also steel wool stuffed in a salt shaker makes a convenient holder for hat and corsage pins. Just stick the pins through the holes in the top of the shaker.—MRS. G. B.

DEAR POLLY — Those worn out pajamas bottoms make the most wonderful shoe bags by simply cutting off the legs above the knees and sewing straight down through the crotch and across each leg bottom. It gives a separate compartment for each shoe, but is handier than regular shoe bags as you have both shoes together all the time.

I use the tops of the pajamas to make bags by sewing across the bottom of the shirt and hanging it on a hanger. I use these for clothespins or to hold rags in the garage. The latter is really handy for the men, as they always know where to look for a rag after doing a messy job.—MRS. H. W. D.

DEAR POLLY—I have found it a real convenience to install a paper towel rack with a roll of towels in the bathroom. Guests have no trouble deciding what towels to use. Also I use the towels for a quick swish to the fixtures and for cleaning the mirrors.—MRS. P. D. M.

GIRLS—If the children used the paper towels for their frequent hand washing, there would certainly be fewer towels in the laundry each week.—POLLY

DEAR POLLY — I was so pleased with a reader's hint for watering house plants through a paper cup with holes punched in the bottom that I extended the idea a bit further by using it for weed killer which contaminates everything it touches. I pour it through the cup when putting it into a sprayer or returning to the bottles and then throw the cup away.—A GARDEN EDITOR

GIRLS—Isn't it nice to hear that experts pick up your hints and put them to use?—POLLY

DEAR POLLY—I would like to get in line to pass on to others a little trick that pleased me no end. An old but expensive pair of black patent leather shoes was wearable with the exception of chipped places at the bottom edges of the high heels. Ink, black pencil and so on failed to cover the chipped spots. I finally tried electrical plastic tape which looks like patent leather. I cut it to size, taped around the heels to the outside and inside edges. Do not put completely under the heel unless it is black underneath. This tape is thin, stretchy, tough, waterproof. This has saved me from wearing my very best shoes in the rain, and yet I have been neatly shod.—MRS. P. C. J. K.

What They Say In Letters to the Editor

MRS. CLEMENT C. DARROW, II (237 Driftwood Drive, Sedalia)—Dear GHS: You asked for a rebuttal and a rebuttal you shall get!

The fact that Sedalia has no junior high has mystified, and at the same time irritated me for nearly three years. It seems that we can't wait until our sons and daughters are dating. We can't wait until they are exposed to the sophistication of high school students. We can't wait until they are accepted by the older students. We can't wait until they fuss for privileges beyond their years. So we place them in high school when they are barely 13! And we say this is fine because we certainly don't intend to isolate them through junior high schools and "aggravate the worst manifestations of teen-age insecurity." Am I to understand that when we plop our 13-year-olds among the 18-years-olds, we are not going to have insecurity problems.

The junior high school years are very formative years. (My conception of junior high is the 7th, 8th, and 9th grades.) These are the years when girls develop into young women and boys enter manhood. These are the years when boys and girls begin their first "dating" and discover the excitement of being with the "opposite sex." These are the years when young people begin to think as young adults and should be given the opportunity to express themselves and question their feelings among students of their own age. They should be encouraged to become leaders in their own groups without the competition and experience of the older student. They should be allowed to compete in sports, debate, and music, with students of their ages from other schools.

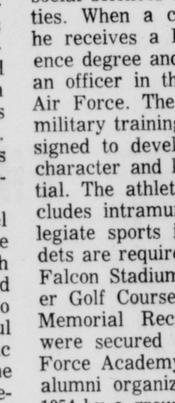

In a junior high school, our students would have these opportunities. As seventh graders, they would be set apart from the "little kids." As eighth graders, they would take on the responsibilities of leadership and sportsmanship but not the confusing struggle of competition with much more sophisticated students. As ninth graders, they would be preparing themselves as students, leaders, and well adjusted teenagers, ready for the fun and experiences of high school. They would have had three years of gradual exposure to young adult life, responsibilities, and fun. By the time they graduate from the ninth grade, they would be ready to plunge into the exciting world of high school!

Yet, here in Sedalia, we are content to let our young people struggle along without a chance of transformation from grade school children to high school young people. I guess we feel they will completely mature during the summer from the time of the seventh grade tea to the first high school dance! Or are we, in Sedalia, afraid of a change? Are we afraid of the cost of a junior high? Are we afraid to step away from the security of conformity? Are we content to hide behind the rationalization that the teachers would be worse? (Our students have qualified teachers now, why wouldn't they if the school was called a junior high? They are the same children wherever you put them.) After all, the school board would continue to hire only qualified teachers.

I can't see how students will be "isolated" in junior high. I can see how they will be encouraged to grow and mature on their own level. I can see how they will be accepted by students in their own age bracket. I can see how they will become more sure of themselves as young adults. I can see how they can better adjust to their new physical developments and feelings toward sex. And I can see how they will be better adjusted young men and young women when they enter senior high!

Yes, I am in favor of a junior high school in Sedalia and I think the old Broadway School would be an ideal location!

FINDING THE WAY

We Are Wanted

BY RALPH W. LOEW, D.D.
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

These are the days of Elgar's "Pomp and Circumstance," the stately processionals, the dignified seniors, proud parents and concerned young families. These are the days of the graduates.

Suddenly young persons are aware that some major influences have brought them to this achievement, shaping their ideas, giving form to their philosophy, setting something of the pace for the future.

At one such college convocation the speaker asked the 3,000 graduates from the various schools of disciplines to stand up. They did. Then he asked them to be seated. They were. At which he is reported to have pointed out how quickly they obeyed his words and how susceptible they are to words and influences that are barraging them every day.

The poet Auden once wrote of youth as that area of life just waiting anxiously for something to happen.

". . . to be young means
To be all on edge, to be held waiting in
A packed lounge for a personal call
From Long Distance, for the low voice that Defines one's future. The fears we know
Are not of knowing. Will nightfall bring us
Some awful order . . . Keep a hardware store
In a small town . . . Teach science for life to Progressive girls? It is getting late.
Shall we ever be asked for? Are we simply Not wanted at all?

Under the dignified composure of the graduation day there are also the anxieties that torture the mind.

It is at this point that all of us search for a hitching post in the universe. Mankind yearns for that one fixed point, a center, something stable that can be counted on. And he wants that not to be a figment of his own yearning or a concoction growing from his need.

Every graduate can remember, as a child, running into the house after school with the cry of "Mom" or "Mother." When the question echoed back "What do you want?" there was the simple answer, "Nothing." We'd like that out of the universe, not an imagined answer but His voice. Just to know that there was someone to hear. We are all waiting for that important call, something to rescue us from the possibilities of our own total destruction, the assurance that someone cares.

This is the faith that God is God, the Reality of our realities, not to be identified with our own personal or national values. God is the God of judgment as well as comfort, of righteousness as well as loving kindness.

If we are young enough to be on edge, we can learn to listen and to wait.

At the threshold generations of history have had to understand, one thinks it out to the ends of the mind and then finds God speaking NOW. In the understanding of the sanctity of the human being that nagging question is answered. We're wanted!

Air Force Academy

By CYRENE DEAR

Colorado Springs, Colo. — The United States Air Force Academy stands severe and stark in aluminum, glass and steel on the arid plains of eastern Colorado with Pikes Peak, Cheyenne Mountain and the adjoining range in full view in the West.

This service academy, so recently established, is in sharp contrast to West Point and Annapolis. Its buildings exemplify the space age with rectangular metal structures spread over many acres. The most impressive building on the campus is the chapel. Its aluminum exterior, with seventeen individual spires fitting together to form the body of the Church, creates a structure which is effective. The building seems to soar as it glistens in the bright Colorado sun.

The interior of the chapel provides sanctuaries for three faiths. The Catholic and Jewish services are held on the ground floor in chapels appropriate to their doctrines, in beautiful modern design. The Catholic altar makes the priest face the worshipers and the Mass is recited in English. The stations of the cross are ivory plaques against the wall separated by the brilliant colored glass windows. A silver crucifix hangs from the ceiling. The Jewish chapel is smaller but fitted with all the facilities for the Jewish service.

The Protestant chapel is on the main floor of the building. The tube-like pulpit has a purplish cast which blends with the Air Force blue of the rug and the altar rail. The large silvery cross seems to have wings on its extremities. Even the delicate pastel shadings on the modernistic pipe organ in the balcony sweep upward.

The circular stained glass window above the altar and brilliant blues in the long narrow windows on the side bring the renaissance cathedral atmosphere to this shining celestial artifice on the campus which inspires one to lift the eyes unto the hills from whence cometh strength.

The academy curriculum is four fold. The scholastic program balances evenly the basic and applied sciences with the social sciences and the humanities. When a cadet graduates he receives a Bachelor of Science degree and commission as an officer in the United States Air Force. The leadership and military training program is designed to develop both moral character and leadership potential. The athletic program includes intramural and intercollegiate sports in which all cadets are required to participate. Falcon Stadium, the Eisenhower Golf Course and the Farish Memorial Recreational Area, were secured through the Air Force Academy Foundation, an alumni organization founded in 1954 by a group of public spirited citizens. All cadets must attend chapel services according to their faith.

West Point has its Army mule, the Naval Academy has "Rameses," the goat, and the Air Force Academy has its Falcons. During every football game two trained falcons are sent aloft before the cheering crowd and after circling around in the air, return to their trainer.

The Air Force cadets receive their flight training at Lowry Air Force Field in Denver. The Academy is located on a direct highway from Denver and is only ten miles north of Colorado Springs. It is a young institution. Trees have had to be planted as well as lawns and gardens but it is rapidly becoming a tourist attraction and the parade of the cadets with the panorama of the Rocky Mountains in the distance equals that of the other service schools. The Air Force Academy is a thrilling part of our aeronautical age.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

American Politics Interests King

(Editor's Note — King Constantine of Greece has a lot of curiosity about who will be the next president of the United States, as Drew Pearson recounts in an exclusive interview with the new 24-year-old monarch.)

By DREW PEARSON

ATHENS — After I had finished quizzing King Constantine of Greece about almost every subject under the sun, from Turkish and NATO relations to chasing fire trucks, he turned the tables on me and proceeded to grill me about American problems.

Without getting into partisan politics, he asked about President Johnson, Sen. Goldwater, Gov. Scranton, and whether the United States had recovered from the shock of President Kennedy's death.

"This has been a very sad year," he said, obviously referring not only to Kennedy's death, but to the loss of his father, the late King Paul.

King Constantine also wanted to know about the forthcoming report of the Warren commission. I told him that I was certain it would find there was no conspiracy but that Lee Oswald alone had been guilty of the assassination. I also told how, in talking to me in Cairo recently, Khrushchev had expressed complete disbelief that only one man was involved. He was certain it was a conspiracy.

"I was sitting in Geneva with my fiancee," remarked the king. "We were looking at a television film of the tragedy in Dallas. Suddenly I had a premonition that something was coming and I put my hand over her eyes. 'Don't look,' I said. It was the shooting of Oswald in the Dallas police station. How could such a thing have happened?"

Viet Nam and Cyprus

His majesty also asked me about Viet Nam. "What is the solution?" he asked.

"That's as difficult as the solution of Cyprus," I replied.

"How would you solve Cyprus?" he asked.

"I'd give it to Greece."

"Would you say that in Ankara?" the king shot back.

"I saw President Inonu last summer before Cyprus got really hot," I sidestepped. "And I am not going to see him on this trip. But I wanted to ask you what the solution is."

The Cyprus problem is the most ticklish in the entire Mediterranean but the young king did not duck.

"The bloodshed must be stopped immediately," he said. "The longer it continues, the harder it is to get both sides to talk. The UN should be given enough power to stop the fighting and should remain in Cyprus as long as necessary.

"The correct solution is to apply in Cyprus the principles of the United Nations charter, to establish a truly independent state administered by majority rule with full guarantees for the rights of the minority. These guarantees could be underwritten by the United Nations. Obviously, an independent Cyprus should have the right of self-determination.

Turkish Protection

"Any Turkish Cypriots who wish to remain will have full protection for their rights: those who decide to leave should receive full compensation. That is the only solution which serves both the principles of the UN charter and peace. Any other solution will lead to a worsening of the situation and, I fear, will turn Cyprus over to extremists.

"The Cyprus crisis, in my opinion, must be solved while the UN force is there, guaranteeing peace on the island. Such a solution as this implies neither victory nor defeat for anyone, rather it implies victory for better understanding."

Obviously the king had been giving a great deal of thought to this very difficult problem. I came away feeling that the people of Greece, under their new, young, and constitutional monarch, are in good hands.

Cypriot Foreign Minister

The Cyprus question is complicated. But, because it could easily lead to a Mediterranean war which could spread to a much wider war, it is all important.

After talking to King Constantine, I talked to the minister of foreign affairs of Cyprus, Spiro Kyprianon, an energetic young man who gave me this significant and, to some people, surprising statement:

"We are offering more guarantees to the Turk minorities in Cyprus — namely, the Rome agreement on human rights — than the Turks are offering to Greek minorities in Constantinople.

"And we demand in the name of humanity that the same rights we are offering the Turks in Cyprus be offered to the Greeks in Constantinople."

A Picture For Papa

"The baby's fine" the papa beamed
In answer to my question,
And right here I will pause to make
To mama a suggestion —
When you have a picture taken
Of your child, please put aside
A picture for dad's billfold
That he can show with pride —
Sure — there are just so many
And you've places they should go
But don't forget that daddy
Wants a picture he can show.
"I'd like to show her picture"
Said this young devoted dad
"But you see I just don't have one
"I only wish I had—
"Of course we had some taken
"But there only were a few
"And there were relatives, you know,
"That they were given to."
So Daddy didn't get one
Because Mommy found
They didn't have enough
To really go around
Yet the one who should have had one
Regardless of the rest
To carry in his billfold
Was the one who loves her best—
And my mind went back to my dad
In a similar circumstance
We were looking through some pictures
And found one of me by chance—
He asked for that picture
And Mom felt pretty mean
I was somewhere in my twenties,
It was taken at sixteen,
"I want to carry it with me
"To show it now and then,
"I never have a picture
"Like so many other men—"
Grandparents, aunts and uncles,
Yes, cousins and friends, too,
Were always given pictures
Each time there was one new,
Yet when it came to Dad
She'd not meant to be unkind,
But that he would want a picture
Had entered not her mind—
And when my father died
There tucked in his billfold
He carried still my picture
At just sixteen years old,
So for dads who have no pictures
I've only this to say
Suppose Mommy sees he has some Upon this Father's Day.

Fate of the Sex Goddess Sacrificed at Her Altar

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The fate of the sex goddess in America often is to be sacrificed on her own altar.

They ride in lonely chariots through the mobs to their solitary doom.

Such was the fate of Marilyn Monroe, also of an earlier movie sex queen—Jean Harlow.

Each wanted to be a serious actress, and was laughed at. Each found a highly paid existence as a mere sex symbol empty and unbearable.

As a youth, I used to have my teeth fixed by a friendly Kansas City dentist named Dr. Montclair Carpentier, an easy man with the drill.

He always would let up on the drill and smile with pleasure when asked how his pretty young daughter, Harlean, was doing in Hollywood. She had gone there some time before with her mother, who had divorced Dr. Carpentier to marry a man named Marino Bello.

After an obscure start in pictures, Harlean Carpentier became Jean Harlow.

She became the epitome of glamor. She costarred with some of the leading actors of her day. She had a $100,000 house on a hill, a swimming pool, servants, expensive cars, a wardrobe that might stir a real queen's envy.

But behind a facade of splendor Jean Harlow led a life of gilded misery.

Just how sordid and miserable a life this beautiful star actually had is told fully for the first time in a new book "Harlow," by Irving Shulman. It is based on the long-withheld testimony of the man who knew her best—her agent, Arthur Landau.

According to this intimate biography:

Although she earned thousands of dollars weekly, she was chronically in debt, partly because she was squeezed dry by her mother and avaricious stepfather.

She was tormented by filthy letters written to her by anonymous men.

She made a bitter enemy of one studio boss because she laughed in his face when he offered her a mink coat in return for a performance that wouldn't require the presence of cameras.

One of her former leading men, a man she deeply admired, put up the $25,000 for her tomb.

Educational Expenses Deductible

It's time for summer school again and many teachers will be thinking about educational expenses as a Federal income tax deduction.

Expenses for education, Director of Internal Revenue, Mr. E. O. Bookwalter for the St. Louis District said today, are deductible if the course or courses improve the skills required by the person in his job, or meet requirements set by his employer.

Expenses are not deductible if the education or training is undertaken to obtain a new position, or to attain general education improvement.

If you travel as a form of education, your expenditure will generally be considered as primarily personal in nature and not deductible. This includes travel as a form of education while on sabbatical leave.

Deductible educational expenses are claimed on page 2 of Form 1040 if you itemize your deductions. They cannot be claimed if the standard deduction is used.

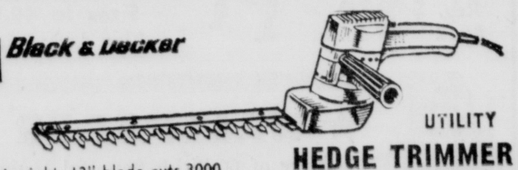

On the other hand, the cost of travel, meals, and lodging while away from home overnight for qualified educational activities are allowable as a deduction, and may be claimed on page 1 of the Form 1040, whether or not the standard deduction is used.

There are many situations involving educational expenses which may or may not be deductible.

Document No. 5014, which furnishes more detailed information on this subject, is available upon request from the Internal Revenue Service.

AUTO THEFTS: Our No. 1 Crime

By JAMES H. WINCHESTER

Here are 10 practical tips for car owners who don't want to offer an inviting "gift" to thieves

MICKEY SPILLANE recently had his station wagon—plus luggage and clothes in the back seat—stolen right off the main street of a Florida resort.

Nothing like that could ever happen to Mike Hammer, Spillane's fictional hard-guy private eye. But the red-faced novelist joined more than 400,000 other U.S. motorists who will have their cars stolen during 1964.

Bank robberies make the headlines, but auto larceny is the nation's No. 1 crime. Somewhere in the United States a car is stolen every minute—well over 1,000 a day. The total value of cars stolen each year: $400 million plus.

Despite such mounting statistics, the public remains generally apathetic about car theft. J. Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, says: "American automobile owners operate what amounts to a red-carpet service for car thieves. Perhaps in no other violations does negligence by the victim contribute more to the criminal act than in auto larceny."

How do motorists make things easy for thieves? An FBI survey last year showed that, in almost 60 percent of the auto-theft cases, the key was in the car or the ignition was left unlocked. Even hiding a spare key in your car is not wise. The first thing a thief does is check all the usual hiding places—under the dash, in the glove compartment, or on top of the sun visor.

Police and insurance experts offer these tips to deter car thefts:

■ 1. Close all windows and lock them if possible. Lock all doors; 80 percent of the cars stolen have been left unlocked. The professional thief probably can get into your car whether it's locked or not, but many boys walk down streets trying doors until they find one unlocked—and then take the car.

■ 2. Whenever possible, park in a well-lighted, busy area. Thieves are shy of lights and crowds.

■ 3. If you have to park on a street in a city you don't know, find a place at or near a parking meter, even if it's after meter time. Police are more likely to patrol such areas than more isolated spots. Also, the nearer you can park to a corner the better. Any marauder is then visible from two directions instead of only one.

■ 4. Don't park your car in the same spot on the street each time. Move it around the block. Looters often watch a car to determine whether it regularly is being left overnight.

■ 5. If you have luggage or packages, lock them in the trunk rather than leave them on the back seat where they can be seen. A thief often takes a car he doesn't want just to get such valuables.

■ 6. Don't leave your car registration or driver's license in the glove compartment. The fleeing thief can show them to "prove" ownership.

■ 7. Check your license plates daily. Frequently, thieves steal sets of license plates (or just one) from parked cars and later switch them to other cars for other crimes. A drop of solder on bolt threads or burning the threads after the bolts have been tightened will keep thieves from removing plates.

■ 8. If you park in a lot that makes you leave your keys, leave only the ignition key. Thieves are sometimes in league with parking-lot attendants, who make duplicates of home and business keys left with the car keys. Your name and address are obtained from your car-registration slip or through license-plate numbers. These are then sold to burglars.

■ 9. Check your gas gauge and inspect your tires and battery. Tanks of cars in parking lots sometimes are drained except for just a gallon or two. Often, too, old tires and batteries are substituted for nearly new ones. Tires and other equipment also are stolen from car trunks.

If you find anything wrong, report it to the police before you leave the parking lot. There are hundreds of court rulings establishing legal responsibility of the parking-lot operators, even though they have posted signs reading: "We are not responsible . . ."

■ 10. Be particularly wary about leaving things in your car around vacation or sports areas and in parking lots at turnpike restaurants. Car boosters (those who steal things from cars) are especially active in such places.

A whopping 86 percent of stolen cars are taken just for joy riding. Increasingly, though, teen-agers are stripping cars they steal. One 16-year-old, arrested in Bryant, Tex., boasted he could remove an auto's transmission, worth about $250, in eight minutes. There is a big teen-age market for them and for high-powered engines.

In Topeka, Kans., a kid gang was uncovered that took orders for sports-car parts and accessories. They then went out and stripped sports cars to fill the orders—sometimes selling the stolen parts back to their original owners!

To cut down car thefts, law-enforcement agencies are urging motorists to use prevention—particularly in view of the overwhelming number of teen-agers involved. For them, "opportunity" is the greatest incentive.

A repentant young thief sums up the problem this way: "If your car is too much trouble to steal, it won't get stolen."

RICHARD NIXON: WILL LIGHTNING STRIKE TWICE?

DICK NIXON walked into a Kansas City hotel the other day—and threw it into sudden turmoil as reporters swirled about him and flashbulbs exploded.

Later that evening at a noisy reception given by local Republicans, hundreds queued up to shake Nixon's hand. Many had pulled out old "Nixon for President" buttons for the occasion.

As the former Vice President greeted each well-wisher, clapping some affectionately on the shoulder, chatting briefly with others, I stood talking with Ned Sullivan, Nixon's cousin and frequent companion on these trips.

"I don't know where he gets the energy," sighed Sullivan. "He's been rushing all day, and these receptions are exhausting. But I've never seen him so relaxed or happy. Look at him shake those Republican hands. I don't think Dick will ever be dead in politics, despite the predictions of the experts."

The next morning, on a flight from Kansas City to New York, I interviewed Dick Nixon for FAMILY WEEKLY and asked him how he felt about his much-discussed chances for the Republican Presidential nomination. Nixon smiled: "Politics is really a bit like golf. No matter how badly you play, you never know when you might make a hole-in-one."

This comment sums up much of what I saw and heard of the "new" Richard Nixon. Not only is the former Vice President still one of the most talked-about political figures in the country, but he is pursuing this role with an enthusiasm and good humor which astonishes those who only a short while ago described him as cold potatoes in the political frying pan.

At 51, Nixon's black hair is flecked with a dignified gray, and he is 10 pounds over his normal campaign weight. But his instincts as a politician are still intact, and he obviously loves the game.

His New York law office is flooded with invitations to speak at dinners—more than 500 requests a week—and with good reason. Nixon has blossomed into one of the best speakers in the Republican party. His jocular jibes at the Johnson administration ("We can lick LBJ—if we can catch him!") are matched only by his skill at twitting his fellow Republicans ("Cabot Lodge is amazing—he wins where he isn't, loses where he is").

Richard Milhous Nixon has come a long way from the day following the 1962 California gubernatorial election when, in an astonishing display of temper, he bitterly attacked the press for its coverage of the campaign in which he was defeated by Gov. Pat Brown.

In fact, the road back began that same week. Dick spent several days in seclusion, talking mostly with his family and a few aides. But that weekend, ABC-TV broadcast a special documentary called "The Political Obituary of Richard Nixon," and Dick was brought out of his doldrums with a jolt. The program was a critical one and included a controversial interview with Alger Hiss, the one-time State Department employee whom Nixon had helped send to prison for perjury.

The program was barely over when Dick's phone began to ring. His friends were outraged by the broadcast. At ABC headquarters in New York, the switchboards were blinking furiously with angry calls from all over the country.

The reaction helped Dick understand the role he still could play in American politics. "Thousands of letters and calls came in to Pat and me expressing regret over the broadcast. Even Democrats wrote. I was still titular head of the Republicans and had an important job in the country. Plenty of people might hate me, but people would listen when I spoke on an issue. They might disagree, but they would listen."

Shortly after the tv show, Dick and Pat flew off for a short vacation in the Bahamas. As Dick strolled the sandy beaches, he began to plan his future. Before the California campaign, he had received offers from several top New York law firms. He loved the California climate, but the challenge of big-time corporate law in New York excited him.

Advantages of New York Living

There were other considerations. Pat Nixon, like many politicians' wives, never enjoyed the acrimonious life of Washington and California politics. And for years, she had had the responsibility of raising the Nixons' two daughters, Tricia, 18, and Julie, 15, while Dick was off to the political wars.

Dick knew that if he stayed in California he would almost certainly be pulled into the bitter struggles of local Republicans—and California politics is possibly the most wranglesome in the country. In New York, he would not only be able to make an excellent living but would have time to spend with the girls before they finished school. He would also still be free to speak out on national issues.

Dick talked over the decision with Pat and, on his return to Los Angeles, began to look over the New York offers. In the spring of 1963, he announced he would join one of New York's biggest law firms, now known as Nixon, Mudge, Rose, Guthrie & Alexander.

You can't count out a man whose fan mail still pours in at the rate of 2,000 letters a week—and who has blossomed as one of the wittiest speakers on the GOP circuit

By BOB GAINES

Nixon obviously is happy with his work as a corporation lawyer, for which he earns a reported $125,000 a year. While he is available to present briefs in court, his main work is as a legal consultant, and his forte is negotiations on the Federal and international level.

He has helped one client, Pepsi-Cola, set up new bottling plants around the world and recently helped another client, Cargill, Inc., a major commodity dealer, send shipments of wheat to Russia. This was an ironic chore since Nixon has publicly opposed sales to the Soviet Union.

"For the first time in years, Dick is enjoying the luxury of being a working stiff and a private citizen," one close friend of his told me. "He's relaxed, and the easygoing side of his personality is coming out as it never could when he was Vice President. At parties, even hard-core Democrats are astounded to discover that he's not a blue-jowled ogre and that they like him."

Nixon goes to some pains to show this "new" side when he is on the banquet circuit. Recently, he was the guest of honor and fall guy at the Circus Saints and Sinners Club in New York, where he was "roasted" in a series of mock eulogies by such old-time vaudevillians as Harry Hershfield.

Nixon since has taken to using some of these anti-Nixon jibes in his own speeches, crediting Hershfield. Commenting on his recent trip to Vietnam, he told one audience, "People want to know whether I made some kind of deal with Lodge in Saigon. The only deal I made with him was to put a Pepsi-Cola machine in the American Embassy."

Introduced recently at a luncheon as a graduate of Duke University, Nixon began his speech deftly by saying: "Well, I also went to Whittier College—and I would have made the elect-oral college if I hadn't flunked debating!"

Whatever Nixon's political aspirations, his law work still takes up most of his time in New York. His busy day usually begins at 7:30. He breakfasts with Pat and the girls, then drops the girls off at fashionable Chapin School as he is chauffeured to his office. From 8:30 to 9:30, he digs into the mounting pile of non-business work on his desk—speeches, articles, and political correspondence.

By 9:30, the 70 lawyers who occupy the three floors of Nixon, Mudge have arrived, and Dick's business day begins. He rarely leaves the office for lunch and usually works through till 6:30 p.m. Evenings are frequently spent at home working on business and political correspondence.

For Many—"A Leader to Turn To"

Nixon receives at least 2,000 letters a week. During periods of crisis, the flood of mail doubles. "If the Boss were still in public office, this wouldn't be much mail," says Rose Mary Woods, Nixon's long-time private secretary. "But for a private citizen, it's amazing. People still look on him as a leader to turn to when the country is in trouble."

When Dick is not on the dinner-speaking circuit, his weekends are spent socially with his new friends in New York. He is an avid sports fan and frequently takes the girls to baseball, football, and hockey games, where he inevitably gives ushers conniptions as the fans flock out of the $2 seats to shake his hand. He plays golf about three times a month, shooting in the high 80s. On his library desk, he keeps the golf ball with which he once shot a hole-in-one.

Sometimes in the evening, Nixon takes his black-and-white cocker spaniel Checkers, now a venerable 12 years old and grizzled at the muzzle, for walks in Central Park. Even at night, people recognize Dick and walk up to say hello. "I never mind this kind of interruption," he says. "When you have been in public life as long as I have, you really come to feel that a bit of you belongs to the people who work on your campaigns or trust you enough to vote for you."

However much Nixon savors his work as a corporation lawyer, love of public life is clearly ingrained in him. Wherever he travels, he talks to voters about public affairs. So many awards and honors have been bestowed on him (he estimates he has received at least 800 plaques) that he spends $200 a month for a storeroom to keep all the mementos of his political travels.

Close friends say Nixon is a public man with a fatalistic sense of history. He believes that, while individuals can change their society, there are unpredictable tides of history which pull every man along.

Nixon candidly admits that he is still interested in becoming President. An astute politician, he is preparing for the Republican national convention which opens July 13 in San Francisco. But there is a maturity and patience about his preparations which suggest he is now waiting for history to reach out and make the decision.

He once spoke of history as a river which carries men along toward their destiny. Some are thrown on the shore and forgotten; others are held steadfast by the current in midstream. During my flight back from Kansas City with Nixon, he used this analogy to describe his current position in U.S. politics: "I've been carried off to the quiet water by the side. I'm kicking along easily on my own steam. Whether I get back into the main current, well . . ."

To separate Misses from Mrs.;
It wouldn't require looking twice.

For, if she's a Mrs., her costume
Would take all the cloth in a bolt.
But a Miss would be slightly less covered
Than a pigeon that's started to molt.

Quips and Quotes

The scientists had developed the greatest computer of our time and were very proud of it. "Why," said one, "I'll bet it could even become President of the United States. Let's ask it and see what it thinks."

The question was fed into the computer and, after much whirring, out came the following message:

"I am not now and do not intend to become a Presidential candidate, but should a genuine draft develop at the coming convention, I would feel it my duty to answer the call of my party."

The girl who wore a swimsuit in August without going swimming and a ski outfit in January without actually skiing really means business in June when she picks out a wedding dress. —John Shotwell

From the woebegone look on his face, it was obvious the office worker was having trouble. "It's my wife," he explained to a solicitous fellow worker. "She's on the warpath."

"But why?" asked his friend. "You've always got along well."

"It happened yesterday," the husband said. "She met me at the door, I asked what she had done that day, and she said, 'I washed the windows, waxed the floors, did all the laundry, ironed, shopped, and pruned the roses.'"

"And what happened then?"

"Well," the husband replied, "that's when I made my mistake. I said, 'And what did you do in the afternoon?'" —James Shurluck

"Wish I coulda grabbed off one of them 'cum laudies.'"

Molded Vanilla Pudding with Raspberries

1 3- or 3¼-oz. pkg. vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
¼ cup sugar
1 env. (1 tablespoon) unflavored gelatin
2 cups reliquefied instant nonfat dry milk (according to pkg. directions)
1 tablespoon vanilla extract
2 egg whites
¼ cup sugar
½ cup instant nonfat dry milk (not reliquefied)
½ cup icy cold water
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 10-oz. pkg. frozen red raspberries, thawed

1. Mix the pudding mix, ¼ cup sugar, and gelatin together in a heavy saucepan. Gradually add milk, stirring constantly until well blended. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until thickened. Remove from heat; stir in extract and chill until partially set.

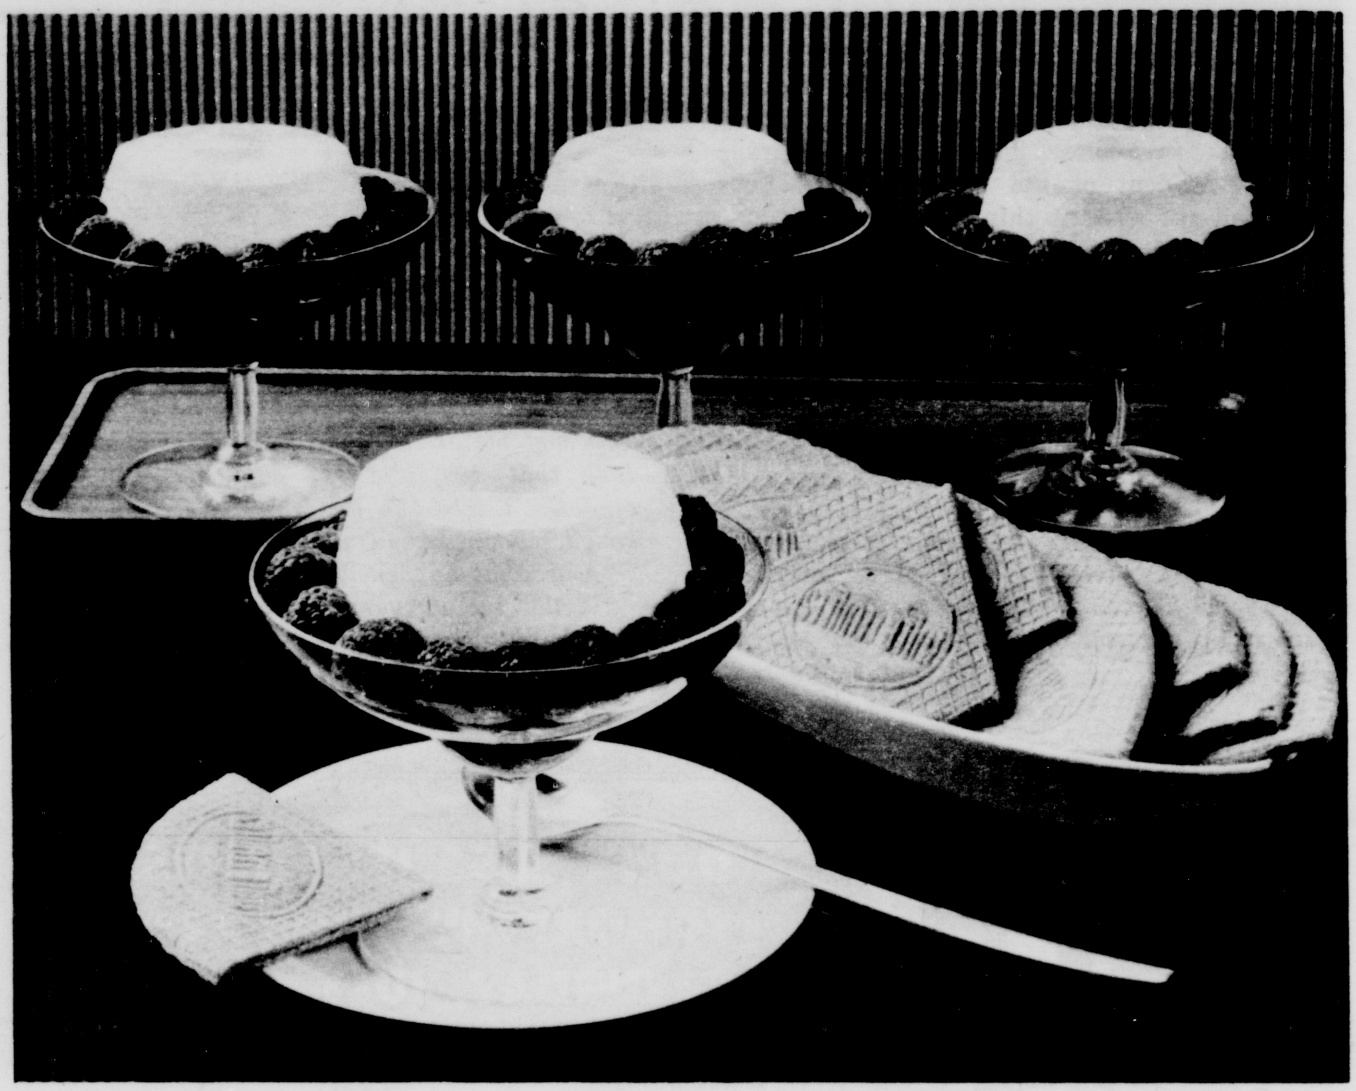

2. Beat egg whites until frothy. Gradually add the remaining sugar and continue beating until stiff peaks are formed; set aside.

3. Mix ½ cup instant nonfat dry milk with the cold water in a chilled bowl. Beat until soft peaks are formed, about 3 min. Add lemon juice and continue beating until stiff peaks are formed, about 3 min. longer; set aside.

4. Using same beater, whip pudding until mixture is very smooth and creamy. Blend in the meringue thoroughly. Fold in the whipped milk until thoroughly blended.

5. Spoon into individual tubed pans, rinsed with cold water. Chill until set. Unmold and serve with the raspberries and sirup. Accompany with waferlike cookies.

8 to 10 servings

Veal Shoulder Roll Surprise

1 pt. Blueberry-Lemon Jam (see recipe)
1 4-lb. veal shoulder roll
2 teaspoons salt
1 teaspoon Accent
¼ teaspoon black pepper
4 slices bacon or salt pork

1. Cut one end of the cord tied around the veal shoulder roll; remove and set cord aside. Carefully unroll veal and spread some of the jam over it in a layer about ¼ in. thick. Reroll the veal and again tie with cord.

2. Rub the meat with a mixture of salt, Accent, and pepper. Set the roll on a rack in a shallow roasting pan. Insert a roast meat thermometer at top center of roll, being sure that tip rests in center of the roll.

3. Lay the bacon slices over the top.

4. Roast uncovered at 300°F. Remove veal from oven after 2 hrs. Remove slices of bacon. Spread top of roll with the jam.

5. Return veal to oven and continue roasting about 30 min., or until internal temperature of veal reaches 170°F.

6. Remove from oven; remove thermometer. Transfer roll to a hot platter. Remove cord from roll just before carving.

7. Serve with additional Blueberry-Lemon Jam.

About 8 servings

Blueberry-Lemon Jam

4 cups firm, fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained
1½ tablespoons grated lemon peel
⅔ cup lemon juice
7 cups sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon ground cloves
½ cup bottled fruit pectin

1. Turn blueberries into a sauce pot or kettle. Crush berries. Add next five ingredients.

2. Set the sauce pot over medium heat and stir until sugar is dissolved. Bring mixture to boiling and boil rapidly 1 min. without stirring.

3. Remove mixture from heat and blend in the fruit pectin. Skim off any foam.

4. Immediately fill hot sterilized jars. Seal according to manufacturer's directions. Set aside to cool.

About eight 8-oz. jars jam

Red Raspberry Jam

(Uncooked)

1½ cups sieved fresh red raspberries (about 3 cups whole berries)
3 cups sugar
¼ cup bottled fruit pectin

1. Mix the sieved raspberries and sugar together in a bowl. Let stand for 20 min.

2. Add the fruit pectin to the raspberry mixture and mix thoroughly.

3. Immediately fill hot sterilized jars or glasses; cover with lids or aluminum foil.

4. Allow jam to stand at room temperature overnight, or until jellied.

5. The jam must be stored in the refrigerator or freezer and not at room temperature. The jam will keep in refrigerator for several weeks.

About four 8-oz. jars jam

Glazed Strawberry Pie

Pastry for a 1-crust 9-in. pie
1 qt. strawberries, rinsed and hulled
6 tablespoons sugar
1½ tablespoons cornstarch
6 tablespoons water
1 teaspoon lemon juice
3 or 4 drops red food coloring
3 oz. (1 pkg.) cream cheese
1 tablespoon orange juice

1. Line pie pan with pastry; bake and set aside on cooling rack to cool.

2. Reserve 2 cups whole berries. Crush remaining berries with a fork; set aside.

3. Mix sugar and cornstarch together in a saucepan. Blend in the water. Stirring constantly, bring rapidly to boiling and boil for 3 min., or until clear.

4. Remove from heat; stir in crushed berries, lemon juice, and food coloring. Cool mixture slightly by setting pan in a bowl of ice and water. Cover and set aside.

5. Beat the cream cheese until softened, then beat in the orange juice until blended. Spread over bottom of pastry shell. Turn whole berries into shell. Pour cooled strawberry mixture over berries. Chill in refrigerator.

6. If desired, serve with any cream topping.

One 9-in. pie

Blueberry-Almond Tea Cakes

1¼ cups flour
1 cup sugar
1¾ teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
⅓ cup firm butter
1 egg, beaten
¾ cup milk
1½ teaspoons vanilla extract
⅔ cup fresh blueberries, rinsed and drained
¼ cup coarsely chopped unblanched almonds, toasted

1. Blend first four ingredients. Cut in the butter with a pastry blender until mixture resembles coarse corn meal.

2. Blend the egg, milk, and extract thoroughly. Make a well in center of dry ingredients. Add liquid mixture all at one time; quickly and lightly stir with a fork until dry ingredients are barely moistened. Stir in blueberries and almonds with final few strokes.

3. Line small muffin-pan wells with paper baking cups. Fill cups two-thirds full with batter.

4. Bake at 350°F 20 min., or until a cake tester or wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean. Remove from pans and cool on cooling rack.

Gooseberry Cream Pie or Tarts

Pastry for a 1-crust 8-in. pie or individual tarts (use your favorite recipe or a mix)
1 3- or 3¼-oz. pkg. vanilla pudding and pie filling mix
Gooseberry Glaze (see recipe)

1. Line pie pan or tart pans with pastry; bake and set aside to cool.

2. Prepare pudding according to directions on package. Cool pudding slightly, then cool to lukewarm in refrigerator. Turn filling into the pastry shell. Set in refrigerator to chill.

3. Spoon the cooled glaze over the filling. Chill in refrigerator 2 to 3 hrs. before serving.

One 8-in. pie or individual tarts

Gooseberry Glaze

Sort, stem and tail, rinse, and drain 2 cups fresh gooseberries. Put about ⅓ cup of the gooseberries into a saucepan with ½ cup water. Cook over medium heat 3 to 5 min., or until berries are tender. Add a mixture of ¾ cup sugar and 2⅓ tablespoons cornstarch gradually, stirring constantly. Stir in the remaining gooseberries. Stirring gently and constantly, bring rapidly to boiling and boil for 3 min., or until mixture is thick. Remove from heat; set aside to cool to lukewarm before spooning over chilled filling.

Longing for a "new look"? Then follow a top make-up expert's step-by-step timetable for loveliness

Your Beauty Calendar

By ROSALYN ABREVAYA

■ HAVE YOU ever noticed the effect of a really striking woman when she boards a bus or passes by on the street? The air seems charged for a moment. What is her special excitement? Is it the cut of her clothes? A vivid color she wears? Her accessories? Chances are it's all of these, but most of all it's the face she presents to the world.

The natural-looking face, one of woman's most important assets, is our objective here. It can be achieved, not overnight but without too much effort, once the right techniques have been mastered.

To guide you, we asked top make-up artist Eddie Senz to illustrate, step by step, the correct way to apply cosmetics.

First, set up a time schedule for yourself. Plan to spend at least five to 15 minutes each day concentrating on one or two of these beauty steps. After each new step, finish your make-up as you normally would. Continue adding to your mastery by concentrating on a new step each day for a week. Check off the boxes as you complete each technique. It will increase your sense of accomplishment. In less than a week, you should find yourself well on the way to achieving lifelong beauty techniques.

Our model, Pat Burrell (below, left), came to us fully made up, so that whatever mistakes she was making could be detected. An analysis of her face showed it to be too round. Her brows, although shapely, would be better set farther apart and less sharply arched at center. Her eye liner, although drawn skillfully, was too thick. Pat's nose was a little bulbous at the tip but could be easily corrected by shading and also by enlarging her lips for a better over-all balance. Her creamy white skin needed little repairing, but a good foundation would enhance it. Lastly, a hair trim and restyling would give Pat a more pleasing oval-shaped face.

1st Day: ☐ FOUNDATION:

Senz first applied cream (or liquid) foundation to Pat's freshly scrubbed face. He used a moist sponge because it gives a more lasting finish. (If a foundation shade close to the skin shade is used, you'll find you need not cover the neck, too.) The foundation was allowed to set, then the excess blotted with a tissue. (If your complexion is sallow, choose a make-up with a rosy tint; if florid, choose one with a beige tint.) Senz now had established the color scheme on which to build a more beautiful face.

Beauty Note: For a truly clean skin before applying make-up or for removing it at night, two products that do the job smoothly are from Rexall's Cara Nome collection—deep-cleansing lotion for normal skins or cleansing grains if your skin tends to be oily./If you want to keep your tan from flaking this summer, Pond's has the answer in a new dry-skin cream with golden lanolin. It inhibits peeling by replacing the moisture the sun has drained away./Revlon's Ultima II series spells excitement with a new foundation that is the most natural make-up devised. The series includes a translucent powder and crème rouge that completes the soft, dewy effect./

☐ HAIR:

After Pat's foundation was applied, her hair was set and tucked under a cap, waiting to be combed out as soon as her make-up was completed. Pat's hair was set with big rollers on the diagonal, so that top hair could be swooped up toward one side and turned into a fetching swirl. This style (see Pat's final transformation) brings out her lovely facial contours and eliminates the full-face look.

entire fold. At the outer tip, fan the shadow slightly upward. Don't cover the brow bone as this makes the eye recede.

Beauty Note: Subtle eye shadows in shades of smoky blues and greens look much better than thick ribbons of emerald or deep blue drawn over the lid./ Maybelline's iridescent cream shadows—such as jade green or sapphire blue—illustrate the point. They add a shimmering, natural loveliness that whispers rather than shouts. If your shadow tends to run, try their pressed powder./

☐ POWDER:

Powder creates a smooth finish over your foundation and provides a firm base over which to draw eyebrows, lips, and eye liner. It also enables your eye shadow to set. The powder you select should be a natural shade so as not to change the color established by the foundation. First, Eddie Senz powdered generously all over Pat's face, including lips and eyelids. Next (not shown), he went over her face with a damp sponge, patting lightly so the foundation color was allowed to come through.

reshaping. Pat's were plucked from underneath and in between, then penciled slightly above her natural brow line to accomplish reshaping. The inner tip of the brow should be directly above the inner tip of your eye. The arch, or highest part of the brow, should sit just beyond the colored part of the eye. A good rule in determining length of brows is to keep the outer tips level with the inner tips. Eyebrows should match hair color or be a shade lighter.

Beauty Note: Brushing on brows with cake powder, instead of penciling them in, may be the wave of the future./ Evelyn Marshall is credited with being the first to come out with her Brush-on Brow, which comes in a selection of colors—including a lovely ash brown./ Revlon's new Brow Beautiful works on the same principle, comes in a choice of subtle shades of black, gray, and dark to light brown./

4th Day: ☐ LIPS:

To give your mouth the proper contour, Eddie Senz recommends using a lip brush, one thoroughly daubed with color, or a lip liner. As in Pat's case, most lips need to be enlarged or reshaped to cre-

Beauty Note: Clairol's condition does just that to your hair. It's combed in right after a shampoo, putting bounce, sheen, and body back into your hair./ Rayette's Aqua Net hair spray exhibits good holding power in any weather and doesn't dull hair./

2nd Day: ☐ EYE SHADOW:

Shadow is applied with the index finger (if you use a shadow stick, blend afterward for a subtle effect), starting at the inside tip of the eye and covering the Beauty Note: You can tan this season without going into the sun! Germaine Monteil has just launched a color blend, actually a powdered tint, called Paradise Tan, which does the trick magically. Sun worshippers will also find it an ingenious cover-up for those white circles caused by dark glasses./

3rd Day: ☐ EYEBROWS:

Brush the eyebrows up and out to define the natural arch, then fill in as needed with brow pencil. Most brows need some ate a better balance among features. By emphasizing lips, for example, you can draw attention away from a prominent nose. Begin with the upper lip, tracing color from the middle to the tip on each side, leaving the dip of the upper lip shallow. Shape the upper lip so that it is as full as the lower lip. Extend the tips of the upper lip slightly beyond the natural corners, then bring the tips of the lower lip up and out to meet the upper outline.

BRINGING UP BABY,®
HINTS COLLECTED

MOTHER OF FIVE

the busy fingers of babyhood

Fine teachers, fingers. They help your baby learn to grab, grasp, hold, poke —do a score of happy things. When do baby fingers begin to function? No set timetable for all babies but here are some "about" times:

3 to 4 months. Fists unclench. Charming finger-play gets under way.

5 to 6 months. Grasps in earnest. Holds on to toys for dear life.

1 year. Pinch-holding with thumb and forefinger usually shows up now.

Food fanfare

When you want to give your baby a truly hearty "casserole" dish with built-in meal-appeal, consider Gerber Strained or Junior High Meat Dinners. Savory? Very! Because they have 3 times as much meat (and therefore much more protein) as regular vegetable-meat combinations. Flavorful? Indeed. This extra meat is subtly blended with garden-good vegetables and suitably seasoned for unusual flavor interest. Veal, Beef, Chicken, Ham, Turkey.

Memo from Dan Gerber

"When it comes to the development of new products, it takes a long time to satisfy our specialists. In the case of Gerber High Meat Dinners, it took two years and 72 different formulas before they had what they wanted to offer your baby.

"All recipes were carefully evaluated for nutritional quality and flavor. Two were finally selected for taste preference by a panel of 4,500 babies. The result? A product approved by babies, mothers and nutritional experts."

Finger exercises

To help speed your baby's manual dexterity, you might try these "encouragers": (1) Put bright, safe objects within grasping reach. (2) Provide toys of various sizes. (3) Offer finger foods like Gerber Chicken or Meat Sticks.

For your baby's well-being:
Gerber prepares over 100 baby foods – infant formulas, cereals, strained and junior foods – to meet your baby's nutritional needs. We're proud to say:

embodies a new lip contour shape in a sleek gold case that is raised with the flip of a wheel./DuBarry's Glissando is a veritable parfait on a stick (one lipstick that mixes separate colors, such as two shades of coral), doing away with the device of using two lipsticks to achieve the color you want./Cutex combines fun with color fancy in four new flavored lipsticks—orange, cherry, peppermint, and caramel. The fragrance and taste are so authentic that eating off your lipstick will be a gourmet pleasure./

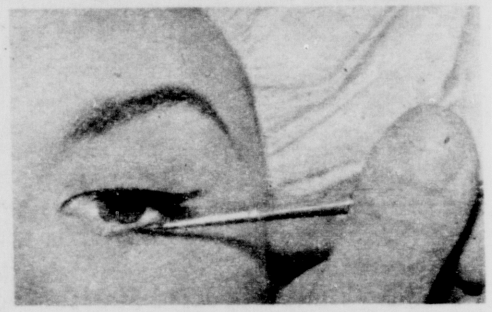

5th Day: ☐ EYE LINER:

Stretch the eye skin gently away from the nose, as Senz does, so the liner can be applied in a fine line from the inner tip of lid. Keep the line at the roots of the lashes to give an effect of lash thickness. Continue line, thickening slightly over middle of lid and a little more at outer tip. Extend the line slightly at outer tip to widen the eye. Extensions should not resemble little dippers, merely hint of a curve.

Beauty Note: Using pencil, liquid, or cake liner should be determined by what gives the best results./ Evelyn Marshall has an excellent cake liner which comes in shades of brown, smoky gray, or black./Helena Rubinstein has just come out with a soft-textured eye-liner pencil that glides on easily and can be sharpened simply by stroking back and forth on a clean sheet of paper./

☐ MASCARA:

Cream mascara, a lash lengthener, or a strip of false eyelashes creates an illusion of thicker and longer lashes. Apply mascara only to upper lashes, from the roots to the tips, so they are evenly coated. Add a few more coats to the outer parts of lashes so they sweep up at the sides. To amplify lower lashes, add two or three threadlike lines at outer tip of bottom lids. (Now is also a good time to touch up lids with a daub of more eye shadow.)

Beauty Note: The new roll-on lash lengtheners are a wonderful innovation. Their lengthening process is achieved through tiny filaments contained in the mascara which attach to lashes when mascara is applied./ Maybelline's Ultra Lash is a good roll-on lengthener that colors as it builds up the lashes. It comes in several popular shades, one of the most flattering being a rich Sable Brown./ False eyelashes are no longer the property of show girls and models; they can add real drama to any woman's eyes. A brand used by many models is Eyelure. Self-adhesive, these lashes are easy to apply, even for beginners. They are best in natural hair. As for color, select a shade to harmonize with complexion and hair. Most women look better in brown or "close black" lashes rather than black./

6th Day: ☐ ROUGE:

Rouge, the gilding of the lily (above, right), was the final step in Pat's beauty make-over. Dry rouge is applied with a large brush (or a cotton ball), cream rouge with the fingers. To make your face appear narrower, bring the rouge over the cheeks toward the area directly below the middle of the eye and then down to about the level of the nostrils (but do not come very near the nose). If you want your face to appear wider, apply rouge only to the outside of the face, beginning at the top of the cheekbone and working into the temple but staying outside the eye area.

Beauty Note: Today's rouges, dry or cream, are meant to be lavished not only on cheeks but on forehead, chin, and tip of nose (to minimize its length) for a bright over-all effect./ Max Factor has just introduced a white toner to its line of pastel cream rouges that helps bring out the contours of the face—applied to cheekbones, for example. It's predicated on the fact that white picks up light, brings out good bone structure. A how-to booklet is included in package./

Pat Burrell's beauty program ended with a flourish.

Eddie Senz directed the comb-out to be a graceful, high-swept style. He wanted it completely off the face—except for a flirtatious curl—in order to bring out Pat's facial contours and to expose her expanse of neck more flatteringly. And, suddenly, the beautiful transformation was complete. (See Pat's finished appearance at left.)

Pat's reaction to her new look was an ecstatic one. She discovered cheekbones she never knew she possessed, marveled at the wonderful effect a simple hairdo had on her entire face, and left radiating confidence as well as loveliness.

If you undertake a similar beauty program for yourself, you'll find real excitement in the doing. As Eddie Senz remarked, "Make-up is simply creating an illusion. The woman willing to improve her looks will find there's little hocus-pocus in it but many rewards."

The coupons contained herein are not obligations of New York World's Fair 1964-1965 Corporation and said corporation assumes no responsibility or liability to the purchaser or holder thereof.

HERE is the travel-bargain of the year! The six new MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDES for 1964 are just published — and each one contains 17 reduced-price admission coupons to leading World's Fair attractions, including transportation to the Fair grounds by Hydrofoil (the boat from Manhattan that skims over the water at 40 m.p.h.). One of these coupons alone can save you the price of the book —

For example: For a family of 3 adults, regular admission to the Ice-travaganza is $6.60. With the Guest Coupon: only $5.10. So on this one attraction alone you can save the whole price of the MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDE which costs $1.50. (If you're a family of 6 you save twice the cost of the book). And there are 16 other coupons!

In addition, each MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDE contains 13 to 19 coupons saving you and your family as much as $100 on high caliber regional tourist attractions. In the NORTHEAST GUIDE, for example, these include Mystic Seaport, American Shakespeare Festival at Stratford, and the Rockefeller Center Tour.

And Mobil Guide's superb travel information saves you even more

But these spectacular guest coupons are only the frosting on the cake! Each of the new 1964 MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDES can save you and your family far more than $42 or $100 by its exhaustive, travel-wise information on the best buys in food and lodgings.

Wherever you go in the U.S., whatever your budget — the MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDE'S descriptive check list of hotels, motels and restaurants will get you the most travel pleasure for your money — in terms of good food, good service, charming atmosphere, comfortable accommodations, and all the amenities for you and your children.

Unprecedented on-the-spot inspection and rating of every establishment listed

Every year MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDES are completely updated. Every year 47 inspectors travel and re-travel more than a quarter of a million miles through the United States, in making unannounced inspections of over 25,000 hotels, motels and restaurants. Their complete, candid reports on the best of these appear in MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDES.

Actual prices are given. Accurate one-to-five-star ratings point out not only the finest places, but also the best buys for your vacation dollar.

All your questions are answered: Is this restaurant worth a detour? What's the best inexpensive hotel we can find before it gets dark? Will they furnish a baby sitter? Put up our dog? Where can I get clothes cleaned quickly? What's the best luxury hotel? How much? Whatever you ask, you'll find the answer in your MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDE.

In addition, each Guide gives information about places to see in its area — museums, historical sites, beautiful spots, famous buildings, parks, recreation, festivals and other annual events.

SPECIAL WORLD'S FAIR INFORMATION

Each of the 6 new MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDES contains over 450 pages and includes approximately 2,800 listings. All the guides — no matter to which region — contain the 17 World's Fair coupons in addition to coupons for local attractions.

But for special World's Fair information, get the 528-page MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDE TO THE NORTHEAST. It includes a two-page map of the Fair, plus suggested itineraries for one-day, two-day, and three-day visits, plus detailed information on all the Fair pavilions. Just under 100 jam-packed pages are devoted to the Fair and New York City — with descriptions, prices, ratings for 432 restaurants, 96 hotels, and 26 nightclubs.

ORDER YOUR COPIES TODAY

Whether you're heading for the Fair or for California or points between, there's a MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDE for you. And once you've used it, you'll never again dream of leaving home without one tucked under your arm. Like the great French Michelin guides on which they were modeled, MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDES are absolutely reliable and trustworthy. They take the irritation, fatigue and money-wasting out of the trip, and leave you free to savor the joy of travel.

MOBIL TRAVEL GUIDES are available in paperback for only $1.50 apiece. Send for yours today. Available at all bookstores, or mail the coupon below to SIMON AND SCHUSTER, INC., Dept. WF, 630 Fifth Ave., New York 10020.

These comments are typical of hundreds from satisfied users across the land

"For three years, we have used Mobil Travel Guides — Not once have we encountered a motel, inn or restaurant which did not fulfill your description — it's the only guide we have ever used which has been accurate. We're 'lost' without it. Thanks again."
—W. S., Mt. Kisco, N. Y.

"Having used the GUIDE MICHELIN in France, Italy and Spain for many years, I previously regretted that there was no similar American guide. Returning to the United States after six years in Europe, I am delighted to discover the Mobil Travel Guides and I am writing to congratulate you for their publication."
—F. C., Wash. D. C.

"Our congratulations to the Mobil Oil Co. and to Simon and Schuster for publishing this series of guides. I don't know when we, as a family, have been more enthusiastic about anything. The New England book saved us a great deal of money and at the same time ensured us of uniformly good to excellent places to eat and sleep. This kind of thing has for long been needed in this country, and we are delighted to see that it has been undertaken so well."
—S. B., Closter, N. J.

"We traveled over 6,000 miles to West Coast and back. We used two Mobil Guide Books constantly — we would have been lost without them."
—A. C., Antioch, Tenn.

"Excellent regional 'Baedekers' to good food and lodging all over the U.S.A. Even without these money-saving certificates, each would be a bonanza of a bargain in information at $1.50 apiece."
—House Beautiful

THE Petals of Happiness

On Father's day, how many dads look back, as does this noted author, on the time—that frightening, hopeful time—when their first offspring came into the world?

A CHINESE SAGE once wrote that there are "three petals to the Flower of Happiness": a man must write a book, become a father of a son, and build a house.

It would be many years before Gladys and I could build our present house beside our waterfall. But late in February, 1929, when we were young and almost penniless, the first two petals of this flower of happiness unfolded.

We had been in love since we first met at 15 and had married while I was still earning my way through the University of Chicago. We were as poor as all proverbial poets, but hard-working and hopeful. A full schedule at school and a full-time job took much of our time. Somehow we also found the energy to write verse for many national magazines, furnish the lyrics for the campus musical comedy (Beatrice Lillie sang my "Helen of Troy" on three continents), and write a book.

The first book and the first baby were more than casually related. We have found over the years that either a book or a baby takes some nine months of gestation, plus a certain amount of misery before the ultimate joy. But the immediate acceptance of my first book by Houghton Mifflin in Boston and publishers in Berlin and London made a baby economically possible. Now by some celestial coincidence we found that both probably would appear on the same day.

The book was my romantic but factual biography of a fascinating old sea captain who had signed on as a cabin boy at the age of 12 and who owned his tramp schooner in his 20s. We called the book, "The Pedro Gorino," after the strange name of his schooner.

Now on the evening of Monday, Feb. 25th, 1929—20 months after Gladys and I had taken our vows in a Methodist parsonage in Waukegan, Ill.—it was apparent that book and baby would complicate my senior year but enrich it quite beyond measure.

During the afternoon I had cut all my classes to help arrange a window at Marshall Field's—ivory tusks, native drums and spears, lion skins, and a great pyramid of my book. I came home elated through a freezing rain to find Gladys at work on a poster which was needed to go with this display.

She continued to work industriously with her India ink and lettering pens, doing a beautiful job of calligraphy. At about 8 in the evening, she paused for a few minutes and closed her eyes. With characteristic courage, she refused to admit that she had felt her first birth pain. But there was no way to hide the next pain or the next.

"I must get you to the hospital," I insisted.

"BUT TOMORROW is publication day, and I haven't finished my poster for the window."

"To the devil with the poster! I'm calling a cab."

Gladys had been carefully instructed by our obstetrician, David Hillis. She knew that the pains had to be regular and frequent, and she now insisted that they were highly irregular.

"We have plenty of time," she said. Her hand scarcely quavered as she dipped her pen into the ink and continued lettering.

The next half hour was one of

As we passed a bank of windows, my lovely girl, wan but smiling, said softly, "Look, the sun is shining."

the longest in my life. Gladys is charming. But she comes of bold Scottish blood, and she can be sweetly stubborn on occasion. The birth pains abated for a time, then they began again at regular six-minute intervals.

Now I insisted upon calling our doctor, who by chance was in the delivery room with another young mother. The head nurse on the obstetrical floor at St. Luke's seemed relatively unconcerned. It was her opinion that we had no need to worry until the pains came at five-minute intervals or less. But she was cooperative in taking all the needed information over the telephone and in promising to speed us through the admissions department when we arrived. She also said she was reserving a bed in a semi-private room.

GLADYS has always been the steady one, while I am sometimes quite emotional. After all, this was our first baby—an unprecedented event. I was sure it had never happened previously to a young father. It took me several minutes to find the number of the nearest cab company. I told the operator that it was an extreme emergency, and I urged the cab dispatcher to rush the first available cab to our address—that in fact it was a matter of life or death. It was beyond comprehension that Gladys continued to work systematically on the poster.

"What shall I pack in your suitcase, Darling?"

"It's all packed," Gladys said, "just bring it from the closet."

What amazing foresight, I thought. What composure! I was suffused with admiration and love and concern. Somehow I managed to get out our coats, hats, rubbers, and umbrella. But where in heaven's name was that infernal cab? Every 30 seconds I would look down to the rain-swept street to see if the idiot cab driver had finally arrived.

At last I saw the cab emerge from the mist and pull up at the door. I tried to put on my rubbers and got them on the wrong feet. It didn't matter. Nothing mattered except getting Gladys to the hospital in time.

"There, I'm just finished," she said, holding up the poster. "How do you like it?"

"It's beautiful, Darling," I said, scarcely glancing at her work. "Now hurry!"

Once we were in the cab, speeding through the downpour, the nightmare aspects took over in my mind. I felt, as many a young husband must have felt, a sense of guilt and remorse. It was all my fault. I shouldn't have urged her to marry me while we were still so young and poor. We shouldn't have decided to have a baby while I was still in college. I should never have let her finish the poster before whisking her off to the hospital. If anything were to happen to her or to the baby I would never be able to forgive myself.

"Lousy weather," the driver said. "What's the all-fired rush?"

"We're going to have a baby."

"So we should all kill ourselves," the driver said. "My wife's had six kids. Always has 'em in the middle of the night in lousy weather."

Mile after dreary mile, we sped past dim buildings and enhaloed street lights until at last we reached St. Luke's. Hospitals are horrible places to me in any case. Temples of sterile sanctity, forced joviality, and death. This seemed no place to be bringing my wife on that bitter February evening.

SINCE IT was long after visiting hours, I was not allowed to see her to her room. But the pains had ceased again, and we both knew it might be many hours. I left her at the elevator, fighting back the thought that maybe I was seeing her alive for the last time. I told her I would spend the night at the little hotel just across the street, and I begged her to have the maternity ward call me at any moment I was wanted. Needless to say, I only dozed fitfully, twisting and turning; wondering, fearing, and hoping.

I must have dropped into a deep but troubled sleep shortly before dawn because when I awoke the sun was breaking through the clouds and the telephone at my bedside was ringing. It was the reassuring voice of Dr. Hillis, who had dealt with many prospective fathers in his years of practice.

"Now everything is going along beautifully, Sterling. Gladys is all right, and it won't be too long now. She insisted that I call you."

I was dressed and at the hospital in a matter of minutes, but I couldn't read or sit still in the fathers' waiting room. I was amazed at some of the other prospective fathers. One was actually asleep and snoring in his chair. But there were others, mostly the younger ones, who looked as distraught as I was. Each time a nurse came in, my heart leaped with hope and then sank dismally again.

FINALLY, just before noon, my good news came. It was a beautiful little boy, the nurse said, perfect in every way, and my wife had come through splendidly. I rushed into the hall to see my lovely girl, wan but smiling, being wheeled back to her room.

As we passed a bank of windows, she said softly, "Look, the sun is shining!"

"Yes, I know, Darling."

"But you don't understand. It's shining for us!"

For the most part, it has shone ever since. David was, and is, a son who has always given us delight. Arielle, born three years later, has given us equal joy. And since the simultaneous appearance of our first child and first book, 27 subsequent titles have come from my typewriter, a few of them best sellers. Now that the children are through Princeton and Swarthmore and happily married, there is the additional blessing of four grandchildren—two from each child. And despite our share of woes and heartaches, we are still as hopeful as we were on that inspiring day when we were 22.

Yes, the sun was shining for us. In fact it is shining right now outside my study window on our gleaming little lake and waterfall.
